1953 MAKIO

The Ohio State University
Volume 72

It is with pride that we present the 1953 Makio for your approval. It is written for, about, and by the students of the Ohio State University and it is to the students that we dedicate it. We have here recorded events of the past year as we watched them, lived them, and brought about their happening. And because we want to remember more than can be recorded pictorially or in writing, we have recorded in sound the hectic hubbub, constant activity, and beautiful tradition.

We created the book and brought about its arrangement and to us it seems more than just a documentary record of a college year. It is progress . . . it is the growth of its creators . . . and it is a wonderful memory bound between these covers . . .

THE MAKIO

of the Ohio State University

Columbus, Ohio

nineteen hundred and fifty three

The Ohio State University in expressing its mere gratitude to the state of Ohio would be understating its manifest indebtedness. The University's progress in all fields and its very existence has been dependent upon the will of the people, legislators, and governors through these many years. The high development of Ohio's commerce, industry, and agriculture has been reflected in the opportunities for study at Ohio State. Cultural and humane influences in the State have given rise to curricula in social sciences, medicine, and arts. Nevertheless, the Ohio State University is only a part of the State's great educational system which includes nearly five thousand elementary and secondary schools and fifty-four colleges and universities.

In one hundred and fifty years Ohio has built itself from a savage wilderness into a great state, not only through its rich mineral resources, fertile soil, and extensive waterways, but also through the wealth of mental ability of its people. The University has been repaying the State with a constant stream of people enriched with knowledge, thus helping Ohio attain a higher place in the leadership of the nation and of the world.

Complicated schedule cards and numerous applications, countless shopping trips, fabulous tales of college spun at summer rush parties, fond farewells to the high school gang — all are behind Nancy Siegel now as she moves into exciting confusion at Baker.

First Things First

150 Student Leaders show how it's done . . .

Things had changed more than a little since the first group of freshmen were orientated here 79 years ago. This time there were about 4,000 more frosh and 2,800 more instructors. Faculty members used lecture tables instead of carpenter's benches and this time no construction workers wandered inadvertently through classrooms carrying mortar, lumber, or blueprints. And Orientation Week had also evolved considerably since the time the Board of Trustees set aside $5000 in 1927 for the first Orientation Week program.

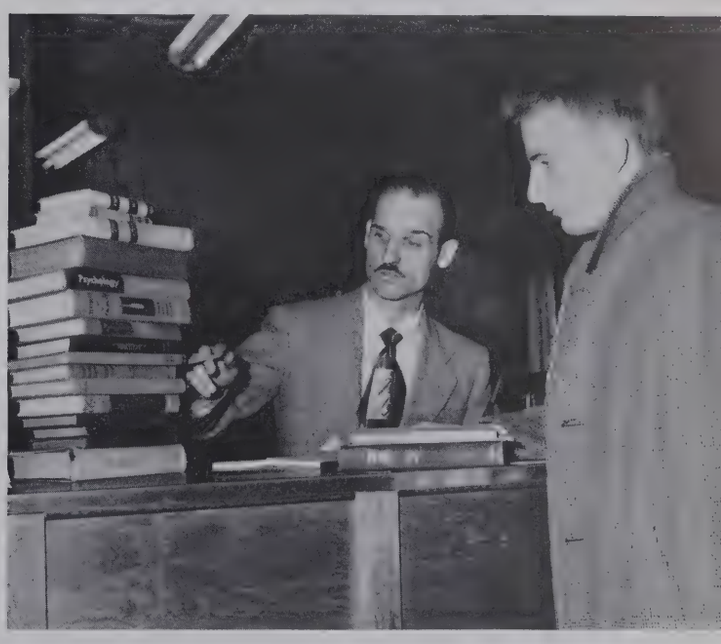
Now there were 150 trained student leaders with scarlet and gray badges to greet and direct puzzled new Ohio Staters. Now there were faculty staff members with best wishes and measured advice on their lips. Now there was a speech in the stadium from the President of the University. Now there were tests, tests, tests to ascertain all sorts of proficiencies and improficiencies.

The fraternities had their own special hello to give that week, and give it they did, as Greek after Greek sized up rushee after rushee.

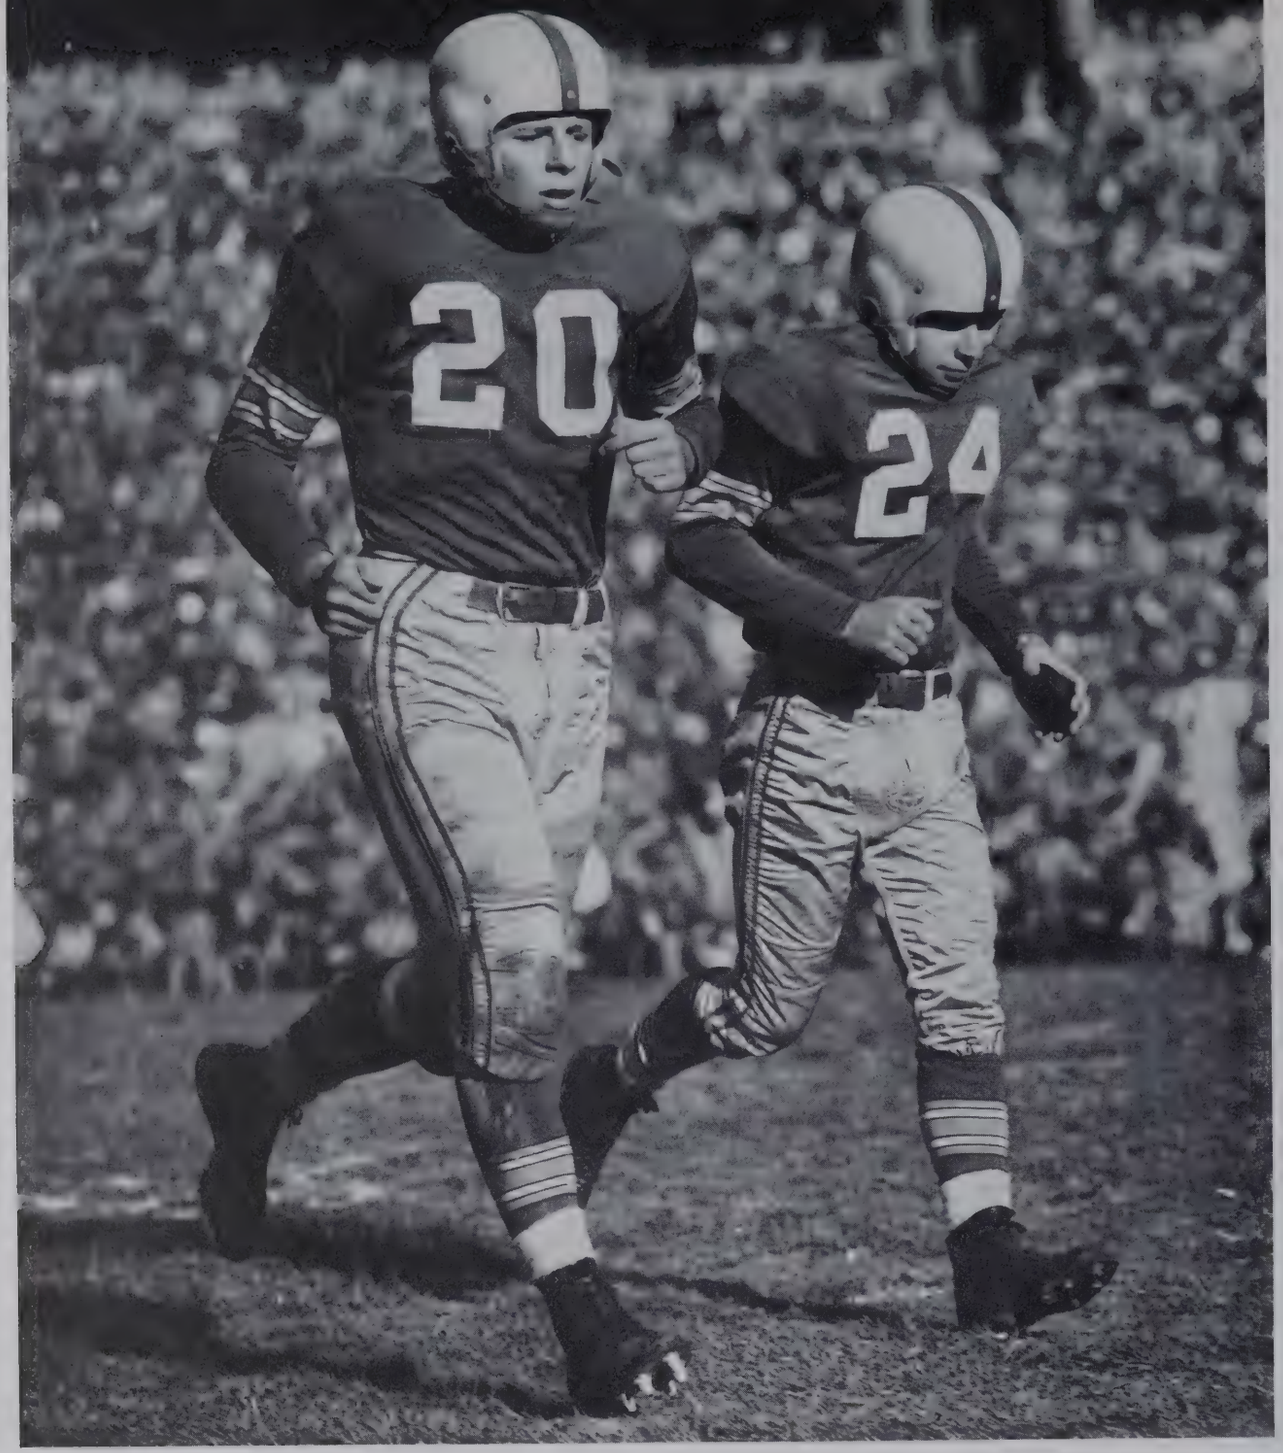
There was the usual amount of frosh who were confused, misguided, and lost. But eventually all that were intended to get orientated, got orientated. Student Director Keith Welborn and Faculty Co-ordinator Bill Guthrie had done a tremendous job extending a warm welcome to OSU freshmen.

Vice President Stradley on hand with a word of welcome for the freshmen lining the Long Walk on this cool September morning. The Veep is an old hand at these welcoming words and student leaders smile to hear again the familiar " . . . at the center of this magnificent state of eight million people, lie 2,200 beautiful acres . . . " They know how well he can tell the story of the beginning of another great year for 'his' University.

The first lesson at the University as glimpsed through the doors at Long's. Yes, my darling freshmen, here at Ohio State we stand in line after line after line . . . even for books.



Orientation Week means enthusiastic welcomes . . . from every corner of campus! Here the Lutheran Student Center registers new freshmen who will find within its walls friendship, activity, and inspirational guidance.



John Borton (20), and Tad Weed, point-after specialist, determinedly set about the business of the day.

Football Season

After a long, sleepy summer the campus was alive again . . .

Early in the morning the pennant peddlers and program sellers had begun to line the way to the stadium; pledges had worked busily, transforming the 15th Ave. sorority houses for the after-the-game open houses; newsies had bawled the front-liner predictions for another conference crown and had flashed the football special editions; alums had trapsed the campus once again, some had been special guests at the President's pre-game luncheon. We had welcomed this football day enthusiastically.

Then . . . the drums rolled; 120 new pairs of sparkling spats flashed into perfect, precise high-step; a victory cheer reverberated from a knot of white helmets and scarlet numeraled jerseys and was echoed by a "Yeeaa OHIO", eighty thousand voices strong. The mighty Buckeyes surged on to the beautifully green gridiron to do battle once more, this time to swamp Indiana's cream and crimson warriors . . . and the football season was underway in the typical, unforgettable Ohio State way . . .

Across the field the west tower of the stadium looms as a backdrop for the student's-eye view of every football moment. Once glimpsed in full football color of a sunny Saturday afternoon, it leaves a memorable impression . . .

Football season again and all the very special excitement that goes along with it is reflected by these game-goers. They are following the crowd over the time-worn route from 15th Avenue down through the campus, here past the Administration Building, to pass old U. Hall and then to catch a first glimpse of the stadium down College Street.

Ohio State Marching Band

Spirit was their by-word . . .

All of the enthusiasm and spirit that moved a crowd of eighty thousand to its feet for every kickoff seemed to stem from a group of 120 men nattily attired in navy blue, scarlet and grey trimmed uniforms and white spats—the Ohio State Marching Band. This remarkable group exhibited the particular spirit in question at every football game with fabulous performances of musical formation that put any (and we mean any) similar organization in the country to shame. Besides the field formations, they entertained football crowds with sideline demonstrations of their fervor in backing the Buckeyes. Always the success of pre-game rallies depended upon their performances there.

Weeks of rigorous practice under the watchful eye of Director Jack Evans preceded every exhibition of marching skill. Members were chosen only after meeting stiff tests of musical ability and physical agility which they displayed convincingly with every performance of the Band.

Nothing short of a touchdown against Michigan can equal the pride Buckeye Fans feel while watching their smart, snappy, All-American Marching Band strut across the gridiron, sending a musical challenge echoing throughout the vast Ohio stadium.

Energetic Jim Bodman of Alpha Tau Omega led the Marching Band into intricate formations this year.

In an exhibition of spirit that Band members displayed even on the sidelines, trumpeters give the cheerleaders a hand and provide musical accompaniment for enthused cheer section.

Most enthusiastically received and most familiar of all formations of the Band is the famous Script Ohio. Tradition has it that the Tuba man longest a Band member is accorded the honor of dotting the "i".

Pausing a moment from the rigors of Band practice, members stop to welcome each other to another year of fabulous and talented performances.

Marching Band

. . . The first week of school preceding the first performance was a busy one for every Band member. Eight hours of grueling competitive practice occupied each member's day. During these practice sessions, every man who aspired to a regular Saturday afternoon position with the Band proved his worth by marching at the pace of 180 archy high steps per minute. He was expected to commit to memory his part in each of the intricate formations and the musical accompaniments as a matter of course.

Rigorous as the requirements may have been, the honor of performing under the baton of Jack Evans proved a great inspiration . . . approximately 300 men turned out to compete for positions. And when the practices were done Director Evans had 120 top performers plus three alternates (just as good) for each row.

From his high lookout in the west side of the Stadium, Jack Evans, with the aid of the loudspeaker system, directs the Marching Band in practice.

Excitement mounts in the last minutes before the performance. Here the Band watches every step of the opposing band's show, while waiting to make its own spectacular appearance.

Stan Gottsegen and his Dads Day Committee engineered the huge luncheon at the Ohio Union honoring all OSU dads. Guest of honor was Sam DeMichele who addressed the crowd and expressed the thanks of all the dads for a tribute, gladly and proudly given.

Dads' Day

Hats off to Sam DeMichele . . .

It was grey and cold and dreary but the campus radiated with the warmth of a wonderful welcome for some wonderful guys . . . our dads! They were treated to Days Day luncheons at sorority and fraternity houses and escorted to the Pitt game by proud sons and daughters. Dad of Dads was Sam DeMichele of Steubenville, escorted into Columbus by the State Highway Patrol and welcomed here by the Marching Band. He graciously accepted the tribute at half time of the Pitt game.

Tackle George Jacoby stops before gametime to talk to his honored guest for the day, Dad Jacoby, who had a seat reserved for him on the players bench as did all the players dads.

Behind a fabulous weekend, the Homecoming Committee. Seated: Keith Welborn, Dick Felty, Chairman Bill Judy, Marge Pfeiffer, Chuck Petri; Standing: Bill Sellers and John Crawford.

We whooped it up at the site of the next day's victory around the traditional Homecoming bonfire rally. The Marching Band led the way, parading down through campus to pick us up.

They are Donna Mercer, Alpha Delta Pi; Loie Milsom, Alpha Phi; Carolyn Rhoten, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Her Majesty Ellie Boley, Canfield Hall; Barb Swank, Delta Gamma; and Sylvia Taylor, Sigma Delta Tau. Eliot Lawrence supplied music for dance in their honor.

Homecoming

A wind storm fanned our enthusiasm . . .

Twenty big fat points — that's what the stadium scoreboard showed in our favor at the end of the most satisfying Homecoming Game we've seen in eight years! Michigan was on the little end of that score and lustily we sang our favorite song about what we don't give for the whole State of Michigan! Surely the Bucks had caught some of the contagious spirit that went into the whole Homecoming weekend. Decorations were bigger and better (before a disastrous wind wend to work); enthusiasm from the Homecoming rally carried Woody and the boys right into a victory; vigorous campaigning for Homecoming Queen delighted the whole campus and ended with the election of the lovliest Queen and court we remember.

Homecoming

. . . a quick departure from that last Friday class marked the beginning of the most greatly anticipated weekend of Fall Quarter—Homecoming! First, a tour of the fraternity and sorority district where greeks battled to keep signs up and paper mache football players intact in the face of a blustery wind blowing in from Michigan. The decorations, clever as they were, were not in most cases designed to take the buffeting of the rising wind and no sooner had the judges' car passed than many were reduced to little more than a few bits of scaffolding and a valiant chicken wire figure or two rapidly losing stuffing. Phi Psi's voiced the opinion of many a despairing decorations chairman and posted a defiant "TO HELL WITH IT, WE'LL MEET YOU AT LARRY'S" . . .

The wind served to fan the Homecoming bonfire right into an inspirational victory glow Friday night at the football rally down by the stadium. It whipped an enthusiastic crowd of two thousand into long, loud cheers as Bill Judy introduced the lovely Homecoming Court and an inspired football team. Woody promised a victory in no uncertain terms, left the chanting, cheering crowd, and next day turned the promise into a wonderful reality.

From the rally we went on to the big Homecoming dance in the Union where the music of Elliott Lawrence blew hot and sweet in tune with a fabulous Fall weekend.

Ingenious Phi Gamma Delta's took the first prize for Homecoming decorations with this display. The giant honey-bear was stung by moving bees, set in motion by energetic members of the Fiji pledge class . . .

A Phi Delt English major was the inspiration behind these decorations for the Homecoming weekend, no doubt. With their own version of Rime of the Ancient Mariner they predict Michigan game outcome.

Pledge Princess Prom

Fraternity and sorority pledges stepped into the social spotlight at the beginning of Winter Quarter when they sponsored their annual Pledge Princess Prom. All those pledge clases represented on the Freshman Fraternity Council contributed time and effort toward this traditionally favorite pledge project. They assigned Howdy Gorman the task of supplying the music and intermission entertainment was left in the hands of the pledges deemed most talented by the FCC. Tri-Delta, Phi Delt, Phi Psi, and Delta Gamma talent won the applause and approval from guest actives.

Blue-eyed, sandy-haired Ronni Keogan graciously accepted the title of Pledge Princess bestowed upon her after an election of all the pledge classes. Ron Bell, Beta Theta Pi, did the honors, presenting the lovely DG pledge with a large gold trophy and a kiss that proved he had mastered the Beta grip already.

Favorite of all the pledge classes was Delta Gamma Ronnie Keogen, chosen to reign as Pledge Princess. Presenting her trophy is Ron Bell, FFC president.

Crooner-King Al Germanson does his bit in appreciation for being elected 1953 Golddiggers' King.

Golddiggers

The men never had it so good.

Gentlemen, you never had it so good . . . and they never did! For the gals outdid themselves this year when WSGA's annual Golddiggers' Eve hove into sight. Sorority house mothers and house presidents and dorm cooking staffs planned fabulous meals in accordance with an old adage that says something about the way to a man's heart . . . young women all over campus plagued telephone operators for the numbers of their favorite escorts and badgered unsympathetic fathers for bonuses in the weekly allowance. Tillie Winterkamp and Nancy Vesper, stalwart members of the WSGA committee on such things, catered to the wishes of Council of Fraternity Presidents and planned King Eliminations . . .

The men, meanwhile, delightedly answered an increased number of phone calls with "I'm sorry, I've already made plans for Saturday night", happily weighed the prospects of an evening at the Ionian Room or a dinner at exclusive (and expensive) Columbus dinner spots, and frantically discriminated among fraternity brothers who could sing as well as Barney Vavroch.

Travelling combos, ukulele players, quarters, chorus lines, tap dancers, and witty emcees emerged from 16 of the fraternity houses to back debonair candidates for Golddiggers' King. Favorites proved to be Al Germanson, elected King to the delight of Beta brothers who backed a winning candidate last year, and members of his court: blonde ukulele strummer Doke Keener of Delta Upsilon; John Easton, backed by an energetic ATO quarter, cooly detached Dick Cleveland of Sigma Chi; double-jointed Sig Ep, John Crawford; and Phi Delta Theta Jim Heitiko, who was majoring in Home Economics.

The girls not only called to make dates, arranged transportation, and picked up checks, they held doors, coats, and chairs at dinner and men of Alpha Tau Omega took full advantage of the situation.

Phi Delta Theta's delight the DG's with a campaign skit concerning famous men in history. Pictured are a few cave men, Cyrano De Bergerac, and Jim Heitiko who almost didn't make it into the picture.He was campaigning privately for a date for the Golddiggers' Dance.

The Sig-aires, Sigma Chi quartet, gained quite a favorable reputation for themselves as they backed up casual Dick Cleveland as their candidate for Golddiggers' King when he crooned "I'm In Love with You".

The Golddiggers' Dance in the Union ballrooms was the chief entertainment for the evening . . . it was there that Beverly Klunk presented King Al Germanson with his crown.

Greek Week

Interfraternity hustling — competition and co-operation . . .

A harried week for every sorority and fraternity social chairman, Greek Week this year was also a huge success. Art Kaplansky of Sigma Alpha Mu and Sara Kreglow of Chi Omega collaborated as co-chairman of the seven day merry-go-round of Greek activity. Exchange dinners — two of them for every sorority and fraternity — were the main weeknight activity and Tuesday night the gals practised their favorite sorority songs to serenade the men. Wednesday night, fraternities played host to visiting sorority women at individual open houses. Thursday the men foorsook their studies to attend the inter-fraternity stag party held at the Macedonian Club (Macedonian, Greek — all in the spirit of Greek Week, we presume).

Saturday afternoon of Greek Week-end was devoted to an extended March of Dimes drive for which sororities and fraternities teamed up to collect well over three thousand dollars. DGs and Sammies proved most successful with their collection campaign — an improvised street-corner show at the corner of Broad and High Streets in downtown Columbus.

Best of all was the annual Greek Week Stunt Night competition won hands down by ingenious AEPi's who presented a take-off on WSGA proceedings with original words and music. Phi Kappa Sigs placed second by poking fun at Social Board, and Alpha Delta Pi took the third place trophy. Prize winners were announced at the Greek Week Dance Saturday night to the accompaniment of Elliot Lawrence and his band.

National celebrities and famous alums found a warm welcome at Ohio State . . .

Almost every week we welcomed another famous personality to the campus. Favorite recording artists were contracted for each of the big campus dances, the Day of Champions brought back our famous All-American athletes, and the University Lecture Series invited the country's greatest men of letters to present their favorite works to enthusiastic audiences

Stan the man and his band graced the Union bandstand last Spring Quarter and hypnotized a happy crowd with his particular brand of Kenton artistry. The dance floor was almost too crowded for dancing and Kenton complied with an impromptu concert to the delight of the standees crowding the bandstand.

The football season brought back many a famous alum who hadn't forgotten the thrill of an afternoon spent in the packed stadium. Chic Harley and Vic Janowicz, All-Americans from different eras, were here to relive their gridiron memories. Jesse Owens, most famous of Ohio State's Olympic champions, thrilled a Day of Champions crowd with an address on behalf of all the champions honored that day. Sigma Chis welcomed alum Milt Caniff of Steve Canyon fame when he appeared at the 15th Ave. house for the Homecoming Banquet.

Elliot Lawrence was the Union's guest artist for Fall Quarter and his music was so popular he agreed to another appearance on the bandstand the next quarter.

CHARLES LAUGHTON peers at the Makio photographer over the stack of books from which he read favorite selections of prose and poetry during his one-man show Spring Quarter.

JOHNNY LONG of "Shanty in the Town" fame pauses between numbers during his engagement on the Union bandstand for one of their quarterly sponsored all-campus dances.

ELLIOT LAWRENCE and his band proved popular enough with students who crowded the Union to warrant another invitation from the Greek Week committee.

LOWELL THOMAS, well known radio personality, visited campus to present a fascinating lecture about his brilliant career as author, explorer, and commentator.

STAN KENTON beams across the keyboard at the capacity crowd which jammed the Union ballrooms to listen and dance to distinctive Kenton arrangements.

Lowell Thomas found his way through the gates of the University in October. His commentary packed the University Hall auditorium and an enthralled crowd listened to tales of his adventures which have taken him to many out-of-the-way places throughout the world.

In January Carl Sandburg, twice a Pulitzer Prize winner in poetry, and John Mason Brown, Associate Editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, came to the campus at the invitation of the University's speech department. Sandburg with his reading of selections of his own favorite poems and Brown with his witty commentary on current literature and drama presented a brilliant evening's entertainment in University Hall chapel.

Commander Irving Johnson, plucky captain of the good ship Yankee, arrived on campus in February to present one of the most popular lectures of University Lecture Series. Spinning a romantic deep-sea yarn, he told the story of his round the world cruise with a young, amateur crew on his brigantine, the Yankee. Colored motion pictures of the 2½ year cruise supplemented his sparkling commentary.

The end of May meant the appearance of Charles Laughton, a favorite of the campus movie-goers. On a Sunday afternoon he thrilled the audience at University Hall with flawlessly artistic readings of his favorite prose and poetry selections. His one-man show will long be remembered.

Henry Fonda, appearing in Columbus at the Hartman Theatre in The Point of No Return, paid the campus a visit and was made an honorary member of the dramatics honorary . . . and Dagmar was here, an honored guest at the football players' pre-game banquet the weekend of the Pittsburgh game . . . and our favorite campus guest was Mr. Dougherty, composer of Fight the Team.!

Vacation Time

An escape from Social Board . . .

There was the Florida sun and there was the beach, but not everyone was sober enough some days to make it to the beach There was Coppertone, a suntan stimulant that was supposed to bring everyone that nutmeg color that people back in Ohio would envy. There was Gary's, where you could take a date and sing Ohio State songs and there was Porky's, where you could pick up a date and sing dirtier Ohio State songs. There were the dog races in nearby Hollywood, Florida, where one Buckeye made five dollars and there were the Gulf Stream horse races where another lost 50. Then there were the jai lai games if you wanted to bet more money and there were five cent grapefruits to eat for supper when your jai lai game didn't come in. There were girls from other schools doing the hoolah in the Sea Breeze and women from other worlds doing the freeload in the more alcoholic Elbo Room. For it's not to sail that they go to Lauderdale, but to drink beer while they're there.

There were however, other individualists who chose to desert the snow bound campus for the entire Winter Quarter and soak up a bit of south-of-the-border culture. The new climate inspired a desire for a few lessons in Mexican history, silver jewelry appraisal ,and basket-weaving which they received at the University of Mexico in Mexico City.

In early Spring nearly a thousand more fortunate students journey to Florida for a brief change of climate and scenery.

Winter Quarter at the University of Mexico presents a new and adventuresome life for Ohio State students. Here are some of the people as they arrived in Mexico City and were serenaded by the Chamber of Commerce.

Ray Anthony with one of the top band's in the country beat out plenty of dance music and entertainment.

Military Ball

Low lights, Ray Anthony's music, and lots of brass . . .

All the militarily minded members of the University's ROTC program turned out in full dress uniform for the Military Ball, traditionally the most spectacular of the Spring Quarter dances. Planned by the Military Council and dance chairmen, Loyd Turner and Ted Griffith, the dance drew a crowd of three thousand to the Union ballrooms which had been decorated for the evening. Ray Anthony and his popular band provided the musical background.

Intermission began with a display of drill team precision presented by the campus Navy, Air Force and Pershing Rifles Drill Teams. They were followed with an exhibition by the Scabbard and Blade Drill Team which finished with a flourish of blades lifted high to form an aisle for presentation of the Military Ball Queen and her court members. Nita Hunt of Alpha Delta Pi, candidate of the Arnold Air Society, was elected by the Military to reign for the evening and attending her were Ronni Keogan, Pat Potter, Connie Harlan, and Kim Sears.

The docorations provided a backdrop for the Queen and the court: Connie Harlan, Nita Hunt, Ronni Keogan, Pat Potter, and Kim Sears. Col. Devereaux is about to present the trophy.

An equally enthusiastic group at the Ball was the officers, some in full dress, and their wives.

Winter was still upon us as the advent of the Military Ball was publicized with cars, tanks, and queens.

Army olive drab, Air Force blue, Navy blue, and even Civil War blue took over the floor in turn for drill.

The uniforms and the many colors of formals made the Military Ball the year's most colorful affair.

A cloudless afternoon, the Oval decked in Spring again
Only today . . . a flurry of excitement, and People, people, people . . . watching, waiting for, catching sight of Spring's most spectacular event . . . May Week Float Parade.

A happy climax to Max Holzer's May Week—he has just been 'linked' by Sphinx man Bob Forney!

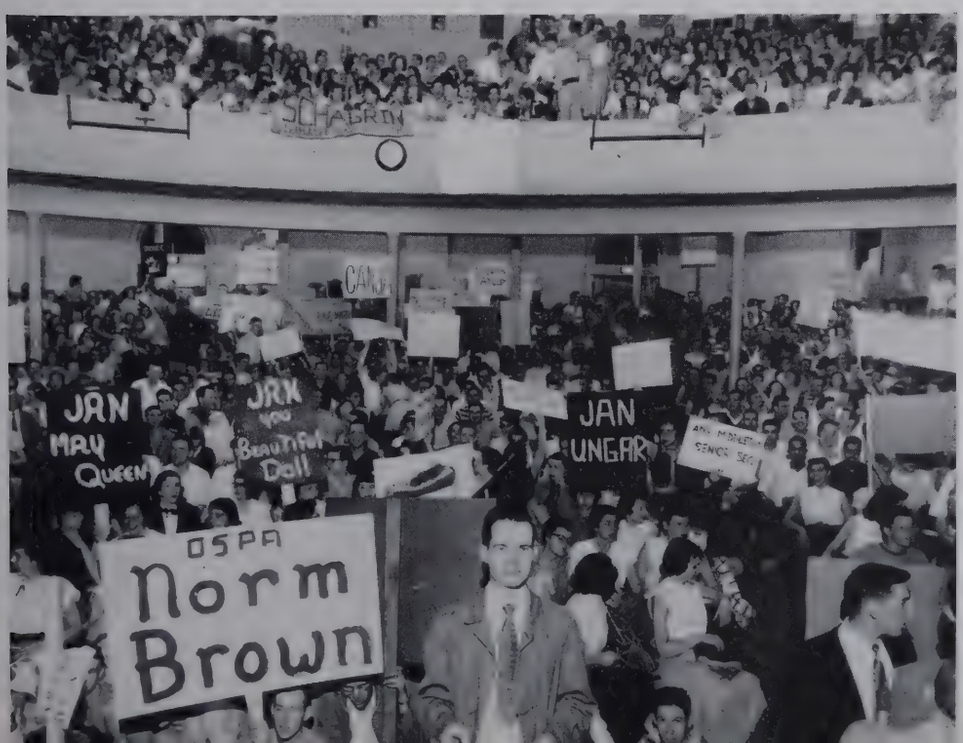
Take your choice! Ten Lovelies interrupt campus comings and goings campaigning for May Queen.

May Week

The committee said 'bigger and better' . . . and they meant it!

Max Holzer and the May Week Committee, the Administration, and the weatherman in a combined effort proved to be the irresistible force which met the immovable student apathy toward other May Weeks . . . with a clash that resulted in a large mushroom-shaped cloud of solid enjoyment that could be seen for miles around the campus. Hectic campaigning and the traditional campus-full of banners, posters, blaring loudspeakers, and well-convertibled candidates set the pace. The enthusiasm mustered at the slightly rained-on rally Monday never died down.

Faculty found window-sill seats and crowds gathered Tuesday to pass judgment on the ingenuity of Greek and dorm groups competing with paper, chicken wire, and bare-shouldered beauty on parade. Phi Psi's, in accordance with an old Phi Psi tradition, took first place again with their 'carnival' float. Pi Phi's pert and pretty took second place. Kappa's and Sigs departed from the usual type of float and produced a 'Quo Vadis' extravaganza (they boasted a cast of 200) that stole the show, or parade, or something . . .



Campus politics take the spotlight and slight sprinkle won't dampen the enthusiasm of this rally-bound crew.

University Hall auditorium is the scene and the stage is set for an evening of vote-getting campaigning before elections.

It was a photographers' paradise as the crowd gathered and waited for the May Day afternoon events. The over-interested shutterbugs usually got splashed or caught in the middle of some game.

. . . Wednesday brought a presidential decree that student energies be directed toward strictly unacademic activities of baseball, push-ball, and greased pig chasing. Classes were dismissed for everybody except the 5000 Army, Navy, and Air Force ROTCers who treated us to spectacular hour-long military review on the Oval. President Bevis and prominent military leaders reviewed the troops and an eighty-six piece marching ROTC band provided the essential martial music.

Mirror Lake was the scene of much excitement Wednesday afternoon as we watched the freshman-sophomore tug-'o-war and frantic canoe races. Many an unsuspecting spectator and one unsuspecting chairman of the day's activities (name of Chic Martin) 'participated' in the watery melee. A damp and delighted crown were we.

Phi Delts relied on about twenty manpower to propel their Showboat float. Phi Dream Girl, Pat Seikel, and her lovely court provide the decoration amidships.

The finish line of the canoe race — to the winners go the spoils . . . and a swift sulphuric dunking awarded by the members of the gallery.

Sam Sobloski, scouting for the Cleveland Indians, watches interestedly as the faculty trounces the students in annual baseball game.

No use arguing, pal, the Veep says yer out! And Jim Mills, Harry Erb, Bill Hand, and Bill Judy are on hand to back up the Stradley decision.

Dynamic Delta Gammas steal the Panorama spotlight with a presentation of their prize-winning Greek Week 'Showboat' skit.

The order was for 4000 box lunches and not two drum sticks were left unclaimed.

. . . Wednesday evening and a picnic on the Oval . . . for the entire student body! Dorm dining halls, sorority and fraternity houses, and campus restaurants closed their doors and WSGA provided cold chicken, hot coffee, and all the trimmings. Honored guests were the May Queen candidates and outstanding student leaders in campus activities. The traditional May Supper was planned to a slightly more stupendous scale this year and we approved wholeheartedly!

And the day's activities did not end there, for the May Week Committee had still another 'bigger and better' planned in the form of a mostly musical May Panorama. A little wind and weather didn't spoil a review of the year's royalty, best skits, and musically accomplished University Choir, Men's Glee Club, and Interfraternity Sing winners.

Escort Tom Torbet really enjoyed the May Supper and the company of lovely Sylvia Taylor.

Thursday night and the carnival under the stadium was in full swing . . . and so was Miss Silverburg . . .

The Tri-Delt Barber Shop was a popular concession — three pretty Tri-Delt reasons are pictured here.

One of the most beautiful traditions of May Week is the 'tapping' of outstanding men and women Campus leaders by the senior honoraries, Mortar Board and Sphinx. An impressive part of the initiation takes place at the fountain by Mirror Lake.

Vice President Stradley congratulates new Sphinx member Bill Hand as President Bevis and graduating Sphinx man John Spence look on.

Mort Merchy suffers the traditional initiation of a newly tapped Bucket and Dipper member. Lee Peterseim, Dick Lutz, and Alba Whiteside do the honors.

May Queen

Lovely DG Barbara Lehman receives her May Queen trophy and an armload of roses from Bob Kessler, member of the Board of Judges. Max Holzer beams approval of her majesty.

The May Queen and her collegiate ladies of the court: Joyce Adams, Alpha Phi; Charlotte Boyd, Pi Beta Phi; Sylvia Taylor, Sigma Delta Tau; Queen Barbara Lehman, Delta Gamma; Carolyn Snook, Gamma Phi Beta; and Barb Quinlan, Delta Gamma.

One Saturday night during Spring Quarter the floor show of the Deshler Wallick's swank Ionian Room stars the best of the collegiate talent. Here the popular Gamma Phi Beta songsters serenade May Queen Barb Lehman and crooner Palle Gylov.

O S U Talent

Crooners, combos, and comedians give out with their best to entertain Ohio State.

Wendell Jones of Phi Kappa Tau was caught by the camera as he swings into his incomparable rendition of 'Lover'.

Campus funny-men John Crawford and his sidekick, Konstantine Solakoff convulse the audience with a favorite routine.

Pretty Barb Swank does the honors. The trophy goes this year to Marlin Able and the Phi Chi med fraternity combo.

. . . Speaking of talent, there is plenty to be found at the annual Talent Party sponsored by the Delta Gammas every Spring Quarter. Take a sunny Sunday afternoon, add the friendly hospitality to be found at 131 15th Ave., . . . a number of fraternity combos, . . . Mrs. Banker's talent for serving delicious refreshments . . . and you have the formula for the success of every Talent Party.

Beta's and the McVey Marvels, Delts and washtub-bull fiddle strummer Glen Read, the fabulous Teke House Five; all were on hand to keep the place jumping this year. Prize winners, picked by DG television star Pat Wilson, were members of the Phi Chi combo who practice while relaxing from the rigors of med school studies.

That's Merrill Hatfield, OSU basketball expert, providing the laughs as the Beta combo holds forth.

Delta combo here and they're all gone! You can practically hear the applause that won them succond place.

Wally Keller and Joe Marino, ukelele virtuosos and winners of last year's Talent Party trophies, defend their title to the DG's delight. From the smiles it must be a little 'Princess Papya.'

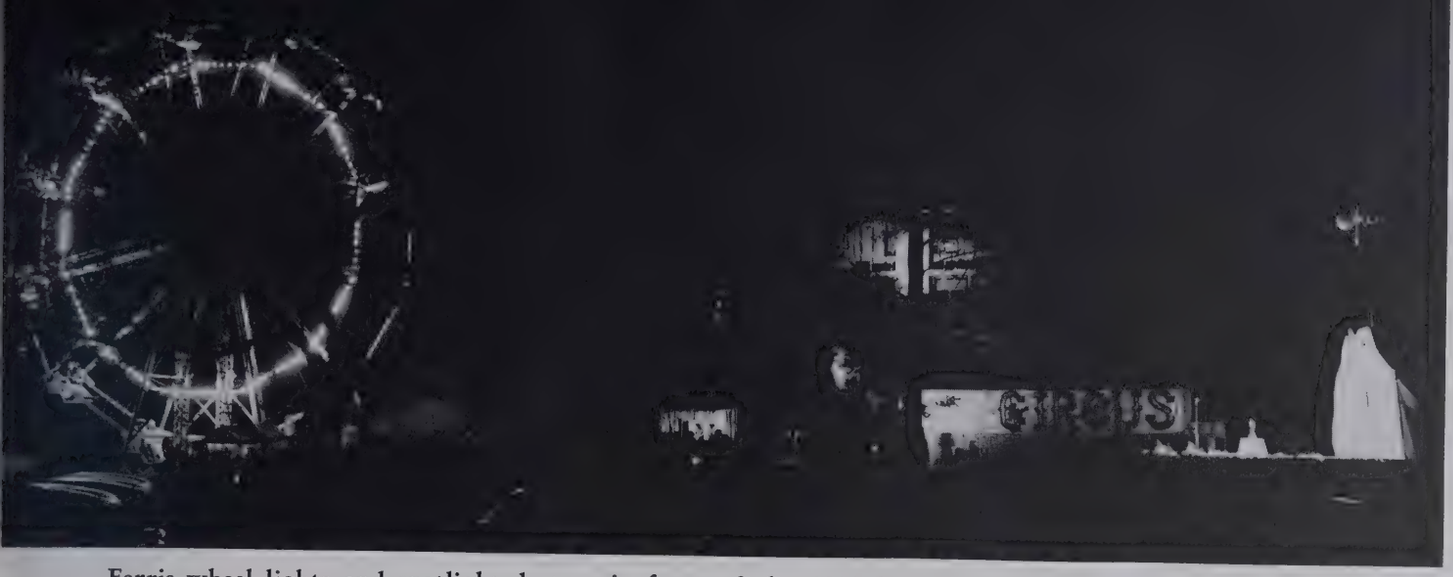
Pi Kappa Alphas and Pi Phis collaborated on a unique celebration of Pi Week this spring. Saturday afternoon was devoted to a pie-eating contest in which representatives of every fraternity and sorority were invited to participate. The onlookers watched D Phi Es win hands down due to the effort of pie-loving entry and the persistence of her manager. Both are pictured nearest the camera on the stage.

Pi Week . . . . .

Pansy Breakfast . . . . .

Tri-Delt models Leeann Hickman, Shirley Adams, Nancy Etter, and Anita Thomas were up early that morning packing exquisite Cole of Columbus clothes to be shown at their annual Pansy Breakfast style show.

The style show, a part of the traditional party for engaged senior women, always includes a mock wedding. The lovely 'bride' this year was Lisa Zinck, here assisted by Tri-Delt prexy Pat James and Jo Call.



Ferris wheel lights and spotlighted stage in front of the ATO house proclaim another fabulous Circus Party.

ATO Circus

ATO's are responsible for an evening-full of Spring Quarter entertainment. The event is their annual Circus Party on the ATO lawn. Complete with circus barkers, cane toss and dart-board concessions and a 50 foot ferris wheel, the place takes on a Ringling Bros. atmosphere. Main event of the evening takes place on the huge spotlighted stage where sorority groups compete with skits. Tri-Delts stole the show and first place trophy this year, DGs were second.

Lisa and 'groom', Sigma Chi Jack Taylor, enjoy a piece of wedding cake baked especially for the occasion by Ilonka's which handles many Columbus weddings. It was a beautiful setting for the Breakfast.

Jo Call poses for the camera again, this time showing a versatile 'going-away' ensemble to the assembled guests, inspiring a few dreams, no doubt. Most of the young women, now seniors, will be summer brides.

A sight more and more familiar as Spring Quarter progressed — classes under the trees when days were warm and sunny, and students and profs agreed they were not to be spent inside . . .

Summer Is Around the Corner

Activities subsided in tune with all-campus Spring Fever . . .

Another delightful Spring Quarter tradition were the concerts presented each Wednesday night by the Symphonic Band. Because they were held in picturesque Mirror Lake Hollow chairs set up were forsaken for grassy banks.

And then all at once the end of the school year is in sight. Underclassman conversation centers around summer visits that will never materialize and promise letters that will never appear.

Seniors, signing for their caps and gowns, are a little surprised and a bit self conscious about a sudden melancholia about leaving the old Alma Mater. Wedding plans, armed forces commissions, graduate school, European trips . . . plans to be made, once the mortar board is doffed to the cold, cruel world, are left to look forward to.

The University has donned an old-new springtime lovliness . . . campus activity has given way in the bright, breezy days and warm, drowsy nights to activity definitely extra-curricular. Myriad convertibles cruise the campus main stem, and Scioto River banks are favorite sites for social functions. Spring Quarter finals hold qualms for no one except that they mark the end before a long, long vacation . . .

The last step before the diploma—President Bevis' delivery of a traditionally inspirational address.

Springtime is party time and the Sigma Delta Taus go right along with the tradition with a Spring lawn party.

Makio Queen

Makio Queen Marty Van Voorhis is a major in Home Economics from Washington Court House, Ohio. The lovely blue-eyed brunette is a junior and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Her main interest is a certain handsome young NavCad, now in training at Pensacola, a Beta Theta Pi, to whom she is pinned.

Vivacious Ann Brede is a sophomore in Home Economics and a member of Pi Beta Phi. She hails from Columbus, Ohio and wears a Phi Gam pin beside her golden arrow.

Ginny Domigan is a Tri-Delt, a sophomore in Radio Speech and her home is Columbus, too. Her main interests center about horseback riding, dancing, and the Phi Psi whose pin she wears.

Barbara Quinlan, a Delta Gamma and a music major came to Ohio State from Alliance, Ohio. Beside a charming personality and a winning smile, Barb has a beautiful soprano voice.

Blonde, Blue-eyed Jean Spencer is a native of Newark, Ohio and the only freshman on the Makio Queen court. An education major, she is a pledge of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Makio* Business Manager Mel Pearlman presents the ten Makio Queen finalists on stage of the U-Hallsapoppin variety show.

Every year since the Makio has been an Ohio State publication we have had a Makio Queen — a coed chosen from the ranks of campus beauties to represent all the beauty to be found at Ohio State. This year, however, the Makio was in danger of losing its queen. WSGA clamped down and passed a ruling that organizations could nominate and sponsor girls for only two campus Queen Contests — Homecoming Queen and May Queen.

But Mel Pearlman, the Makio's ingenious Business Manager and Howard Weiner who was appointed by Mel from the Makio staff to chairman the Makio Queen contest, put their heads together and devised a method by which we could choose one of the most beautiful of the O.S.U. coeds and proclaim her Makio Queen. Letters were sent to every organization on campus explaining that any student could sponsor an entrant they felt was eligible. Response was immediate and a bit overwhelming — names of the lovely gals came from everywhere and Mel and Howard enlisted the help of non-student judges to meet the entrants and limit their number to ten. They held a separate contest to discover a girl vocalist who would be the Makio's contribution to Ohio Staters variety show at which the members of the court would be announced. (Vocalist chosen was Sandy Starr, a talented Tri-Delt.) Judges for the final contest were Bob Parker, photographer; Gordon Kuster of the Columbus Dispatch; and Director of a downtown modeling school.

Entrants in the Queen contest watch the preliminary judging closely and patiently wait their turn to be judged.

Because the Makio Queen is representative of the best looking of Ohio State's coeds, the contest was open to any girl on campus whose name was turned into the Makio office by someone who thought she qualified for the title. She faced a preliminary elimination judging when the field of candidates was narrowed to ten. This year the ten Makio Queen finalists were presented at the U-Hallsapoppin Show sponsored by Ohio Staters, Winter Quarter. As they appeared on stage they were judged by a final judging team — a prominent photographer, editor of the Sunday Dispatch Magazine Section, and director of a downtown modeling school — who chose a Makio Queen and four court members. The court members and the queen were presented that night with small trophies but the name of the newly chosen queen was not disclosed. Her name was announced and she was presented with the three foot rotating Makio Queen trophy at the Union's Spring Quarter Dance. Lovely Marty graciously accepted the trophy and the first edition of the 1953 Makio.

The girls were all judged upon beauty of face and figure, and personal charm and poise. It is our personal opinion that the entrants in the Makio Queen contest this past year and the Makio Queen and her court were the loveliest ever.

Ohio State has been our world for four years now. The Oval, the stadium, 15th Ave., the Union — each has been a part of the background of our lives as we trained for our part in the professional world.

We have found opportunity for expert guidance in our fields of academic interest; the advantage of access to the finest library collections or laboratory equipment; an administration and faculty sympathetic to the trend of collegiate thought; a center for research and development in all fields of science, medicine, engineering, and theory of education. The University is growing and has grown and we are proud to have been a part of its growth.

Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of the University for thirteen years, poses at his desk.

A Message from the President

One of our finest evidences of student accomplishment is found in the Makio. Here in one magnificent volume are assembled ideas of an industrious and devoted staff — seeking truly to reflect that portion of the University's life which it was their privileges to portray. The book is a fitting compliment to a great student body.

Devotion to a task carries with it a lesson for us all. For of such is success. Even in the face of uncertainties — and they continue with us — there are still so many values which we in America can look to with assurance and confidence. Ours is still the freedom to choose and the chance to succeed. Devotion is the contribution asked.

It has been my honor over the years to make a statement through the Makio. It seems most fitting that this year it is part of a volume dedicated to the student body. I welcome this occasion to salute the students of the University, particularly the Class of '53 and staff who have made this Makio possible.

In Memoriam

We remember Dean Park because he was always available for counsel and his counsel was always understanding and wise. His geniality, his humor, his sincere and friendly personality will always stand out in our memories. He used to smile slowly and, with a twinkle in his eye, admit that he was the best Dean of Men Ohio State ever had — for he was the first Dean of Men Ohio State had. And in that capacity he was responsible for the founding of the Student Senate, the Student Commission, and one of the finest fraternity systems in the country. His guiding principle was that it is far better to guide youthful energy as advisor rather than as supervisor . . . We lost a wise administrator and a good friend in Dean Joseph A. Park.

Located on the south side of the Oval, the Faculty Club is for the exclusive use of faculty members and their wives.

Faculty Club

Dedicated to the exclusive use of faculty members and administration officials, the Faculty Club is a low modern building conveniently located on the south side of the Oval. Faculty members first moved into its dining and meeting rooms in June of 1940. Before that time only the upper floor of the Administration Building had been reserved for their use.

The Club is operated by a Board of Control, the members of which are elected from members of the faculty. Board members are responsible for the appointment of a Club Manager who oversees all Club activities and has charge of the Club staff. This past year gracious Mrs. Mildred W. Hull has very capably handled the job of Club Manager and official hostess.

Aside from being the favorite place for dinner and luncheon for the faculty members, the Faculty Club is also the most popular place for departmental luncheons, meetings of faculty organizations, and entertaining done by faculty wives. Favorite Club social functions are the annual Christmas Dinner Dance and the Ox Roast.

Bridge is a favorite pastime of professors between classes, too. Here faculty members relax in the comfortable lounges of the modern faculty building.

The quaint exterior of the Alumni House in the shadow of University Hall contains the modern offices of the Alumni Association. Here are kept files on the thousands of University graduates.

Ohio State University Association

Organized Alumni activity reached the highest peak ever this last academic year in every area of the very broad program sponsored by the Ohio State University Association. This year work was directed under the Association President, Fred Pride, BA '26 of New York City. This growing active organization, with a membership of almost 25,000, ranks second in the nation.

The Alumni organization has many and varied activities which aid the University, faculty, and administration. Among these projects are the Development Fund for the creation of fellowships, scholarships and loans for students; the promotion of research and scientific development; publication of a monthly alumni magazine; and sponsoring Ohio State Day throughout the nation.

The Association maintains a network of alumni clubs in every county seat in Ohio and in practically every large city in the United States. Its members are joined in lending their lasting support to maintain and perpetuate the high standards of education here at the Ohio State University.

The Association's reunion banquets such as this draw Ohio State alumni from all over the country.

Assistant Winifred Carr and project director Dr. MacNevin display a photochemical experiment obtaining a complexed chemical compound similar to hemoglobin or chlorophyll by discharging 100,000 volts through chemically concentrated atmosphere. The project's research has gone also for the solution of problems such as the fading of maroon automobile paint.

Development Fund

Through the devoted efforts of thousands of Ohio State Alumni volunteer workers, $445,702 was gathered for the Ohio State Development Fund in 1952. Throughout the nation's universities and colleges the phenomenal growth of the Ohio State Fund in its 14 years has been an enviable record. The Development Fund far outstrips those of all other state-supported universities. It ranks third in the nation behind Yale and Harvard funds that have been in existence years longer.

The 1952 Fund campaign assured the completion of 29 research projects, three general projects for student aids, and 20 special projects. Money will go to Cancer Research Institute, O.S.U. Scholarship Fund, Alumni Scholarship House, research for cancer metastasis, cardio-surgery, employment of old age, and many others.

No prediction is made for 1953 but it is hoped that the contributors will pass the 20,000 mark. The University's sons and daughters will contribute to make Ohio State a better university for students to come.

Research

In 1952 the Research Foundation climaxed one of its greatest years. Through its contribution to scientific education, to the development of industrial resources, to the preservation of national security, and to the advancement of human welfare, the University research organization has grown to such stature that its influence is felt throughout the world.

Credit should be given Physicist Alpheus Smith, "Mr. Research", who has contributed more than any other single individual to the growth of O.S.U. as an important research center. Dr. Smith and a handful of alumni in 1927 had a dream of a definite, integrated program research through which the University might achieve true greatness. They envisioned a program independent of state funds, and by 1936 the University Research Foundation was formally incorporated.

The object of this non-profit corporation is to provide an instrument with which the University can work in closer relationship with industries in solving their research problems. Each successive year has seen a larger volume research than the preceeding one in the Research Foundation program. Of the 151 projects in progress during 1951, 99 were under contract with government agencies and the armed services.

Research

In Chemistry, where 42 contracts were active last year, Dr. C. E. Boord was supervising research in pure hydrocarbons for the American Petroleum Institute begun 13 years ago and had taken on a new study of hydrocarbon oxidation sponsored by the Air Material Command.

In the Cryogenic Laboratory, where Dr. Johnston and his colleagues successfully built and fired the first rocket motor using liquid oxygen-liquid hydrogen, additional data were being gathered and applied in the successful design and test operation of rocket motors on different trust scales. Dr. Johnston also had begun a new two-year contract on work related to the current program of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Nine investigations were underway in the Antenna Laboratory of the Electrical Engineering Department, three of them an extension of the radar research done during the last war, four of more recent origin having to do with various military problems.

Other researches include: aid to the development of the Aerodynamics Laboratory (supersonic wind tunnels), studies of the effect of radioactive iodine and phosphorus on cancer of the thyroid, development of electric circuit computers for assistance in aircraft design, investigations of the chemical structure of heparin, and anticoagulant of blood, and studies of the basic laws underlying the process of metal cutting.

Scope of the Foundation's research program is tremendous, the projects range from study of the microbiology of frozen eggs to the synthesis of cortisone and the development of ceramic liners for rocket motors. Through its ever-expanding research program, the Foundation is thus adding steadily to two of the nation's most important stockpiles: scientific knowledge and the men to apply it. Survival of our democratic way of life may ultimately depend upon how fast they grow and how well they are administered.

Practical experience in the "professional areas" of our college world is what we seek in our participations in activities in the Theatre, Publications, or Music. We are encouraged by a far-sighted University Administration which backs our projects financially and provides professional instructors and advisors for our guidance. Through the combined efforts of energetic students before us, patient administrators, and interested professional people we have been able to contribute our efforts to projects recognized as stepping stones to the professional world.

The Arts

The presentation of "Murder in the Cathedral" began this year's season of great plays. Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" preluded a happy Christmas season.

University Theatre

The Ohio State University Theatre is now in its seventh season of production. The University Theatre is operated by the Department of Speech under the the direction of John H. McDowell, Director of Theatre; Charles McGaw, Director of Theatre Production; Everett M. Schreck, Play Director. The purpose of the theatre is to offer students of theatre art the finest educational opportunities possible through actual participation in a successfully functioning theatre. University Theatre and Stadium Theatre work to provide the University and the community with a continuing theatrical program that yields both popular entertainment and cultural stimulation.

Play selection is varied to include the great classics, which may now rarely be seen outside a university theatre, interesting and unusual modern plays, and original scripts of merit and worth. Productions are designed and directed by the regular theatre staff assisted by graduate students of proven ability. Frequently the regular staff is augmented by bringing guests to the campus from the professional and other educational theatres.

A season of five plays was presented this year. These included: "Murder in the Cathedral", a distinguished and poignant drama presented in the beautiful new St. Stephen's Episcopal Church; "Twelfth Night", a gayly romantic comedy classic which preluded the Christmas season; "The Playboy of the Western World", a richly imaginative Irish comedy; "The Fan", a rollicking farce of intrigue and courtship; and "American Blues", another great play by Tennessee Williams.

"Playboy of the Western World", directed by James Dunlap, was a gay and richly imaginative Irish Comedy. That shillelagh looks mighty threatening as Kristy's father attempts to teach his son a lesson the hard way.

The actors of the Stadium Theatre seldom have any trouble playing to a full house. Many residents of the Columbus area enjoy relaxing for an evening in the informal arena-type theatre watching top-notch student productions.

Stadium Theatre

The Stadium Theatre, with University Theatre is operated by the Department of Speech for the purpose of offering the finest opportunities of participation in a successfully functioning theatre. The Stadium Theatre is open to both students and community members.

Their 1952 program included such great plays as "Papa Is All", "The Traitor", "Walls Rise Up", "Charley's Aunt", "Elizabeth the Queen", "The Petrified", "The Happy Time", and "The Admirable Crichton".

The Stadium Theatre was very honored this last season by having as their guest director for "Charley's Aunt", Frank McMullan, the only American ever invited to direct at Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, England. Renie Riano, star of stage and motion pictures, appeared as the guest star of "Elizabeth the Queen."

The three brothers from the play "The Happy Time" raise their fists in defiance and victory over the school principal. The play portrays the simple life of an ordinary family from French Canada.

John Beck certainly seems to be enjoying himself in the role of "Charley's Aunt". The old water barrel appears to be a very popular place for discussion of plans in "The Walls Rise Up".

Ex-President, Jerry Rasor, no longer a busy man, has time, at last, to make a calm appearance in the office.

Strollers

Top billing in the field of theater art belongs to Strollers Dramatic Society, largest dramatic organization on campus. Its far reaching and varied program appeals to O.S.U. students of all classes. Many new Freshmen are lured to work by the smell of greasepaint and the call of the footlights both backstage and in the Strollers' office.

A highly successful production of Thornton Wilder's heart warming play Our Town finished Strollers' 1951-52 season during the spring quarter of 1952. With the audience feeling they were a part of the actual production, this play was acclaimed as one of Strollers' best.

The 60th season of the campus' oldest and largest dramatic group opened with the fall production of The Time of Your Life, a Pulitzer prize winning play by William Saroyan. Adding to the life of the play was the newly "redecorated" University Hall Chapel.

The major activity during the Winter quarter was directed toward the production of Double Door, Victorian gaslight melodrama by Elizabeth McFadden. Playing the roles of a wealthy young scion and his fiancee were Jerry Rasor and Carolyn Ellis.

As usual all elements of production—set, design, construction, lighting, costumes, publicity, office work—and the many other details necessary to a performance were executed by the members. The chairmen of these various committees compose the board of control which is the governing body of this dramatic group.

Activities of the society also included production of one act plays for the organization's mass meetings and participation in the annual May Week float parade. The social highlight of Strollers' season again was the annual banquet at the end of winter quarter when the new officers were announced. With the slate of officers composed of all women, the new prexy of Strollers is of the weaker sex, but she is none the less capable. She is Lilli Lorenz, last year's Business manager. At the banquet also were announced the winners of the Oscars for outstanding performances and award certificates for service were presented.

Romeo and Juliet, presented by the Browning Dramatic Society, climaxed a gay year by the oldest all-women Shakesperean group in the country, founded in 1882.

Comedies were traditional until MacBeth was given last year. This spring the young women capitalized on the naturally scenic setting of the outdoor amphitheater to present the romantic tragedy of Romeo and Juliet.

The amphitheater, located in the hollow beside Mirror Lake, was financed by Ohio State alumni and completed in 1926. It was named after the well-known poetess, Elizabeth Barrett Browning. In answer to a request for permission to use her name, a charming reply was received from Mr. Browning, expressing his appreciation. The letter is a cherished possession of the society.

In 1908 the group was transformed into a Shakesperean drama group. In order to qualify for membership, one must have completed twenty hours of work in a play or on a related committee.

The Twelfth Night Banquet was the opening festivity of the year. Members and alumni gathered to celebrate in the traditional style of jolly old England with turkey and plum pudding.

Later the annual membership tea was held to acquaint new women students with the group. The Spring tryouts for Romeo and Juliet and then the successful presentation of this romantic tragedy rounded out the season's activities.

Drama Board

Since its revival in 1950, the Drama Board is now in its fourth year of acting as a co-ordinator group for the dramatic organizations on campus. It gives publicity to the theatrical groups and provides a pool of lighting equipment for use by any organization on campus.

All of the dramatic groups on campus are represented by the Drama Board. Strollers, Browning Dramatic Society, Scarlet Mask, Hillel Players, and Jazz Forum have representatives on the Board.

This group also takes an active part in helping to introduce new aspiring actors and actresses to Ohio State dramatics during Orientation Week.

Leading the group this year as president was Jerry Rasor, also president of Strollers, and Margie Pfeiffer serving as Secretary-treasurer.

Hillel Players

The Hillel Foundation has been the home of the Hillel Players since it was erected several years ago. The Players take an active part in providing programs for community groups and many Hillel functions.

Hillel Players is a dramatic organization which is open to anyone interested in all aspects of the theater. Its goals: to produce plays of high caliber and to provide an opportunity for dramatic education and expression, seem to have been fulfilled, for several of Hillel's alumni are now appearing on Broadway and T.V.

The big affair of the year was the Winter quarter production of "Home of the Brave" by Arthur Laurents. It was very successful with Paul Halpern, never before in a college play, doing a wonderful job in the leading role and really "wowing" the audience as the hero.

National Collegiate Players was formed in June, 1922 as the result of a coalition between Pi Epsilon Delta, an honorary, and Associated University Players. National Collegiate Players is a purely honorary group with the purpose of encouraging participation in dramatic performances, writing plays, and studying all phases of drama.

The activities of the Ohio State chapter this year consisted of playing host to the annual Speech Department conference for high school teachers, preparing a one act play for competition at the Cultural Olympics at the University of Pennsylvania, and having an open meeting with Allen Baxter of South Pacific as their guest.

During Winter quarter National Collegiate Players invited Henry Fonda to become an honorary member of the Ohio State chapter, when he came to Columbus in the tour of Point of No Return. He was initiated at an informal ceremony at which Professor Howard C. Morgan, National Secretary-treasurer, was present. After the initiation Mr. Fonda entertained the members of N.C.P. with stories of his experiences and his life.

Mr. Fonda told of his experience in getting started on his career. One summer he was a scene designer at a summer theater. One of the visiting stars was so impressed with his abilities that she raved about him to all the New York agents. When he returned in the fall after making the rounds of agent's offices, he found that although they would not take him as an actor there were many openings for good scene designers. He decided to wait for his big opportunity on the stage.

Forensic Society

The Ohio State Forensic Society was organized during the 1949-50 school year, and since that time, under the direction of Paul Carmack, it has become one of the most active and respected groups on campus.

The society's membership now numbers 75. By March of 1953, the Society had taken part in over 274 debates and individual events. In order to participate in these events, Forensic members traveled to various colleges in the Mid-west and on occasion they traveled as far as Purdue, Wisconsin, Michigan State and New York City.

Ohio State's teams tied for first place at Ohio Wesleyan in both the A and B divisions. Ruth Thompson, a freshman member of the team, has made a very impressive win-loss record. Harland Randolph, a Junior in Education, with an outstanding win-loss record for his entire college debating, has won several individual awards this season.

Ohio Debaters have entertained two Big Ten Intercampus debates on Ohio State's, Northwestern and Minnesota campus.

The two annual Ohio State debate tourneys this year have had entries from Texas, Georgia, Alabama, and many other colleges from all over the country. It is expected that these tournaments will continue to grow and extend to many other states until they take on a national character.

Although the Society has won many honors, the emphasis is placed on wide student participation rather than on amassing wins. The club has really made a name for itself under the presidency of Harland Randolph and the enthusiastic cooperation of its members.

Debaters from Lake Forest captured the laurels at one of the annual Ohio State tourneys held this year. Harland Randolph presents the trophy to the new winner.

To foster friendship and professional ability in the art department, to link together the art departments of various schools, to promote art interests and appreciation among college students — these are the high aims of Delta Phi Delta, the national art honorary open to outstanding men and women in the fine arts. Through their many worthwhile and enjoyable activities, the members of this organization are working toward the achievement of these goals.

OSU and national members are kept informed of Delta Phi Delta's doings by means of the "Palette", the official publication of the organization. A national convention is held every two years, which provides a wonderful opportunity for art students from all over the United States to meet each other and "talk shop."

On campus and in Columbus, the members of this organization put on exhibits of their work. Each year, they make lovely Christmas cards, which are sold to students and members of the community. During May Week, these students have a sidewalk art show in front of Hayes Hall — a project from which they and all OSU students derive much pleasure.

Many of us stop and look at the marvelous, ever-changing exhibits of paintings on the walls of our new Student Union. The display of these paintings, which are done by Ohio State students, faculty, and members of the Columbus Art League, is a project of Delta Phi Delta. This organization certainly deserves commendation for its work in beautifying the Union, as well as for so energetically encouraging the appreciation of art in American colleges and universities.

Phi Mu Alpha, national professional music fraternity, completed its twenty-first year on the Ohio State campus this year. The Beta Xi chapter seeks to advance the cause of music in America and to foster the mutual brotherhood and welfare of students of music. The men of Beta Xi are chosen for quality of musicianship and high scholastic standards.

For the first time in the history of Beta Xi, the group conducted a Composition Contest for OSU music students. The contest has been a national project for several years, but this is the first year it was sponsored on this campus.

The fraternity also presented an entertaining American Music Concert during Spring Quarter. At this concert were featured compositions of students, faculty, and contemporary American composers. The men of Beta Xi participated in the Professional Honorary Interfraternal Banquet and they served the School of Music by acting as guides and ushers for functions of the School of Music.

The social season this year included the Annual Fall Quarter Mixer for all music students and faculty, a formal dance with Delta Omicron, its sister honorary, an Initiation Banquet, and a Spring Picnic.

Prominent alumni boasted by Beta Xi are Mr. Eugene Weigel, Director of The OSU School of Music; Mr. Joseph Leeder, educator at OSU; Claire Grundman, composer; and Isler Solomon, conductor.

Jazz Forum

The Jazz Forum, now in its sixth year of existence has energetically devoted its efforts to presenting the very best in 'live' musical talent to Ohio State students. In its ardent attempt to introduce, develop, and instill jazz appreciation in the students here at OSU, the organization features both on and off-campus talent, with 'big-name' performers occasionally appearing for entertainment of Jazz Forum audiences. An average of three concerts a quarter are presented by this group, this year functioning under the guidance of President Bob Hassey. The concerts are presented in various campus auditoriums and each met with great success this year. Gradually through these concerts more and more students—and Columbusites are beginning to realize a fuller appreciation for the greatest of all American music—JAZZ!

Delta Omicron

Delta Omicron has had a busy year. During the Fall Quarter, ten new members were initiated into the chapter. Since that time, there has been much to keep the new activities quite busy. Early in the year, the annual Silver Tea was held in honor of all freshmen women in music. Later in the year, another annual affair took place in the form of the Founders' Day Tea. Actives, alumnae, and patrons enjoyed an evening of fun and entertainment. Social gatherings with Phi Mu Alpha are frequent. During Christmas, the two groups went caroling at various Columbus institutions.

Aiming to foster fellowship and an appreciation of good music, Delta Omicron requires members to have high scholarship and potential, superior musicianship. The pledges prove this in performance before going active.

Kappa Kappa Psi

An organization linking together all the bands on campus, Kappa Kappa Psi is an honorary for outstanding men band members. This fraternity is open to men who have exhibited leadership and bandsmanship for at least two quarters in any campus band except regimental bands.

Its activities are many and varied, and are of great value to the entire band program of the University. Besides being a "helper-outer" in all band functions, it publishes the "Gray Baton", official magazine of the OSU Marching Band. After each home football game, the alumni, the visiting band, and our own Marching Band are entertained by a reception which is sponsored by Kappa Kappa Psi and its sister organization, Tau Beta Sigma.

Each spring this honorary takes pride in sponsoring a banquet of recognition for all campus band members who have displayed excellent quality and valuable service in their work. The year's activities are highlighted by a formal dance honoring our Marching Band — a gala event!

Tau Beta Sigma

Outstanding women in campus bands are honored by being initiated into Tau Beta Sigma, an organization dedicated to the promotion of the best interests of women in Ohio State bands, and to the achievement of fellowship among all Ohio State bands.

The Marching Band enlists the services of these women for taking tickets at "skull sessions" (pre-game rehearsals) and for selling bandbooks. With the Kappa Kappa Psi's, they co-sponsor a reception after each game for the alumni, the guest band, and the OSU Marching Band. This year, Tau Beta Sigma helped to revamp the Marching Band Library.

The organization is also of great service to the School of Music, its women acting as hostesses and registrars at conventions and other functions of the School.

The members of this honorary also take time out for fun! Their social activities include a gay sox dance, the annual band banquet, and a formal dance for our Marching Band.

Women's Glee Club

In 1903, a small group of Ohio State girls who loved to sing banded together to form a glee club. Today, fifty years later, the Women's Glee Club is composed of sixty girls who love to sing as much as their predecessors did. As the membership has increased, so have the activities of the Glee Club increased.

Under the able leadership of their professional director, Mr. John Muschick, these girls give several public performances during the year. They gave a concert this year for the University Music Club, and for a convention of superintendents and principals of schools in Ohio. Their singing is enjoyed not only by campus and Columbus people as one of their very worthwhile projects is to sing for the patients at the Veterans' Hospital in Chillicothe. An event looked forward to each year is the Spring Quarter concert, given at Hughes Hall. Another gala occasion is the traditional banquet held with the Men's Glee Club.

These girls have a wide repertoire; they sing sacred music, folk tunes, semi-classical and modern music.

Symphonic Choir

Sixty-eight members of the OSU Symphonic Choir, an outstanding campus choral group, climaxed a very successful year with a tour through Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York. The highlight of the tour came when the group sang with the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra.

The major presentations of the year were programs given at the dedication of St. Steven's Episcopal Church, Columbus; at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Dayton; and the annual Home Concert.

Professor Louis Diercks, director of the group, completed his 16th year with the musicians. He organized the group in 1937, and since that time the group has received national recognition as an outstanding choral group.

Socially, the musicians had workshops with other choral groups, a Fall Get-Together, a Spring Fling, and Initiation.

Men's Glee Club

This was the 80th year for the Men's Glee Club here at Ohio State. The forty-five men in this year's social singing group, headed by President Schluyer Lucy, presented the traditional Home Concert in April as the year's feature presentation in addition to many other appearances at Kiwanis Clubs, schools, and churches.

For the first time in the Glee Club's history, the annual tour took the group out of the state to West Virginia and Indiana in addition to Ohio.

Socially, the club had picnics, parties, and the Annual Banquet in May with the Women's Glee Club.

Professor Norman Staiger was in his fourth year as director of the club this year. Under Professor Staiger's supervision the men of the club were outfitted in new sport coats during the year.

WOSU

The communications lab in the northern corner of the campus is the site of the University owned and operated radio station, WOSU. Professionally staffed by the University, the station broadcasts every day (with the exception of several holidays) from 8 A.M. until late afternoon when broadcasting switches to F.M. Contrary to common opinion WOSU is not a student training center but a professional radio station dedicated by the University as an instrument of adult education — a means of extending educational service to people of Ohio.

Facilities of WOSU are quite as complete as those of any large city radio station. Pictured here are the library of classical and popular records, the up-to-date newsroom served by UP wire service and the station's central control panel.

Council on Student Publications

Directing the activity of all student staff members of all the student publications which include Makio, Sundial, Lantern, Agricultural Student, and The Ohio State Engineer, is the Publications Board. Students, faculty (and administration are represented on the Board and chairman is Dean Pollard, head of the School of Journalism.

They hold the same jurisdiction over the student editors and staff members that the Board of Trustees holds over administrators of the University. They meet at least once quarterly to decide policies to be carried out in each of the student publications offices and in the Spring they review petitions of all applicants for positions on the staffs of student publications.

In the green room on the top floor of the Union amid the confusion of clacking typewriters, a blaring radio, gesturing typesetters, favorite Phi Sigma Deltas, and antics of people from the Sundial office, the 1953 Makio was slowly and surely evolved.

During the summer months the confusion subsided long enough for five senior staffers to clear a pathway through the leavings of the 1952 Makio staff; wish the retiring editor bon voyage when he donned the navy blues; and proceed with big plans for the 1953 yearbook. Ken, armed with a pica ruler and the quoted engraving prices, set to work on the layout — heretofore always designed by a commercial company. Mel took up his post between telephone and safe and had a million brainstorms to revolutionize former systems of ad selling and general ballyhoo.

We plotted photo panels; sorted May Week pictures; planned 15 minutes of Makio record; consumed gallons of the Union's milkshakes; formed myriad policies for training the new freshman staff and petitioned the Union to build a swimming pool.

During Fall quarter the Makio plans were completed; Sophomore Staffers were assigned their work for the year; and we opened the campus photography studio. The Makio phones began to ring constantly for Bobbie Loeb and she spent days matching the studio photographers appointment card for appointment card . . . From her desk came all appointments for group pictures to be taken by Van Ramsey studios, or a newly formed staff of Makio student photographers, or Editor Ken Langhout who is no novice with a camera. As developed prints returned to her desk again, Bobbie took up rubber cement and cardboard paneling to mount them and pack them off to the engraver.

. . . Sophomore Editors, meantime, were tactfully badgering all the officers of all the student organizations (we never knew there were so many) being represented in the Makio. Dinny deBruin was the center of info as keeper of the Makio bible (Student Directory) and all assignments for copy came through her. Group idents were the particular headache and into Spring Quarter she was directing a stream of organization officers past her desk to identify unfamiliar faces.

Makio sales, due to the diligence and persistence of the freshman and sophomore salesmen, were mounting and Barbara Darrah was at hand with her adding machine to talley results and keep us in good stead with the campus auditing department. Barb handled the business end (money) of the Makio Business Staff this year.

The sophomore staff was indispensable: blond and reserved Bob Slunder was a Makio mainstay, sparking out copy about the Agriculture College and Dick Wells, a patient worker who haunted the people in Pomerene Hall. Sunny-spirited Barbara Tussing, many beau-ed Connie Harlan, and enthusiastic Phoebe Schreck each took a lump of Makio to organize . . . and organize they did, down to the last cut-line. Joan Elliott, Marian Ball, and Pat Campbell collaborated on the Greek section and Pat was also a boon to Mel's business promotion department. Ron Gross and freshman Al Buchfire haunted Columbus merchants and scared up a section of advertising to supplement our budget and pert Pat Bailey melted enough campus sales resistance to turn in the most outstanding record of Makio sales. Howie Weiner handled all the plans and procedure for the Makio Queen contest.

And now it's time to dig out from under the debris of 1953 Makio production and walk in the campus sunshine again . . .

Sundial

RICHARD PUGLIESE, Editor

They may be wrong, but they aren't far from it.

Aside from looking like a gigantic wastebasket filled with wadded paper and women, the Sundial office is hardly different from any other office in the Union. Commanding an unmatched view of the third floor men's room, no one would ever guess it is the habitat of a strange people. No sociologist could or should attempt to describe their culture. They seem to subsist chiefly on a diet of very old jokes. They live in a world of deadlines that are never met as a matter of tradition, illustrations unrelated to the stories and advertising layouts that extol beer, cheeseburgers and laundromats, all dedicated to the publication of Sundial, a humor magazine that has disturbed the sleep of no publishers save Sundial's. Richard Pugliese (rhymes with mayonnaise) is so softspoken that only half the staff can identify him as editor, but he carries a big stick in the form of writers whom he protects from reality and a business staff that protects him from the bill collectors. Clara Juh sees mankind as a series of lines in various stages of undress, while Jim Clark sees mankind as a collection of potential twenty-five cent pieces. Using the Taj Mahal in a Heidelburg ad was the high point of Ronnie Kohn's year. Sarah Hanna has done more to reveal the doings in a girls' dorm than a hundred shadeless windows. Sundial people suffer from a common neurosis; they all believe that Ohio State wouldn't exist without Sundial. They're partly right.

Daily Lantern

The 1952-1953 academic year was one of improvement for the Ohio State Lantern. Beginning with the Winter Quarter, new mechanical equipment in the University Print Shop gave the Lantern six new display type faces — all of which made for a more modern, more attractive, more easily readable campus newspaper. These were a far cry from the hand-set type faces previously used by the paper.

And—for the 18th consecutive time—the Lantern received a rating of All-American (the highest award in the book) in the Associated Collegiate Press' newspaper critical service. The Lantern was one of only six daily college papers in the nation to receive this honor. It showed once again that the Lantern was continually trying to bring to the campus the latest news and features in all phases of student and faculty activity.

The Lantern was forced by the rising costs of newspaper production to take one step backward, however. During the Spring Quarter the length of its pages was made two inches shorter. Unwilling to decrease its number of pages or its number of issues per week or to increase circulation and advertising prices, the Lantern took this course—moving back to the same size it had been from 1952 till 1947.

In dealing with such controversial issues as the dismissal of Dr. Byron T. Darling, attempted May Week elections frauds and suppression of news by faculty organizations, the Lantern—receiving both criticism and praise—continually attempted to maintain its ideal of complete, objective reporting . . . of all the news.

Copy readers make last minute checks before press time. It takes little things like this to help make the LANTERN one of the countries few All-American college newspapers.

The oldest agricultural student publication in the country, The Agricultural Student has always been a leader in its field The magazine was founded in 1894 and through its 58 year history has endeavored to offer training in agricultural journalism to students in the College of Agriculture, and to present news in the field of agriculture.

It is the student magazine of the college and all writing and editing is done by students. It is sent to all students and their parents — a press run of over four thousand.

This year, in addition to features concerning new developments in farming, the Ag Student presented a new subject of interest to those concerned with the college. This was an issue devoted to Farm and Home Week. An eight page rundown of the week, held during spring vacation was featured in the March issue, which was distributed to visitors during the week.

ALFRED FILSINGER, Editor

Ohio State Engineer

" . . . Receiving the second place award for the best all around engineering college magazine, plus several others, last year, The Ohio State Engineer has continued to serve the engineering students at Ohio State with the highest efforts.

The Ohio State Engineer is published six times a year — twice a quarter. This year's volume has been the largest in the history of the publication and we believe one of the finest.

The issues contained a series on American Industry. This was a moving account of the importance of industry in certain localities and the factors influencing its location. Other subjects dealt with were; Carbon Dioxide as a coolant; architecture; eyesight on the job; controls; ceramics; petroleum, steel, machine tools; atomic sub, X-rays, phosphorus, and many more interesting articles.

The activity put forth on publication work is well worth while. Of all the extra curricular work that can be performed, there are few that are of as great benefit and satisfaction to the student. The Engineer offers many opportunities for leadership and the acceptance of responsibility. It provides work and experience in writing, layout and make-up, photography, art, advertising, circulation, etc. . . .

The staff, at the present, is looking forward to the May banquet. At this time the new editor for next year will be announced. Engineering students can be sure that he will put forth his maximum effort in making The Ohio State Engineer better than exer.

This year The Engineer has been under the leadership of Alfred C. Filsinger, Editor and Peter A. Minderman, Business Manager . . . "

Law Journal

It's quite a valuable experience for a law student to work on the Law Journal. At the end of a law student's first year in law school he is invited to become a provisional member of the Law Journal if he has a three point or better. He must maintain that point hour to continue on working. As a provisional member the student writes case notes of which two must be published before he becomes a member of the editorial board. The case notes are accounts of recent cases which have in some way changed the law. When he has fulfilled other requirements he then becomes a member of the editorial board, and then writes comments on recent cases. The comments require a great deal of research and are usually about fifteen pages in length. The editorial board elects an Editor-in-Chief. This year they chose Duane Isham to head their publication. The Associate Editors are Tony DeSanto, William Hapner, and James Oglevee.

All law students receive the Law Journal, but it is published mainly for the benefit of practicing lawyers throughout the country so that they can keep up on current happenings in their field. The Journal is published once each quarter. Each issue is highlighted by the lead articles written by outstanding authorities in their respective fields. Each major law school publishes such a magazine and Ohio State is proud that the Ohio State Law Journal is one of the high ranking publications.

Fraternity Publications

Fraternity men are kept in the know through the efforts of a bi-monthly campus publication, With the Greeks, edited and published in the Fraternity Affairs Office. Manuel Tzagournis, Chi Phi, was Editor of the four page newsletter this past year and Dave Kyle of Phi Kappa Psi was the Business Manager. Each edition featured a Sorority Girl or Fraternity Man of the month and feature articles concerning items of interest about Greek Week, special Greek projects, or intramural competition. Staff was composed of members of Freshman Fraternity Council and Pledge Panhellenic.

Yearly publication of the FAO office is the Fraternity Life booklet, edited this year by Dave Katz, which is sent to young men newly enrolled at Ohio State. It explains the function of the fraternity in connection with campus activities, the athletic program, and campus social life.

Chi Delta Phi

Chi Delta Phi is an organization designed to serve the women of the university who are interested in creative writing and to encourage creative writing among women.

To be accepted into the ranks of Chi Delta Phi, a woman must prove herself capable of meeting high creative writing standards which the group has set for itself. A woman must submit samples of her work for criticism and also read material before the chapter.

During the course of the year, outstanding figures in the writing profession are guests of the group. The members of Chi Delta Phi meet and discuss problems related to the writing profession.

Heading the social calendar this year was a banquet honoring new pledges and a Spring picnic. As a group project, the group took an active part in a short-story contest sponsored by the national organization.

Our energies not stemmed by studies and social life are directed toward a system of campus activities which have been set up to accomodate our every interest. We govern ourselves, take advantage of the right to dictate our own policies, organize to realize responsibility we will accept once out of college, join fellow students who share our professional and academic interests, and enjoy an opportunity to meet classmates and administrators in an air of informal co-operation. We learn to lead and to be led and we discover the fundamental principles of co-operative work and play . . .

Sphinx

"We should strive to get thy name,
Of fair repute and stolen fame
So in College halls we'll grow
To love thee better, O-H-I-O"

By encouraging all types of extra-curricular activities the men of the Senior men's honorary, Sphinx, hopes to better the University and its program for all students. The men who at the end of their Junior year have presented outstanding service in some field of endeavor, and who have in the eyes of their fellow leaders, demonstrated themselves as capable and willing at all times are considered for membership in the highest of men's honoraries.

Sphinx was founded January 26, 1907 when four campus leaders felt the need for an honorary with high ideals and purposes. Since that time in 1907, the men of Sphinx have allowed their achievements to speak for themselves.

Sphinx's main project during the year is the annual recognition banquet, which was held on February 10 of this year. At this banquet, it is their privilege to honor 250 men from all four classes who have been outstanding in campus affairs and have shown promise of eventual leadership. It was at this banquet that four men were linked and initiated into the honorary. The three men tapped for outstanding undergraduate feats were Robert Grimes, Arthur Kaplansky, and Frank Stevens. The honorary member linked was Dean of Men, Mylin Ross.

Mortar Board

"And to you whom we have chosen
In the years both far and near Comes the privilege of service
To our Alma Mater dear."

These words chanted softly by black-gowned senior Mortar Board women, begin life in Mortar Board for the selected junior women, serenaded before dawn in the traditional candlelight tapping ceremony. Members of this Senior women's honorary are selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service to the University.

At 11:00 A.M. the following morning, the new initiates gather on the oval, dressed in white and proudly wearing their Mortar Board caps. There, old and new members with Sphinx, the Senior men's honorary, stroll up and down the Long Walk and then to formal presentation on the steps of University Hall. Formal initiation takes place in Mirror Lake Hollow in the afternoon, followed by dinner.

Like all the 87 chapters throughout the country, Ohio State's group meets weekly to discuss current problems, invites speakers, and plans projects including an annual Homecoming Mum Sale, which supports a scholarship awarded each year, and the Recognition Tea to honor outstanding Sophomore, Junior, and Senior women. Mortar Board girls this year helped install a new chapter at Western Reserve, attended the state conference at Denison and met jointly with Embassy Club and Sphinx. Especially memorable was the dinner given by Dean Conaway at her home.

Darlene Wagner is presented her Mortar Board pin attached to the ribbon in the formal ceremonies by Sue Newman attended by Martha Nichols.

Bucket and Dipper

A rude awakening, a bucket, a dipper, a funny costume, and a quantity of water welcome these young Juniors into their honorary.

It wouldn't be Bucket and Dipper without a cold bucket of water in the face in the middle of the night as our frightened friend Mort Merchey can testify.

"The moon hangs low, the south winds blow,
Look out for Jack the Ripper.
With his trusty knife, he will take your life,
If you don't watch Bucket and Dipper."

The new members of Bucket and Dipper, Junior men's honorary, can be seen carrying a bucket and dipper and singing this well known "Jack the Ripper" song the day they are selected for membership. After being splashed with water from the traditional bucket, kissing the Bucket and Dipper Rock, and splashing around in Mirror Lake, the new members are honored at a formal initiation banquet.

The members of B and D started the year with a splash by presenting the Illibuck to Sachem, Illinois' Junior men's honorary as a result of last year's tie game between Ohio State and Illinois.

Social functions for the year included parties with Mirrors and a breakfast with Chimes following tapping during May Week. A Union Party, for the purpose of bringing people in activities closer together, was held Winter quarter. The different officers put on skits in hopes of winning a trophy. The Veterans' Club captured the laurels with Student Senate and Union Activities coming in second and third respectively.

Chimes

A glow of candle-light, the sound of silver bells tinkling, and retiring Chimes members surround sleeping new members.

"Oh, daughters, hear our song,
Choral carillon.
Each one blending tones true and clear,
Honoring those who join us each year . . ."

Ding-a-ling-a-ling ring the silver bells as worthy sophomore women are tapped during May Week by Chimes, Junior women's honorary. New initiates are chosen on basis of leadership, scholarship and service to the University.

During the summer of 1952, Chimes had their biannual national convention held at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. We are proud to say that one of Ohio State's alumnae, Alice Hill, was elected to the position of National Treasurer.

The service program of Chimes for last year was a busy one as also was their social program. Chimes girls were hostesses at the President's luncheon Fall quarter, they sponsored a card party for transfer students and held a Recognition Tea for outstanding Freshmen women. As for social functions, Chimes had dinner at Amicon's and after tapping during May Week, they had a breakfast with Bucket and Dipper. At Christmas-time Chimes had a party and exchanged gifts. The gifts really showed originality: a bar of soap, a puppet monkey, and a bath brush. No inference was attached, of course!

Gathered around the time-honored sundial following their initiation ceremony, these new Chimes proudly display their shiny bells.

The Indio Cardinal, the common state bird of Indiana and Ohio, is passed by president Bob Tressel to the members of the Indiana Sophomore honorary.

Romophos

"For Romophos are we, for Romophos are we,
We're what Freshmen all aspire to be, all aspire to be.
For Romophos are we, for Romophos are we,
From Freshmen woes we will soon be free . . ."

Founded in 1923 as a local honorary, Romophos men have worked to further the interests of the Sophomore class and stimulate school spirit. Romophos, the Sophomore men's honorary, is composed of men who at the end of their Freshmen year have shown outstanding initiative and leadership ability.

For the second year now, the Indio Cardinal trophy was presented to the victor of the Ohio State-Indiana football game. Bob Tressel presented the Indio Cardinal to the president of Indiana's Sophomore men's honorary as a result of last year's game. With service to the University in mind, Romophos members ushered at the President's Convocation and although "Buckeye Brevities" was not held this year, Romophos worked in coordination with Ohio Staters in presenting "U-Hallzapoppin'."

Romophos and Mirrors, Sophomore women's honorary, went Christmas carolling to Doctors' Hospital and in Spring quarter another party was held with the Mirrors girls.

After informal initiation during May Week, a banquet was held. Active participation in all activities which would benefit the campus and University was encouraged so that the new members could carry on the old traditions of previous Romophos groups.

Mirrors

"A song of Mirrors we sing to you,
Who of the Freshmen honored stand.
As music swells and ripples spread from view,
So shall your love of services expand . . ."

With the singing of this song during an evening serenade, new initiates are informed of their invitation to membership into Mirrors, Sophomore women's honorary. Initiation the following day consists of a solemn procession down the Long Walk to ceremonies held on the edge of Mirror Lake.

Silhouettes, an orientation program for Freshmen women was sponsored by Mirrors. The six meetings for Fall quarter were highlighted by: Traditions Talk by Nancella Jones and the movie, "Buckeye Ballads." Dr. Grimm spoke to the group, Miss Hopwood worked with Group Dynamics, buzz sessions were held and skits were presented by the Freshmen women. Shorter programs were held Winter and Spring quarters.

At Christmas time Mirrors and Romophos, Sophomore men's honorary, went carolling. The Sigma Delta Tau sorority house was the site for a party with Bucket and Dipper Winter quarter.

In addition to social functions, service to the University was kept in mind as the Mirrors ushered at the President's Convocation and were hostesses at the Chimes Recognition dessert. For the Honorary Breakfast of the IAWS Convention, the Mirrors girls along with members of the other women's honoraries acted as hostesses.

Instead of rewarding students for distinction in their Senior year, Phi Eta Sigma, national Freshmen scholastic honorary fraternity, encourages its members at the beginning of their college years to strive for high scholarship. The purpose of Phi Eta Sigma is to give recognition to the men of the Freshman class who have obtained high scholarship. To be eligible for membership, a Freshman must have a point-hour ratio of 3.5 at the end of his first quarter, or a cumulative of 3.5 for his first three quarters.

Initiation for new members was held both at the end of Spring and Fall Quarters in 1952. The initiation included speakers and a banquet held in the Ohio Union. Fall quarter the speaker was a newly initiated honorary member, Captain S. Burrell. Captain Burrell is known for his contribution of a trophy which is awarded to the professional fraternity at Ohio State having the highest scholastic average. The speaker at the spring initiation was Professor Harvey H. Goldberg of the history department. Professor Goldberg was initiated into Phi Eta Sigma during his undergraduate years at Wisconsin University.

Nineteen fifty-two was a convention year for Phi Eta Sigma. The National meeting was held at Purdue University last October. There were delegates present from over sixty national chapters. Representing Ohio State's chapter were Don Kurlander, President, and Dean of Men, Mylin H. Ross, Faculty advisor.

Any Freshman woman with a 3.5 accumulative record at the end of her second or third quarter at school is invited to become a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Freshman scholastic honorary for women.

The purpose of Alpha Lambda Delta is to encourage Freshmen women in fields of scholarship in institutions of higher learning, and to encourage the continuance of high scholarship throughout their college career. The first chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta was founded in 1924 at the University of Illinois by Miss Maria Leonard, Dean of Women. The organization became national in scope when the Purdue chapter was installed in 1926. Ohio State's chapter was established in 1945 and now there are 68 national chapters.

Several worthwhile projects were sponsored by Alpha Lambda Delta even though the organization is purely an honor society and no regular meetings are held. Fall quarter they sponsored the Towle Silverware display and during Religion in Life Week the group went in a body to hear several of the noted speakers.

The business of Alpha Lambda Delta is conducted by the Officers' Council. This Council is composed of the four regular officers, Sue Hanna, Historian; June Kloetzly, Iniation Chairman; Ellen Harris, Junior Advisor; and Lorene Harris, Senior Advisor. Dean Conaway is a member-at-large of the National Council of Alpha Lambda Delta.

UNION BOARD: Dan Bower, William Hand, Richard Botsch, Charles Martin, Lee Peterseim, Gert Weintraub, Bud McFee, Norman Ryder.

Union Activities

They don't take matters lying down.

The Ohio Union Board of Overseers are investigating the complaint that the girls do not like the Ohio Union Nap Room because the cots lack covering such as sheets, etc. A feminine member of the Board, Miss Gert Weintraub, ably stated that this matter would not be taken lying down. The students of Ohio State can certainly count on the members of the Board.

The Board of Overseers, composed of eight student and seven non-student members, controls the government of the Ohio Union. Five of the student members are responsible individually for one of the departments under the Board. The departments—Office, Public Relations, Dance, Entertainment, and Recreation—each handle a certain phase of the Union's program and have, besides the top directors, many chairmen, sub-chairmen, and committee members.

The Office Department does typing, mimeographing, composing of letters, filing, ditto and clerical work as a service to the other departments of the Ohio Union Board and also (for a nominal charge) for organizations not directly connected with Ohio Union programming. There are five financial secretaries instead of chairmen which help the Department Supervisor in carrying out these activities and also are in charge of overseeing the budgets of all five of the departments.

Duties varying from a disk-jockey show to Homecoming Badges are the tasks of the many chairmen of the Public Relations Department. Every month the Department publishes a newsletter, "Activit-eyes," concerning the projects of Ohio State activities and every quarter it publishes the official Campus Calendar listing the coming events of the University

OFFICE COMMITTEE: Audrienne Dale, Dave Katz, Pat Higdon, Jack Spengler, Delores Mechling, Charles Martin.

Helen Ross—Program Director

The "Salutes Board" on the second floor and the Ride Bulletin are other projects of this busy department. Last but far from the least of the Department's duties is publicity. Lantern stories, photo releases, downtown news releases, and in fact all the publicity concerning the Union and Union Activities are channeled through the Department.

The Dance Department supplement the social program of the University by providing different types of all-campus dances. Stan Kenton, Johnny Long, and Billy May are among the Department's recent achievement. Besides these it also furnishes smaller mixer dances, terrace dancing, and Candlelight Inn, the Union's night club. Music and a floor show were furnished free of charge at Candlelight Inn and glowing candles at the tables add a dusky and romantic atmosphere.

The Entertainment Department is a diversified one which has something of interest to every student among its many different programs. Free entertainment, coffee, and cookies for all are provided at the weekly coffee hours sponsored by the Kaffee Klatsch Committee. Melody Manor, too, brings free entertainment in the guest performances of stars who are appearing in Columbus.

RECREATION COMMITTEE: Ken Langhout, Bub McFee, Bill Drier, Delores Mechling, Judy Feil, Sue Raney.

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE: Standing: John Crawford, Dan Bowers. Seated: Dick Bailey, Bill Sellers, Audrienne Dale, Connie Cutlip, Marguerite Miller, Park Walkup.

The Four Freshmen, one of the many groups to appear at Melody Manor, take time off for coffee. There were so many that could not get into the 200 capacity Conference Theatre that they presented three shows.

Union Activities

Thursday afternoons from four to five o'clock in the Terrace Lounge of the Union are really wild.

These Kaffee Klatch sessions provide coffee, cookies, and entertainment by leading University people.

These two groups from the Social Forum committee visit pledges at fraternity and sorority houses each Saturday morning. They are prepared to hold discussions on dating, etiquette, and other social problems.

Then there are the traveling panel of the Social Forum, the Music Library, the Book Review, the Art Exhibits, and the Dad's Day and Mother's Day Committees, each having a special job to do. During football season the Student Quarterback Committee holds sway supervising the weekly football movies. The Talent File and the Classic Music Hours Committee round out the extremely diversified Entertainment Department.

The sports and hobby interests of the students are brought forth through the Recreation Department. Tournaments in billiards, bowling, table tennis, and bridge are offered with trophies and prizes to the winners. The games room provides facilities for cards, chess, checkers, and other games. For photography hounds or for the person who would like to learn to develop his own photos the photographic dark rooms are available under the supervision of the Photography Club of the Union. Poster painting, ceramics, wood working, and leather craft can all be done in the craft shop if the student has a creative urge. Then, during Winter Quarter, when the weather permits, ice skating is provided under the stadium, giving students at least one reason to wish for cold weather.

Marv Fishman and Larry Davis with dates enjoy Candlelight Inn, but who wouldn't with a Correale model around.

Dick Botsch supervises as Delores Mechling and other Union Activities workers survey the Lantern for notices.

Room 100 of Page Hall is the focal point of interest each Thursday evening when the Student Senators meet to hash and rehash the many problems which they, as the student governing body must face. The 1952-53 season has indeed been one of the most successful in Senate history. The great big 1952 May Week was the Senate's first and possibly most crowning achievement. The annual event, capably organized and led by chairman Max Holzer and his efficient staff of committee chairmen, was acclaimed by many to be the biggest and best ever.

During Fall Quarter the Senate sponsored the United Appeals Drive, Dad's Day, and Homecoming. Dad's Day on November 8 was topped by a luncheon in the Union, honoring all the fathers of the football players. At this luncheon also the Dad of Dad's was introduced. Homecoming, under the guidance of Bill Judy, was its usual big success. The big weekend of gala decorations, pep rallies, and parties ended with the Buck's decisive defeat of Michigan's footballers and the after-game dance at the Union.

After a great deal of discussion and debate, Student Senate decided to join the National Student's Association and this was accomplished this fall. Preparations and plans are now being formulated for the National Conference of the Association which will be held here this summer. The annual Student Senate Banquet was held late in March at the end of a Student Senate 'term'. Retiring President Jack Cookston, a law school student, was presented with a briefcase and a symbolic gavel. Taking over in his place for next year was Dan Amstutz, new Student Senate Prexy.

Student Courts

The Ohio State University, like the United States Government, has its system of courts. Three courts or commissions — Men's, Student, and WSGA Standards— try cases of violations of University rules and three — Interfraternity, Panhellenic, and Pleiades—try those violations of specific organization rules. Above these commissions is the Student Court and at the very top of the hierarchy is the Council on Student Affairs.

The Men's, Student, and WSGA Standards Commissions all try cases involving violations of the regulations of the University, Social Board, and the Council on Student Affairs. However, the Men's Commission hears cases of individual men students and WSGA Standards Commission those of individual women while the Student Commission hears only those cases which concern organizations. WSGA Standards Commission also tries cases of violations of WSGA rulings, promotes self-government and encourages high standards of living among University women.

The Interfraternity Commission tries cases involving violations by professional and social fraternities or their individual members, the Panhellenic Commission those by sororities or their members, and Pleiades the cases of Pleiades groups or members. All three of the commissions have jurisdiction only over violations of the rulings of their specific organization.

The Student Court tries all cases involving violations of University traffic rules or Student Senate rulings and hears appeals from all the subordinate commissions. The Council on Student Affairs acts as the final appellate court for Student Court decisions. The Council, as a faculty-student body, also studies matters pertaining to the students and to student organizations.

Social Board

The Social Board is composed of six elected students and four faculty members. It has general jurisdiction over all student social events both on and off campus.

This year the Social Board had a signboard constructed at 15th and High to replace the one formerly rented by a private concern. It is handled by Social Board, with much reduced rates, for student groups.

The Social Board also established a dance band index to provide organizations with information on name and local bands. This is an attempt to eliminate student groups from having prices jacked on them.

Social Board plans a yearly social calendar far in advance, thus eliminating conflicts and enabling important events to be spaced.

Links

The gold chain of the Links pin symbolizes its purpose to Link the campus upperclass women with the community. The activities of this subdivision of WSGA include numerous community projects. The girls work with the children in settlement houses and give teas at the Franklin County Home. This year Links has added a brand new project, Campus U.S.O. During the next school year they will also undertake University Promotions. Besides their own many projects Links also helps other organizations with their undertakings. After earning sixty points through these group activities, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior women receive their pins. An initiation is held during May Week in Mirror Lake Hollow. Following this is the Recognition Banquet and Links looks forward again to a new year.

WSGA

WSGA first became known in 1908 as a Women's Council. Then in 1927 the Women's Council changed its name to the Women's Self Government Association. Over a period of 26 years this organization has grown until the clerical work is conducted by an office including freshmen, six sophomore secretaries and the Secretary of WSGA who is responsible for the supervision of the office activities.

The purpose of WSGA is to regulate all matters pertaining to the student life of women which do not fall under the immediate jurisdiction of the Faculty or of the Student Senate. All women registered in the University are automatically members of the Women's Self Government Association. However, the policy-making body consists of a board of 52 women who represent organizations, dormitories, and classes.

"WSGA—YOU MAKE IT PAY" was the motto for the 1952-1953 Board. And that's exactly the plan they followed. The traditional Golddiggers' Prom held during Winter Quarter, presented 16 candidates to the women students for the election of their KING. The 1953-1954 board was elected during Winter Quarter with all women students voting for class representatives. During Spring vacation WSGA gals spoke to the seniors in various high schools and presented a picture of OSU college life.

WSGA's Penny-a-minute Night was held this year and was a great success. The women students were permitted to take an extra half-hour at the time of return home if they or their dates wished to contribute one cent per minute for the extra 30 minutes.

The most outstanding event of the year was the National Convention of the Association of Women Students held at Ohio State during the first week in April. The first national meeting of the group was held on the Ohio State Campus thirty years ago, at which time Mrs. Christine Y. Conaway, our Dean of Women, was the first national president of IAWS. The foremost women leaders from the attending schools were gathered with their deans and advisers. A very fine program was carried out by WSGA.

IAWS would like for all the women's governing units of the member schools to adopt the name Association of Women Students as many of the schools have done in order to have unity along this line. WSGA considered doing this but finally voted to keep the present name because the members want the fact emphasized that it is an organization self-governed by the women students.

From the beginning of the year when WSGA Information Booths helped many Freshmen lost in the confusion of Ohio State during Orientation Week to the climax of this eventful year—the colorful May Supper held on the Oval during May Week—WSGA was very successful and played a prominent part in many of the lives of Ohio State University coeds.

WSGA maintains that self government is only as strong as the individuals exercising it. There is, therefore, a great deal of responsibility placed upon each of the Ohio State coeds for each is a member of this democratic system. The women students on the campus have lived up to their responsibility in a manner of which we have a right to be proud and Ohio State can boast one of the best WSGA's in the country.

WSGA carries on the business of all the women students on campus through an efficiently run office located in the Ohio Union. Smiling co-eds such as those pictured greet every visitor to that office.

Retiring WSGA Sophomore Secretaries star in a true-to-life portrayal of a busy day in the WSGA office. The event was the WSGA Installation Banquet . . .

Women's Panhellenic Association

Jo Kirby, Alpha Phi; Bev Stover, Delta Gamma; Pat Love, Alpha Delta Pi, lead this year's Women's Panhellenic Association through a very successful year.

The Women's Panhellenic Association through its governing council endeavors to establish inter-sorority spirit on campus and act upon matters of local and national Panhellenic interest. The Council, composed of the president and a delegate from each sorority, binds together and directs the twenty-two sororities on the Ohio State University campus.

An Installation Banquet was held during March to install the new officers of the Council. Also in this month a very successful workshop was held for new sorority officers. The Workshop hoped to acquaint the officers with their duties, discuss common problems, and encourage a better working relationship among the members of Panhellenic. Beginning with an informal coffee hour, the Workshop then broke up into nine officers' discussion groups where information and ideas were rapidly exchanged on all sides. This year a mass meeting was held after the discussion groups instead of the luncheon and installation of officers which previously had followed them. At the meeting, reports were made from the discussion groups on the ideas they had formulated.

During Spring Quarter the executive officers and advisor of the Association attended the Big Ten IFC Conference held at the University of Indiana. Also at this time of the year the Council has the important job of reviewing and formulating the rushing rules and setting up the policies for the ensuing year.

Besides these many duties the Council also has several philanthropic projects. One of these is the sponsorship of Edouard, a French War Orphan, in conjunction with the Council of Fraternity Presidents; and another is helping the Childhood League with their Carnival held at the Valley Dale. Foreign students are also invited to dinner by the individual sororities through the influence of Panhellenic.

Council of Sorority Presidents

The Council of Sorority Presidents is, as its name implies, a group composed of the presidents of all the Ohio State sororities. The Council rotates among the different sorority houses for its informal meetings which are held every two weeks. Dinner is served and then the group discusses problems of interest to the sororities such as those of administration and those of individual and group procedures. The Council is a committee of the Women's Panhellenic Association and when it deems it necessary can recommend to the appropriate governing body action which it considers needful for sorority welfare.

Pledge Panhellenic

The Pledge Panhellenic Council, composed of the pledge presidents from each of Ohio State's twenty-two sororities, acts as an advisory body for the pledge groups, provides an educational training for membership in Panhellenic Association, and discusses rushing procedure. Any suggestions on rushing are given to the Women's Panhellenic Council. Pledge Panhellenic also helps them with their "Foster Parent Plan" project. The Pledge Panhellenic members also hold a party with Freshman Fraternity Council. Through these activities, the council tries to bring friendly relations among all the pledges on the Ohio State campus.

Fraternity Affairs Office

The Fraternity Affairs Office was founded in 1932 by Mr. Fred Stecker, who is now Director of the Ohio Union. This was done in order to have a coordination office for the Greek System which would serve both the Administration and the Fraternities.

The Fraternities are fortunate in having the cooperation of the Dean of Men's Office. Mylin Ross, an alumnus of Phi Gamma Delta, is the Dean of Men, and James McElhaney, an alumnus of Alpha Tau Omega, is the Assistant Dean of Men, as well as being the advisor of FAO.

The duties of the Fraternity Affairs Office are numerous. In general, they coordinate and record the activities of the various organizations including Professional Interfraternity Council, Interfraternity Commission, Council of Fraternity Presidents, Freshman Fraternity Council, and Pledge Trainers Council.

The Ohio State University fraternity system took top honors for the third consecutive year at the 1952 National Interfraternity Conference. The conference was held this year at the world famous Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City, on November 28th and 29th. Ohio State was represented at the conference by James McElhaney, advisor, Bill Hand, Dave Bell, and Mort Merchey.

The organization of the office is relatively simple. The office of Secretary-Treasurer was broken down into two offices this year. The secretary is in charge of all the responsibilities within the office, while the treasurer handles all the financial responsibilities. These two officers are in charge of the rest of the staff.

The Council of Fraternity Presidents was founded in 1931. The Council is composed of the presidents of each of the forty-nine social fraternities. The CFP establishes the policies of the Fraternity System for the benefit of all its members, and it strives to give all the fraternities an equal opportunity on this campus. The Council also tries to create better relationships between the different fraternities.

The Council meets twice a month in Page Hall. Freshmen attend these meetings and take the minutes while keeping up with the proceedings. The Executive Committee of the Council meets on the day preceding each CFP meeting in the Dean of Men's office in order to discuss the important issues and to then suggest further action.

The Interfraternity Commission, Pledge Trainers Council, Professional Interfraternity Council, and Freshman Fraternity Council are all controlled through the Fraternity Affairs office by CFP. The Fraternity Affairs Office is a central clearing house for the various policies set up through the Council of Fraternity Presidents.

An important function of the Council is the planning and supervising of the annual Greek Week program. Other matters that concern the Council are decisions on rushing, initiations, and fraternity policies. The Council of Fraternity Presidents also has various charitable projects of its own during the year.

The Council of Fraternity Presidents is the governing body of the most outstanding fraternity system in a large urban city. Ohio State has been judged to have the best fraternity system in the country several times, largely through the fine work done by CFP.

Professional Interfraternity Council

The Professional Interfraternity Council is an organization that represents the professional fraternities on the campus. It holds two or three meetings a quarter for the purpose of getting all the professional fraternities together to iron out any problems that may come up.

The outstanding project of the council for the year was the annual recognition banquet held at the Ohio Union on February 25. Doctor Justin Powers of the School of Pharmacy, and Doctor A. R. Theobold of the College of Veterinary Medicine were honored for their outstanding contributions in those fields. Also awarded at this time was the Burrell Trophy to the fraternity with the highest scholarship.

Another project of the council was the P.I.F.C. Dance held Spring Quarter. All of the members of the professional schools were invited to attend—and attend they did!

Fraternity Managers Association

Nearly three quarters of a million dollars' worth of merchandise is bought each year by the Fraternity Managers' Association at Ohio State University, the first and largest of the fraternity and sorority purchasing group in the country. Owned and operated by seventy-five men's and women's fraternity chapters, the Association is a strictly non-profit organization. By pooling the purchases of food, equipment, supplies, and services necessary to operate the fraternity and sorority houses, it secures valuable price savings and establishes a good credit rating.

A full-time staff, employed by the Board of Trustees, is needed to handle the business details of the office. The Board is composed of five student members, the President of campus Panhellenic, the Secretary of Fraternity Affairs, the Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, and six alumni members.

Freshman Fraternity Council

The Freshman Fraternity Council is a promising group of the Pledge Presidents of each fraternity's pledge class. This group sponsors the annual "Pledge Princess Prom" and the annual Gainer Cup Banquet.

The Freshman Fraternity Council is a very important and functional organization in campus fraternity life. Representatives of the 49 social fraternity pledge classes meet periodically at member fraternity houses. The Council strives to coordinate pledge activities and to promote cooperation among Freshmen of the various Greek organizations on campus.

The Pledge Princess Prom, one of the main projects of the year, was well attended by pledges from every fraternity and sorority. Ronni Keogan of Delta Gamma was chosen Pledge Princess.

The Council worked in conjunction with the Council of Fraternity Presidents in sponsoring the Gainer Cup Banquet to honor the outstanding fraternity man and pledge of the year. The Council also put out the "Fraternity Life Booklet" and the newsletter "With the Greeks" is published by the FFC.

CFP Help Week

The Council of Fraternity Presidents this year decided, with the help of advisor James F. McElhaney, on a new policy concerning what has formerly been known as Hell Week. During this week, which preceeds fraternity initiation weekend every quarter, campus fraternities have resorted to hazing of prospective actives. A new leaf was turned by CFP, however, when they decided to direct energies of pledges in the process of initiation toward worthwhile community projects which would possibly boost opinions of fraternity life.

The first of these projects was completed Fall Quarter around Armistice Day during the Fall initiation week. Under the direction of Buz Lukens of Delta Chi ten social service agencies in the city were contacted and asked to assign jobs which needed doing to willing fraternity pledges, which they did with enthusiastic commendation.

The boys started assigned projects early in the morning and worked the entire day, completing the job efficiently. Publicity for Ohio States Hell Week which results were very good and the Council of Fraternity Presidents patted themselves on the back for a job well done.

Buckeye Political Party

The Buckeye Political Party, established only one year ago on May 28, 1952, now has a membership of 20 houses. The purpose of the Buckeye Political Party is to sponsor a multiple party system of politics on campus which will induce the parties to nominate top caliber people to voice student opinions concerning campus issues. The BPP is interested in encouraging good will and cooperation among University students by their participation in student government. By their participation in activities, elections, and student government, students gain valuable experience to aid them in becoming future civic leaders.

The Buckeye Political Party is constantly informing its members of facts concerning vital issues before the Student Senate and expressing the students' wishes on campus issues to the Senate. Also in attempting to obtain the most qualified students for class offices and senatorial seats, the BPP has a system of petitions, screening interviews, and class conventions prior to the May elections.

An enjoyable project of the BPP was an orphans' party with underprivileged children. The BPP had parties irregularly spaced throughout the year. One of these was a Buckeye Hunt Party at which the members collected buckeyes to be used in campaigns during the spring.

If in each successive year the party shows the keen interest and initiative that has been experienced this year, the Buckeye Political Party will become a firm political tradition through the years.

Wheels in the newly formed Buckeye Party gather around to plot a little party strategy. President Norm Ryder of Beta Theta Pi, far left, dictates and Burt Eichler, Chic Martin, and Ken Langhout work for secretaries.

Ohio Student Party Associated

As the oldest and most successful political party at Ohio State, OSPA started out its 24th year controlling all the class offices, a majority of the elected Student Senators, and numerous other campus posts.

The Annual OSPA awards banquet which honors outstanding activities people was held in the Franklin Room March 10. Jack Fullen was M.C. and the main speaker was John Marsh, curator of History at the Ohio State Museum. On the basis of scholarship, activities, and general contributions to the university, Fanne Kehoe and Nora Brown were awarded trophies at the banquet.

The advent of the party news letter "OSPA SPEAKS" was hailed by all concerned with campus politics as a positive contribution to the undergraduate body since it surveys and accurately defines all current topics of discussion, presenting as fairly as possible, both sides of the question.

Spring Quarter traditionally being the political quarter due to the May Week Elections, OSPA holds a convention. The convention is planned exactly as are the national conventions and, as well as deciding party policy, the participants gain invaluable experience in the techniques of political life.

The general purpose of OSPA has been to promote the furtherance of student participation in self government and the establishment of a party platform consistent with the principles of the organization. OSPA has in the past tried to initiate action on matters of general student interest and general student welfare.

OSPA party members applaud enthusiastically for the speaker at their evening dinner meeting in the Franklin Room of the Ohio Union. At these meetings delegates from fraternity and sorority members of OSPA discuss and formulate party policies and plan for elections Spring Quarter.

Ohio Stater's Inc.

1953 — Ohio's Sesquicentennial — and the organization that made everyone at Ohio State University live and breathe the one hundred fiftieth year's anniversary was Ohio Stater's Inc., our University's "Chamber of Commerce". Although the Sesquicentennial was one of the major projects this year, Ohio Stater's, Inc. is better known for their work in co-sponsoring with the Athletic Department, the Football Appreciation Banquet. This last year the Banquet was held in the Union and was open to everyone. This wonderful climax to the football season, during which Ohio Stater's, Inc. sponsored a train to Northwestern, was supplemented during Winter Quarter by the greatest collaboration of Ohio State University talent ever presented, U-Hallzapoppin! Master of ceremonies was Joe Marino — the uke man — who at that time made his last public appearance on our campus as a student.

One day each quarter is devoted by members of Ohio Staters, Inc. to discussing campus problems. This involves quite a bit of difficult thinking which is done in the most relaxing atmosphere possible. These Ohio Stater's, Inc. members dine as they meet in the Union every Thursday.

Vocational Information Council

When Jeanne Hittle called to order the first Vocational Information Council meeting of Spring Quarter 1952, plans were already being made for the annual career conference to take place during Winter Quarter, 1953. "Career Close-ups" on February 4 and 5 in the Union presented to women students outstanding speakers from all over the nation giving up-to-date information on numerous fields of prospective employment such as airlines, advertising, the army, and social life.

Needless to say, all of this required hours and hours of planning and work, but still the girls of VIC had time for fun. The annual spring picnic for all members was held at the field house during May. Also during Spring Quarter was the annual Membership Tea at Pomerene Hall, at which the purposes of the organization were explained to new members. Definite plans for the conference were put into action at this time under the capable guidance of Miss Hopwood, group adviser.

VIC members were honored to have at one of their fall meetings, Dr. Dorothy Pollock, Director of Vocational Training at Stephen's College, Columbus, Missouri. To a group of enthused VICers, Dr. Pollock talked about the use of college training in the community.

"Would you like to rate silverware patterns for the Towle Silver Company?" was the question being asked of many girls at the beginning of Winter Quarter. February 11 found Pomerene Hall echoing feminine oh's and ah's as well as the inevitable "I don't care for it," as many future homemakers voiced their opinions of the Towle Silver Display to representatives of the Towle Company.

This year marked the first of what is hoped will be an annual affair—the VIC Installation Banquet—at which new officers were honored and formally installed. Judy Zack welcomed VIC members and introduced Miss Hopwood who gave a brief talk on the history and development of the council. Before installation, Darlene Wagner entertained the group with Excerpt from Dress in a Desert. Held at the Union, this affair proved to be the main social get-together of Winter.

The Intercollegiate Association of Women Students which met on Ohio State's campus this year, was honored by VIC which sponsored the final banquet of the four-day convention. The VIC committee asked Margaret Culkin Banning, noted author, to speak at this time. Thus, it can be seen that the members of VIC carried out their purpose of keeping women students interested and informed about vocational opportunities as well as providing other worthwhile activities for its members.

An exploration of the Bible is the topic under discussion in one of the Y's Bible classes at the Union.

YMCA . . . YWCA

"A way of living which makes the Christian perspective vital in every relationship of your life on this campus and in the world," is what the YMCA and the YWCA are. In creating this way of living, the Y's have set up a program that covers a wide variety of interests—of importance to every student on our campus. Emphasis this year was placed on a joint program between the two Y's, the feeling being that more interest is aroused by the combination of the groups. The feeling was correct, for the end of this year had some results that were outstanding. The individual groups within the Y program were characterized by a marked increase in participation over previous years. Included in the program which makes the Y's a better organization was that of "Exploring the Bible" under the direction of Bobby Robinson. Here, with the help of good discussions and capable speakers, the Bible came to life for many interested students. "Problems in Community Living" and the "Marriage Study Group" led by Ronald Anderson and Ruth Heffron, respectively, attracted numerous students, who took several field trips to learn more about these problems and then during Winter Quarter sponsored the Marriage Seminar series for the campus. Informed citizens are what we need today, and under the guidance of Lloyd Hubler, students met each Thursday to become better citizens. Jane See-stedt's social service group sponsored a clothing drive, week-end work camps, and hospital visitations, all of which proved to be extremely successful. International students are represented in the Y's program, too; in fact, they play a very vital part. In the World Relatedness group under the leadership of Barb Tate, students from Indiana as well as those from India discussed the United Nations missions and helped to plan the International Students' Day, to which foreign students from colleges all over Ohio are invited to Ohio State's campus for discussing topics of international concern, entertainment and tours. Jerry Zeller planned a program involving such prominent men as President Bevis and Dean Mylin Ross as speakers for fireside chats in his group labeled Campus Affairs. The social side of the Y's was organized by Suzie Scott and Court Hall, and brought to the members many of the highlights of the whole year. Dances like the Ice-breaker Dance, held during Fall Quarter, hayrides and parties of all kinds, shapes and sizes brought an overwhelming turnout from the students on our campus, as did the annual "White Christmas" program featuring Handel's "Messiah" sung by the University Chorus.

Eager new students burst onto our campus last fall, as a result of Y's yearly Freshman Camp. Jim McVey wore out his very finger-tips playing the beautiful piano at Camp Mary Orton and Buz Lukens learned how to dance while teaching the steps to the campers.

Alpha Phi Omega

Last Spring Quarter for Alpha Phi Omega began with one of the funniest and most revolting traditions on our campus. You guessed it—Alpha Phi Omega's annual "Ugly Man on Campus," of which the prize specimen was Don Davis. Any men's organization on campus was entitled to select a candidate, and select they did—everything from the horrifying face of some "Frankenstein" to a misshapen body carrying a bloody knife.

A little more on the serious side of the APO's work for Spring Quarter was their series of guided tours during International Students' Day in cooperation with the YMCA and YWCA. An annual weekend outing at which pledges are initiated completed the round of activities for Alpha Phi Omega during the spring.

Did you take for granted the trees on this campus? Please don't, for they are the cause of this organization's main service contribution to the University. For the nature loving members of APO have been naming and placing these trees on a map of the campus. Not only is this a vital project in protecting the beauty of our campus, but it also has proven to be an interesting one to these men.

Highlighting Fall Quarter was the Mistletoe Prom at which the selection of Mistletoe Miss is announced. Marilyn Brown took the honors this year and was justly rewarded with a trophy and a kiss.

The APO's are busy all the time, even during vacation. Their national convention was held at Ohio State this year from December 28 through the 30th. Following the inspiration given during this outstanding affair, the organization began a new service project during Winter Quarter. They have taken it on themselves to clean the bulletin boards all over campus, leaving on them only up-to-date material.

Red Cross

"Make a date to save a life," reads the slogan in the campus Red Cross office, and the students who work here have been using all of their powers in soliciting their fellow students for blood during the past year. To sponsor blood drives on our campus is the main duty of this campus organization, which aids the Columbus headquarters of the National Red Cross in many of their projects. Under the direction of Ron Gross, 182 pints of blood were collected during the All-Campus Drive last October. Some supposed the collection of such a large amount of blood was a result of the free coffee and doughnuts furnished to the donors. Almost 300 pints were collected during Winter Quarter when the Air ROTC and Naval ROTC held separate drives for their members. The volunteer student workers have several duties at the scene of the drive, including assisting the regular Red Cross workers in registering and weighing donors, preparing the container bottles, and loading Bloodmobile equipment.

Finals were climaxed, last Fall Quarter, for the Columbus members of this organization when they journeyed to the Chillicothe Veterans' Hospital for Christmas caroling.

Last winter, the big office was so crowded that the members had difficulty seeing each other. It was the time of the clothing drive for the flood refugees in Holland and in response to the urgent call, the students donated a whole truckload of clothes. The Marines at Camp LeJeune, North Carolina had a lot of reading material, when they received the pocket-novels sent their way by the University Red Cross group, and the patients at the Columbus State Hospital had a lot of entertainment when Pleiades presented an hour-long program for them under the sponsorship of the Red Cross.

"Don't forget," says the sign above these Red Cross workers and they aren't forgetting how vital their work is, as they plan a campus-wide blood drive.

International Students

Embassy Club and International Affairs Assembly, the two organizations on our campus representing foreign students, are respectively, for the social and administrative affairs of these students. Last spring, these groups during International Week at Ohio State, sponsored the weekly Kaffee Klatsch in the Union. Also, during this week, sororities and fraternities invited foreign students to their houses for dinners and discussions. The University Club was the scene, during April, of the "New Officers' Banquet" and to climax the school year a picnic was held along the Scioto River during May, which has, with Embassy Club, become an annual event.

Members of Embassy Club and I.A.A. must like to eat, for not only did they close spring quarter with a picnic, but they also started the new school year last fall with another one, also on the shores of the Scioto. Nancy Bowerman did the very effective planning for the first meeting of foreign students starting schooling at Ohio State. Most of these students became active in either or both of the organizations and participated in the planning of the joint Christmas Party with the YMCA and YWCA.

Each Thursday, Embassy Club sponsored a speaker, a picnic, party or sometimes a discussion on current world events.

Civitas

Man? Independent? Social gatherings? Intramural sports?

The answer, Civitas, the independent men's organization on our campus which tries each year to provide independent men with a well-rounded social and intramural sports program. The social side of the program is carried on continually, as you can see when you walk by the crowded office in the Union. Of course the busy Pleiades office next door doesn't help to keep the boys away. Joint functions of the two groups include "Meet your Faculty Night" held last spring in Pomerene, the annual Halloween party — always noisy, but lots of fun, and the Starduster's Ball in January. Near the end of each quarter the groups sponsor a dance known as the "Finals Fling." Everyone makes it a point to be at this dance, as this is where all the plans are made concerning the many social functions held during finals week! Civitas Collegians held the spotlight in February when they played for 1,000 people at the campus wide All-Independent Dance .

Last spring Civitas members went into training. Taking courses in parliamentary procedure and discussion organization, these young men went to the University of Oklahoma fully equipped to organize and put into action ideas of students from all over the United States at the National Independent Student Association Convention.

Each year, in keeping with the original purpose of the organization, these young men inspect rooming houses in the University vicinity, ask male students to fill out questionnaires, and report observations to the University Administration.

Regulars around the office are Dick Banks, Warren Northrop, Roy Albridge, Bob Cronenwett, and Lou Bykoski.

Pleiades

"Busy all the time," must be a motto posted in the Pleiades office on the second floor of the Union. Any hour of any day is likely to find girls busy promoting friendship and activity among independent women at Ohio State, and we might add, with the men of Civitas next door. These young women have an organization of several individual groups which meet weekly at Pomerene Hall. At the beginning of the year, there is an All Pleiades Fall Tea for incoming freshmen and then the new girls are entertained by the separate groups at coke parties during the first weeks of school. There are, however, many functions during each quarter which are for all members. Each spring is the year-long anticipated Scholarship and Awards Banquet at which Rabbi Jerome D. Folkman of Temple Israel spoke last year.

Money-makers are these gals, for each spring quarter, they put all their efforts into Job Week earning as much money as possible in order to finance the Rita Foster Memorial Fund, a scholarship given to an outstanding and worthy member. Last year's award went to Ruth Kroff, who incidently, represented Ohio State at the National Independent Student Association Convention in Norman, Oklahoma as O.S.U.'s candidate for National Independent Sweetheart.

With Starduster's Ball in January came the announcement of Ohio State's Independent Sweetheart, Miss Nancy Wykoff. Winter quarter's biggest attraction was the annual "Royal Order of the Bath." Skits were given by each group and the boys of Civitas modeled home-made shower caps for the girls.

Religion in Life Week

January 25 through 29, 1953 marked the first annual Religion in Life Week at Ohio State University, sponsored by the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant religious centers and foundations for all University students and faculty members. Emphasizing the positive contribution of religion to life, the Religion in Life committees chose their theme from the Biblical verse, "Whatsoever is just . . . honest . . . and of good report . . . think on these things." With this in mind students and faculty joined hands and carried out the activities of the week "each through his own avenue of faith."

The program, initiated by the Student Council for Religious Affairs and the University Religious Council, began on Sunday morning with the many church services, Sunday afternoon, the Columbus Town Meeting on television and radio, presented "Religion In An Atomic Age" with such distinguished guests as William G. Pollard of Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Physics and Arthur Flemming, President of Ohio Wesleyan University. Suppers at the various foundations attracted many students, who then went to one of the three lectures given for Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant students Sunday evening.

Breakfast in the Franklin Room of the Union brought smiles to the faces of the leaders and the University committee members each morning during the remainder of the week. Speakers and discussion leaders attended classes throughout the week for the purpose of bringing more students in contact with the outstanding people on our campus at this time. Seminars, movies, panels, lectures, conversation hours and forums were also held in various campus buildings and the Union. Here, we found that everything from religion in physics to religion in the home was discussed.

The whole week was highlighted by the College Convocations, at which many outstanding personalities spoke, including Stanley W. Olson, M.D., Dean of the Medical School of Baylor University; Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati; Homer P. Rainey, former President of the University of Texas and Stephens College; and Ivor Griffith, President of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science. Preceding and following these evening convocations were the residential Fireside Forums for all students living on the campus.

During Religion in Life Week, the Union housed an art exhibit of thirty-two color paintings of Old Testament characters by Guy Rowe, from In His Image by Houston Harte. Famous books were also on display this week at the Library, Religious Centers and Long's.

Student Council on Religious Affairs

The main project of SCRA during the past year has been work towards the organization of a single coordinated religious body, representing all established religious groups, to act as a voice for the campus on matters of religion. This single body would take the place of the present SCRA and the University Religious Council, consisting of campus ministers and religious workers.

Several other projects came into the limelight during the past year. Last fall, during Homecoming weekend, SCRA sponsored the annual Fall Frolic in the Ohio Union.

Religion in Life Week was the major event during the Winter Quarter. SCRA joined with the University Religious Council in sponsoring one of the most meaningful and well-attended activities on our campus last year.

Westminster Foundation

At 64 East 15th, a place was provided for fun, fellowship, and worship for Presbyterian students. This is the Westminster Foundation House, in which the activities of the group were carried on under the leadership of President Connie Swickard. Each week was characterized by a good many get-togethers, including a vesper program on Sunday evenings, business meetings on Tuesdays, Bible study on Thursdays, a party on Friday evenings and, daily, a cooperative lunch program, for the members.

Last spring, when the group retreated to Tar Hollow, they were privileged to have the Reverend Art Cruichshank of Portsmouth, Ohio, speak to them. The students really had their chance during Winter Quarter at the group's annual Faculty-Student Banquet.

Representatives Jay Crowford and Pam Martin.

Christian Science Organization

Weekly meetings of the Christian Science Organization emphasized speakers, readings, and recreation. Receptions were given during fall quarter for new students, in order to interest the men in the opportunity of learning the truth about Christian Science. Here, the numerous experiences of the students of Christian Science were shared with their friends.

This year's officers, Dwight Michener, president; John Koch, vice-president; Glade Schneider and Charles Speigle, secretary and treasurer, respectively, organized meetings featuring several noted speakers, such as Mrs. Anna R. Adams, C.S.B., teacher and practitioner in Christian Science from Columbus. Seven members journeyed to Miami University for a joint conclave during May of last year.

Albright-Otterbein Student Fellowship

Coach Floyd Stahl brought humor and material for thought to one of the weekly Sunday night meetings of the Albright-Otterbein Student Fellowship when he spoke to the members on ethics in athletics. Speakers of such caliber are characteristic of these meetings along with panel discussions and movies. On Sunday mornings the students attend church together and before the evening meeting, they have dinner at the AOSF House. A study of the Bible is conducted weekly on Wednesdays, and Friday nights are reserved for social get-togethers.

During April of last year, AOSF'ers retreated to Pike Lake for a weekend together. Religious instruction was the main purpose and this retreat was so successful that another was planned for the fall of the year also.

Kappa Phi

Cabinet members of Kappa Phi perform one of their most enjoyable duties — singing for the initiates at the Degree of the Pine.

"Others." A fitting motto for this organization of Methodist women dedicated to helping every Methodist woman in the University world today, be a leader in the Church of tomorrow. The group is divided into six circles, which have semi-monthly Tuesday meetings. Speakers, panels, discussions and skits highlight these meetings and twice a quarter the groups give parties at children's homes.

Added interest comes each spring when the Kappa Phi's join with the men of Sigma Theta Epsilon for the spring formal. The Spring Banquet and annual Mother's Day Tea on May 11, and the Senior Recognition Service complete the Spring program.

In the fall of the year, prospective pledges were entertained with a program which presented the year's theme, "With Freedom's Holy Light." October 28 marked the night of pledging of forty new girls. "Kiddies Krismus" was the annual Southside Settlement House Christmas party. The initiation of twenty-nine members was the activity of Kappa Phi during winter quarter. The "Degree of the Light" was given to them at Indianola Methodist Church with the traditional candlelight setting. The alumnae of Kappa Phi and the Mother's Club joined forces during winter quarter to give a banquet in honor of the founding of this organization in 1916. When the national president of Kappa Phi visited Ohio State during winter quarter before leaving for India with her husband, the girls honored her with a "Pin Party," at which she was given every kind of pin—from a safety pin, to a hat pin—to a Kappa Phi pin. Such fun-filled activities are characteristic of Kappa Phi's throughout the year.

With a five-fold purpose bent on creating an intimate Christian fellowship, developing leadership, providing religious training, acquainting Methodist men with the church, and promoting wholesome activities, the men of Sigma Theta Epsilon planned a full program of activities this year.

They joined with the Kappa Phi's in sponsoring their Spring Formal at the YWCA. Dancing isn't the only sport for these boys for they also enjoy eating, which they do each Spring Quarter at their annual Spring Banquet. Last spring the advisor to the organization, Mr. John Kramer of the Philosophy Department, spoke to them after the delicious meal served in the Union.

Hayrides are characteristic of Fall Quarter and the Sig Theta Eps had one. Outdoor meetings and the annual Christmas Dance, sponsored by the pledges, were also on this quarter's agenda. The children from the South Side Settlement laughed at the Sigma Theta Epsilon's Santa Claus when he came merrily into the Indianola Student Center with presents for all, just before Christmas vacation last year. The first major event in Winter Quarter was the Valentine's Day Sweetheart Dance. However, the variety show topped all events as the boys did a take-off on the Canterbury Tales. This show, named Wesleybury Tales, featured boys from the Wesley residences depicting true-to-life incidents around the foundation.

Ed Gosney, with the able assistance of Ross Love, Jerry Rosenberger, Warren Cermak, and Charles Wylie carried on the business of Sigma Theta Epsilon last year joining with members on alternating Tuesday nights for group meetings.

Hillel Foundation

Party? Party? Food, drink and jokes; thanks to the young man at the right. BOTTOM: Handmade corsages bring many customers to this dance at Hillel. Proceeds went to the United Jewish Student Fund.

"Guys and Dolls" was the theme of the skit that stole the show at Hillel's Stunt Night last April. The trophy, competed for by various groups, went to the ZBT's. Suspense was added to this night of nights for Jewish students, as it was also the date of the introduction of the new officers of the Foundation. These new officers had a busy year ahead of them, for since that time Hillel has sponsored several radio and television shows, one of which demonstrated how the Jewish observe the Sabbath. Each week at Hillel's new center, the Schanfarber Memorial Building, buzzes with activity—meetings of the music appreciation group, the string quartet, and the Jewish folk dancing group. Sunday forums, sponsored by Hillel and the Graduate Faculty Club, are open to all, as is listening to the Sunday evening speaker, who is chosen by Hillel for his outstanding qualities. One Shabbat, the social hour, is held each Friday following the religious service.

Jimmy Goldrich entertained new students fall quarter at the quarterly Combo Open House at Hillel. Remember Armistice Day last fall—no school! Everyone took advantage of the fact and studied. Not so, Hillel. The eve of that memorable day found 46 East 16th Avenue in readiness for a dance. Another important dance during the year was Manhattan Towers at which corsages were sold, the proceeds going to the United Jewish Student Fund. This big drive for money for destitute people from Israel got another boost from Hillel members when they sponsored the Hillel Carnival during winter quarter.

Tuesday evenings at Hillel are reserved for Student Council meetings at which all committees and activities within the Foundation are represented. This council provides games, music, reading and activities at the Schanfarber Memorial Building.

Lutheran Student Association

Pike Lake, just west of Chillicothe, was a cold place for Don Mount, president of LSA, when at the yearly winter retreat, his clothes were confiscated by the girls and sewed together in many weird fashions. Weekend Retreats like this one were squeezed into social calenders in the busy lives of these Lutheran students who also had the chance to attend suppers and programs on Sunday evenings, discussion classes on Tuesdays, evening vespers on Wednesdays, and some type of social program on Friday evenings.

Open houses after football games at 38 East 12th Avenue and a clothing drive for the Lutheran World Relief highlighted fall quarter. During April of last spring quarter these Ohio State students journeyed to Pennsylvania for the Little Ashram, where they spent a weekend worshiping, working, and playing.

University Lutheran Center

Childhood memories came back to members of Gamma Delta at one of their Friday night parties last fall. These functions, which are held bi-weekly, always feature something unusual and this one was no exception, for those attending were greeted by baby pictures of themselves which covered the walls of the party room. Other Friday social functions have included dances, hayrides and game parties. Regular get-togethers are also held on Sunday nights with a supper and a program, and on Wednesday evenings the group discusses religious problems and current events. In the spring when a young man's fancy turns to love, as does a woman's, the topic is marriage.

Banquets and outdoor worship services dotted the spring and fall calendars of Gamma Delta plus an added extra during the fall—a White Christmas party for the children of the Ohio School for the Deaf.

Newman Club

Newman Club officers take time out from extensive planning long enough to look up and smile for the photographer.

Newman Hall, the large building located at 1946 Iuka, is the newest of student religious organizations at Ohio State. Just recently completed, it has now finished its first full year of operation, under the leadership and guidance of President Tom Showalter aided by Betty Jean Gabor, Robert Thomas, Peg Underwood, Arlene MacEldowney, Dominic Pillin and all of the members of Newman Club. Father James P. McEwan, O.P., deserves special mention as chaplain of the group for his advice and service to the Newmanites has long been considered the very best. With such leadership during the past year, Newman Club couldn't go wrong in carrying out its purpose of uniting Catholic students in a complete social, religious and educational program, specifically for them. In order to do this more effectively, the officers attended the Ohio Valley Province Spring Officers Meeting, during April of last year. Newman Club officers from Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia attended this meeting which was a training period for new and prospective officers. Spring Quarter was brought to a climax by the annual Recognition Banquet which each year honors outstanding seniors and freshmen and the members to be entered in the John Henry Cardinal Newman Society, who were, last year, Bishop Michael J. Ready, Lawrence Rose, and Luke Kramer.

The Newman Club offers much of this friendly recreation between class and for Friday night open houses.

These casual Wednesday night dances with juke-box music are part of the perpetual social program.

"Welcome Freshmen" was the theme used by Newmanites at their first dance last fall at which more than 100 members proudly displayed their new activities quarters. New students weren't the only ones to see Newman Hall last fall, however, for Ohio State played host to the Ohio Valley Province Convention, to which students from the surrounding states and from all over Ohio attended. Here plans for the new school year were discussed and also, Father McEwan of Ohio State was elected Province Chaplain. The convention was honored to have Father Mooney, the past National Catholic Youth Director, speak.

As the spell of Christmastime goodwill spread over the Newman Club members, they began planning a Christmas party for the children at St. Vincent's Orphanage. Fun and food were the main distinguishing marks at their party, which is given each year. More spirited thoughts sent the members of the group home for Christmas vacation after their annual "Holly Hop."

St. Vincent's orphanage once more came into the spotlight of the plans of the Newman Club, during Winter Quarter, when they gave a "Charity Ball," the proceeds of which were for the benefit of the orphanage. Foreign students on our campus enjoyed themselves during January, at the "International Party" held at Newman Hall. Here, also, was the retreat for members during Religion in Life Week. Worshiping together and hearing outstanding speakers was a wonderful experience never to be forgotten.

"Newman Club Night" each Wednesday offers Catholic students a chance for fellowship, as do the Friday night social functions. The Newmanites are proud of their first place for independents in homecoming decorations last fall, their theme being, "May They Rest in Pieces."

Sunday morning brings worshippers to the Newman Hall Chapel for inspiring words by Father James P. McEwan, O.P.

What's more fun than spending money—especially when you don't have to worry about where it's coming from.

Whitey looks worried. How can he win with such competition? There's always fun at Wesley Foundation.

Hearts and streamers and crooners—all at the King Avenue Center. This Valentine Variety Show brought out new talent and laughs from the audience.

Wesley Foundation

"A Home Away from Home" is what each of the Wesley Foundation Centers is to its members. In addition to creating a home-like atmosphere, it provides a total well-rounded program that meets the religious and social needs of Methodist students. To fulfill this program, the members meet every Wednesday evening for chapel services and on Sunday evenings for Fellowship suppers and group discussions. Social functions are not left out of the picture, however, for each Friday the groups get together for hayrides, dances and parties. Three student centers, Indianola, King Avenue, and University, sponsor these functions on Friday nights and several times a quarter the groups get together for a major function.

Last fall, at Whitey's lodge, there were cries of "Who shortsheeted my bed"—and prospective freshmen, already interested in the program offered by Wesley Foundation, looked to beginnings of college careers. This was the group's annual Freshman Camp—a big success as always.

When thoughts of snow came to Columbusites around Christmas time, Wesley Foundation was already doing something about them. Snowball Prom brought to a close their eventful fall quarter. Each year, Wesleyites plan an affair that is sure to do a great deal for them in bettering their standing with the OSU instructors. This "All Methodist Faculty-Student Banquet" last year, presented Bishop Wicke of the Methodist Church as speaker.

Once more, during spring quarter, shouts and cries were given out with gusto—this time at Tar Hollow Group Camp, where the atmosphere was just right to create a wonderful and outstanding year at Wesley Foundation.

Again this year the United Student Fellowship sponsored worthwhile projects for students interested in continuing religious activities while in college. Movies and talks concerning religious fellowship were held at weekly meetings to help keep members reminded that college need not be a place for learning the cold facts of science only. Nor did members pass by the fact that social life is vital to a college education. This may be seen when one considers that each Friday of the school year, parties with themes as "Movie Madness," "Fools and Four Points," and square dances were held.

Planning these events along with president Barbara Manning were vice-presidents John Bertsch and Bob Jones; secretaries Mary Huber and Janet Soelman; and treasurer Lloyd Jones. Dr. Jorgen M. Birkeland, professor of bacteriology, advises members on large as well as microscopic matters.

Each year deputations of four or five members are sent to various nearby and out-of-town churches to assist young people's groups in planning suitable activities. However, members of the Congregational-Christian and Evangelical and Reformed United Student Fellowship are also intensely interested in campus activities and campus religious affairs. For example, they took an active part in Religion and Life Week during Winter Quarter, and they also have a quarterly Workday for Christ.

Between Winter and Spring Quarters, members took their annual trip to Washington and New York to visit mission projects as well as general points of interest. Along the way they also visited several seminaries and other United Student Fellowship groups.

College of Agriculture

Agriculture; a one million dollar a year business at Ohio State University. Although Ohio is 35th in size, the College of Agriculture since its birth 80 years ago, has been growing until now it has the highest enrollment of any agricultural college in the country. This is exclusive of the School of Home Economics, which has 560 students enrolled in it.

In the past 15 years, graduates in this college have increased by more than 200 per cent. Even with this tremendous increase, only 12 to 15 per cent of them go back to the farm and the present output of highly trained personnel is gravely insufficient to meet the demands for them, especially in the commercial field, where 25 per cent of the seniors go. Another quarter of the graduates go into vocational agriculture where they are also sorely needed.

The physical plant of the college includes 1000 acres in and near Columbus as well as 1500 acres at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, and the use of over 3000 acres throughout the state. Modern farming, meat, poultry, and dairy equipment is available to the students.

Modern dairy equipment within the new agricultural laboratory is put to good use by students from all over the United States.

All-Agricultural Council

Coordinating body for all organizations in the College of Agriculture, the All-Ag Council again managed to do a masterful job in this respect. The Council is composed of presidents or elected representatives of each organization in the Ag College; the Agricultural representative to the student senate; the Ag Student editor; and the Assistant Dean and Junior Dean of Agriculture, who act as ex-officio members and advise the Council as to policies of the College and University.

President of presidents is Allen Jackson, who is assisted by Gerald Bradford, vice-president; Mary Belle Kinney, secretary, and Al Smith, treasurer; all of whom are eager with respect to agricultural activities.

As usual, the Cow College Council sponsored the annual Barn Warmer dance during the Fall Quarter. Winter and Spring Quarters were enlivened with the Calico Capers and the All-Ag Barbeque respectively. As well as attending these perennial functions, members of the All-Ag Council held a banquet in the Spring Quarter at which the new Council was formally initiated.

Swinging to the caller's cry, agriculture students live it up at the annual Calico Capers.

It takes more than a pack of wild horses to upend these well seated equestrians.

American Veterinary Medical Association

Want a block of ice? This is exactly what was given to a Vet. Med. professor by Dick Burns at the annual Fun Night held by the American Veterinary Medical Association. Fun Night, originated by the dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine some years ago, gives students a chance to release pent-up emotions, mostly in the direction of the faculty, and have a good time in general.

The AVMA, with 17 student chapters throughout the United States, is open to all students in the College of Vet Medicine, and its purpose is to acquaint these students with the various aspects of the field.

Officers of the chapter, Ed Page, president; Richard Bachmeyer, vice-president; Robert Boger, secretary; and Ralph Slusher, treasurer, take care of their assigned jobs and engage successful men in various fields of veterinary medicine to speak on their specialized work in the large field of veterinary medicine.

New this year, members of the senior class work away from school for one quarter as part of their education, and for the rest of their sixth year, they engage in practical work at the vet clinic on campus.

Under the watchful eyes of the instructors, these AVMA men get individual attention as they receive practical experience at the Vet Lab.

Omega Tau Sigma

Can men who use bales of straw for chairs and have corn shocks scattered around the house be scholars? Men of the Gamma chapter of Omega Tau Sigma, the only international veterinary medicine fraternity, seem to think so; for this was the scheme of decorations at their annual country party in the Fall Quarter. As far as scholarship is concerned, they were second highest on campus that same quarter.

Assisting Bill Roenigk in his presidential duties are Thomas Gigliotti, vice-president; Ray Houk, secretary; Earl Lindsay and Earl Weaver, treasurer and assistant respectively; and Jerry Theobald, pledgemaster. These men and their cohorts (the rest of the chapter) were hosts to 35 representatives from Canada and the United States at the national convention of Omega Tau Sigma. Besides showing their guests the vet clinic and new union, where meetings were held, a banquet and formal dance were held at the close of the convention.

Members of Omega Tau Sigma are united in an attempt to develop a higher standard in, and an ethical approach to the field of veterinary medicine.

Breaking away from animals (farm, that is) men of Omega Tau Sigma show that they are capable of dealing with any situation that may arise.

Girls wait in line as crooked judge weighs milk on a crooked scale after the crazy milking contest.

The steer is all choked up with emotion after top judger Jerry Bradford, with trophy, chose him to be the best of the rest.

Saddle and Sirloin

There is nothing like a coed milking derby, claim members of Saddle and Sirloin. So they have one. Originally a dean's contest, these animal science majors decided to change the theme of milking contests at the Little International Livestock show, an imitation of the Chicago livestock show. Milk pails are not the major factor in consideration at the Little International, however, as students demonstrate their abilities in showing, and preparing livestock for the show ring. President Gerald Bradford walked off with top honors for the evening, being awarded the Carl E. Steeb memorial trophy for outstanding showmanship in 1952.

Not to be confined to milking derbys, girls of the group also participated in a riding contest.

Each fall, a recognition banquet is held to honor livestock and meats judging teams, while in the spring an undergrad judging contest is held. Featured at the banquet each year is a professor from one of the other big ten colleges to address the organization.

President Bradford is ably assisted by Donald Long, vice-president; Carroll Brunthaver, secretary; and Edwin Zorn, treasurer. This is the backbone of the organization causing it to be one of the best on the Ohio State campus. At least that's what members say.

Townshend Agricultural Education Association

Although the Townshend Agricultural Education Association members aren't out to fool the public, some of them act in the capacity of restaurant managers and cooks when they sponsor a lunch stand each year for the state Future Farmers of America convention held at Plumb Hall. Unadmittedly they are just learning how to make some money when they graduate. However, knowledge of the workings of the FFA, a vocational agriculture organization for rural high school students, will serve a practical purpose since agricultural education graduates will probably be advising local chapters of this group. T.A.E.S. meetings and activities are even patterned after the FFA in this respect.

Following the activity pattern, "Townshend" members enjoy at least one social function each quarter; a dance in the Fall Quarter, usually with some of the home economics students. Membership keys are presented to those who have been active members in T.A.E.S. for eight quarters, during the annual Winter banquet. Furthermore, one man is selected on the basis of service and interest in agricultural education to be an honorary member. A steak fry on the banks of the Scioto during Spring Quarter eats up any remaining funds the organization may have.

Leading the group to useful endeavors as well as to parties are Clarence Cunningham and John Foulkes, president and vice-president, with John Foltz secretary, and Melvin Krill treasurer. Dr. Ralph Woodin is the advisor. Such endeavors include contributions to charitable organizations, scholarships, and foreign student exchange funds, and help in the sponsorship of the FFA public speaking contest. They also purchase books for the ag ed library and permanent equipment for the ag ed office.

Meetings are balanced between entertainment and lectures or movies on topics of value to the vocational agriculture teacher. A panel discussion at one meeting reviewed possibilities for part-time university jobs, and ROTC officers showed how the military situation affects ag ed teachers.

Gene Neds presides as toastmaster for the TAES annual banquet Bill Saxby, speaker of the state House of Representatives was speaker for the evening.

This cold, calculating group, Robert Coleman, Bert Taylor, George Baker, and Wayne Rausch, log-rolled their way into the top positions of the Dairy Science Club this year.

American Dairy Science Association

Split into the "cow men" and the "tech men" the American Dairy Science Association members still get along together even if this only means attending meetings and social functions, the latter of which are held once a quarter. At this year's barbeque and judging carnival in the Fall Quarter, all members participated in a cattle and dairy products judging contest. Even their dates got into the act. The quality of judging was so high that a three-way tie had to be broken. This was accomplished by giving honors to the member of the trio who could squirt milk the farthest from a cow. The Association is happy to report that there were no casualties.

Helping keep the group under control are president Bert Taylor; vice-president Robert Coleman; secretary Wayne Rausch, and treasurer George Baker, with the help of Dairy Science advisor Harold Kaeser and Dairy Technology advisor Dr. Walter Slatter. This is partially effected by having speakers come to meetings and talk on anything from dairy subjects to astronomy. The former predominates, however.

Winter Quarter with the annual banquet-dance is the top attraction of the year. Dairy products and dairy judging keys are presented by this chapter of the Association and awards presented on behalf of the R. B. Stoltz Memorial Fund are given to the student who has shown leadership, scholarship and participation in activities and another award to the student who has shown the greatest improvement and development in Dairy Science or Dairy Technology during his college career. The Ohio Dairy Booster Club also sponsors an award presented to an outstanding student who shows extraordinary participation in extracurricular activities and has high leadership qualities. These awards are to encourage students to further knowledge in the field.

Established in 1922, the American Dairy Science Association has as its purpose the furtherance of knowledge in Dairy Science as well as to promote friendship among students who are majoring in this field.

Dairy Technology Toastmasters

Although not a chatter club, the Dairy Technology Toastmasters specialize in talking. Perhaps this should be modified to say the organization is primarily devoted to encourage all Juniors and Seniors majoring in Dairy Technology to acquire experience in the art of public speaking, as well as to increase fellowship and friendship among members.

Urged on by president Dick Kleyn who is backed by William Stark, vice-president, every member gets a chance to "Toastmast" at a meeting, that is he is chairman for the night, and along with introducing speakers he is entitled to ask anyone to give an impromptu talk. There is no restriction as to what one may speak on, as may be well remembered by those present when Jack Miller spoke on the "Origin and Sex Life of a Sweet Potato."

Poultry Science Club

Want to meet important people? Then join the Poultry Science Club, for this is their purpose. Important people in the field of poultry science, that is. Men from such specialized branches of this field as genetics, marketing, diseases, nutrition, hatchery, processing, and general rearing, speak at bi-monthly meetings of the club.

Wally Thomen serves as president of the club, while Werner Todd acts as vice-president. The secretary is Joe Thornley, and Bruce Bellingham is treasurer.

Social functions are topped off by the annual banquet, held for everyone concerned with poultry science, in the Winter Quarter. This year Dr. R. George Jaap spoke on "World Poultry Science," an international meeting which he attended while in Scotland on a fellowship.

Floriculture Forum

From Mums to Smorgasbord

A free smorgasbord meal was served to the top mum salesmen at football games by the Floriculture Forum. Two of these honored members were so choked up with emotion that they returned three times to refill their large plates. Nevertheless, mum seals are the big thing with floriculturists in the Forum, and these sales provide a sourceof revenue so parties can be held. Parties aren't the most important use their money is put to however, as this year, the last seven volumes of Horticultural Abstracts, a complete progress report of all horticultural work and research being carried on each year, were purchased. The organization has plans to purchase each volume of this yearbook of horticulture as it comes out in the future. These volumes are only a part of the many books that are purchased each year for their library. Purchase of equipment for greenhouse improvement takes another chunk of the organization's money each year.

The Floriculture Forum brings together all students interested in the fields of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture, and it endeavors to further advancement in these fields by giving all possible aid to projects which the department may undertake. Membership is however, open to all students.

Dr. L. C. Chadwick, advisor of the Forum, is also head of the department of Floriculture and Ornamental Horticulture at Ohio State. It is considered one of the top departments in this field in the nation. Last summer Dr. Chadwick attended the International Horticultural Conference at London. While on his trip he visited England, Holland, Germany, France, Italy, and Switzerland. At one of the first meetings of the Forum this year, he spoke on European Horticulture and illustrated the talk with many slides, all of which he took while abroad.

Other meetings were highlighted by men such as Henry Orr, graduate student in floriculture, who gave a lecture and movie on the Bellangrath Gardens, a 40 acre camelia and azalea garden near Mobile, Alabama.

Besides the smorgasbord dinner in the Fall Quarter, a games and dancing party was held in the Winter Quarter. As usual, Spring Quarter is highlighted with the annual formal dinner-dance at which new officers are formally installed. In the future, the Forum plans to sponsor displays in the Horticulture and Forestry Building similar to the one there last Christmas; a huge tree splendidly decorated. These displays will be in the building over the longer holidays such as Easter and May Week.

Wildlife Research Forum

A crow roast! Do people EAT crows? That's right, believe it or not, the Wildlife Research Forum held a crow roast as a part of their social activities this year. The idea was inspired by the fact that adviser Dr. E. E. Good, who did research on crows for his Doctor's degree, had eaten them, and misery loves company.

Led by president Sid Corl, the Forum had quite an active year with the annual bird census at Delaware Dam and noted speakers at meetings. Dr. Edward S. Thomas, curator of Natural History at the Archaeological Museum, spoke on adventures with Ohio Birds; Dr. Charles Dambach, Chief of the Division of Wildlife in Ohio, spoke on employment opportunities upon graduation; and Dr. Good spoke on, you guessed it—crows!

Since 1939 this organization cooperated in projects concerned with wildlife, and established a means of fraternization between students interested in wildlife conservation. Helping Sid do that this year were Ronald Karns, vice-president; Don Wilde, secretary; Tom O'Brien, treasurer, and Gene Stropkey, publicity manager.

Since interest in wildlife conservation is increasing, these crow eaters put up a three by five-foot bulletin board in the B & Z building basement exclusively for the use of students in this field.

Wildlife men have to stay inside and study as well as going on field trips. "Book learnin" is a vital factor in the making of an All-American wildlifer.

Hangout for ASAE men is Ives Hall where they get a chance to study farm machinery. Here is a typical sample of the implements available to students.

American Society of Agricultural Engineers

All programs and functions of the Ohio State student branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers are designed for a group of men who possess at least one common interest: that being the development and application of their knowledge in the professional field of agricultural engineering. The society promotes students' interests relating to their professional advancement and well-being.

ASAE men are kept well informed and up to date on developments in their field through field trips showing practical applications in various engineering fields, discussions led by professional men and movies on related subjects.

Relaxation for the men came through quarterly social functions and recreational programs, which this year included several dances, open-house meetings, a spring picnic, and the large annual ASAE banquet.

One of the most important projects of the organization took place during the annual Farm and Home Week between Winter and Spring Quarters. The group sponsored a refreshment stand which was an important source of income for the agricultural engineers this year.

University Grange

Better understanding of agricultural problems through leadership, discussion, and recreation is the purpose of the University Grange. Chapter No. 1620 of the National Grange is the contribution to this cause at Ohio State.

Larry Rhonemus holds the office of Master and Jim Meyer is the Overseer. Jane Hoar and John Foltz are secretary and treasurer; Wilbur Wood is the advisor. According to the policy of the National Grange, there are also 11 other offices to each chapter. Bruce Tom, an Ohio State rural sociology instructor and member of 1620, is the Lecturer of the National Grange. Another University man, T. G. Watson, is in charge of Ritual in the National Grange.

In Winter Quarter, a 15 man team chosen from students of the Ohio State chapter travel throughout the state to formally initiate newly elected officers of other chapters. As a result of these excursions in the past two years, two couples have become engaged through a mere casual acquaintance at the initiations.

Each year, through funds obtained by a cooperative lunch stand with the University 4-H Club during Farmers Week between Winter and Spring Quarters, the Grange helps sponsor the International Farm Youth Exchange. Students sent abroad as a result of the Exchange remain there from June to December learning about methods in foreign agriculture.

Ohio State was represented at the National Grange by Jean Stittle, lady assistant, and Bob Wright, assistant steward. Seven other members were also sent free of charge.

Bi-weekly meetings are topped off with square dances. Showing much versatility at these lively sessions, students do all the calling and often provide their own band.

Those bright smiles on Grange officers' faces is for a good reason. They just decided upon a way to make members pay their back dues.

University 4-H Club

Short on meetings and long on recreation, that's the University 4-H Club. Nevertheless, they still manage to hold bi-weekly meetings; followed by a square dance, or at least some form of recreation. With over 200 members, this happy-go-lucky organization can get serious, on occasion. During the business part of their meetings, students who have been abroad through the International Farm Youth Exchange often speak on agricultural practices in other countries. Foreign students, when available, also speak.

Wheels of the Club are Al Jackson, president; Larry Rhonemus, vice-president; Florence Simonds, secretary; Charles Lang, treasurer; and Pauline Straub, corresponding secretary. They don't have to urge members on when it comes to social life, and furthermore, when the time comes for volunteering to act as counselors for the state 4-H Club Congress, members are just as cooperative. As far as is known, the advisors Bea Cleveland and Ben Lamp have yet to break out the whip to inspire members to support a worthy cause such as the Club does when it donates annually to the International Farm Youth Exchange.

While at Camp Ohio, where members go for a weekend each year, several gay members decided to drive across a creek which runs through it. A slight rain fell that night and the next morning three motors drowned as the cars were driven back. No people though, and they even sponsored, with a straight face, an educational booth at the Ohio State Fair showing what advances university students are making.

The University Four-H members wait for their dessert at their annual banquet in the Union's Franklin Room.

Home Economics Club

A typical scene from the "Welcome Inn" sponsored by the Home Economics Club might cause one to think the administration turned Ohio State over to the hands of the class of '58. Bubble gum, green tea, and excited bobby-soxers were part of the numerous facetious skits, including a farce of the faculty Christmas tea and a mock wedding to typify the Wedding Traditions program during the Spring Quarter. This first "meeting" during the Fall Quarter was presented in an attempt to give incoming Home Economics students a preview of the coming year.

Affiliated with the four hundred thirty-two College Clubs of the American Home Economics Association, the Home Economics Club of Ohio State has as its president, Leah Dutenhaver. Under her leadership this group sponsors its annual all-campus square dance, "Pumpkin Promenade" in Fall Quarter. Funds derived from this affair are used to help sponsor foreign students studying at the University. Leah is aided in her work by Mary Kinney and Julia Stofka, first and second vice-presidents. Recording secretary and treasurer are Nancy Yarrington and Grace Miller.

Guests at a spaghetti supper to initiate Religion in Life Week were Deans of the College of Agriculture. A student panel discussion on the place of religion in campus life followed the viands.

Home economics in Germany, Thailand, Finland, Brazil, and Korea was compared to the American way of life by foreign students from these countries at a typical Home Ec Club meeting. Each Spring Quarter two members are sent to the Province Workshop which is comprised of the Home Economics Clubs of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia, to discuss current practices in home economics.

Square dancing provided plenty of action at the Pumpkin Promenade, The Winter Quarter function in the Union.

This openhouse Christmas party was complete with punch and a Santa Claus, all sponsored by the Home Ec. faculty.

Omicron Nu

Only one one-hundredth of the students at Ohio State are eligible for admission to Omicron Nu, national home economics honorary. This year 21 new members with better than a 3.0 point hour ration were admitted, the cream of the crop coming from the top 12 percent of the Senior class and the top 20 percent of the Junior class.

President of these selected women this year is Mary Jean Barden. She is aided by Carol Schnarenberger and Elaine Fallon, first and second vice-presidents; Violet Steiner, secretary; and Jean Parlette, treasurer.

This Spring Quarter for the fifth year, members of Omicron Nu sponsored International Day. Bringing together foreign students on campus, short talks and discussions are held for the purpose of exchanging ideas. This is in harmony with the purpose of the organization; that of furtherancer of the world-wide movement of home economics.

Phi Upsilon Omicron

Shape up on manners, men. Phi Upsilon Omicron, national professional semi-honorary for home economists, has started an Education in Manners program for all men students. This is being done at the request of the dean of men's office.

Winter Quarter brought members out to the annual Sophomore Recognition Dessert. All scholastically outstanding sophomore women in home economics are honored at this time. Ohio State's Gamma Chapter was host to Ohio Wesleyan's chapter for the Founders' Day banquet.

Leadership ability, high scholastic records, and professional promise are the bases for selection to the organization. Officers this year are Margaret Lucas, president; Elaine Fallon, vice-president; and Ruth Kirkpatrick, secretary. Treasurer and assistant treasurer are Shirley Payne and Jane Dearth respectively.

ARTS PROFESSOR OF THE YEAR

Dr. H. R. Walley, professor in the department of English since 1925, was elected Arts College Professor of the Year this past year. Arts College Council

Arts College Council is an organization made up of students from the various major fields in the College of Arts and Sciences. The organization serves as a link between the faculty and students of the College. It helps foster a loyalty among the students in the College, and it represents them on the Student Senate. This year the Council was under the capable leadership of Dick Kohn who was assisted by Vice President Steve Jaffee.

Among the year's projects was the publishing of a quarterly news paper, The Tower Topics. This busy group also planned the Annual Arts College Scholarship reception to honor the College's outstanding students and selected the honored "Arts College Professor of the Year." Standing committees investigated such projects as faculty evaluation and student-faculty relationships and problems of curriculum brought to the Council's attention.

Eta Sigma Phi

Eta Sigma Phi, now a national organization, was organized in 1914 at the University of Chicago to encourage the study of classical languages. In order to be eligible for membership in Eta Sigma Phi, a student must have had two quarters of Latin or Greek with an average of at least 3.0.

This year the organization has had some very interesting lectures on mythology. These lectures, under the auspices of the Graduate School, were very successful with large crowds attending. The speaker in November was Rhys Carpenter. In January the group heard Louis Lord from Oberlin and in February, Walter Agard from the University of Wisconsin. The talk in April was presented by Douglas Bush from Harvard.

The year's program also included the Initiation Banquet held during spring quarter.

Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-medical fraternity, has as its membership, the men and women in pre-med who maintain a superior scholastic record over at least five quarters of pre-medical curriculum and demonstrate an active interest in the field of leadership and self-education.

This year Alpha Epsilon Delta sponsored a number of worthwhile projects. The most important of these projects was the sponsorship of the Fifth Annual All-Ohio Pre-Professional Day on the campus in December. Pre-medical, pre-dental, and nursing students were invited to take part in an extensive program consisting of tours through the Health Center, and other campus buildings where anatomical and physiological demonstrations were offered.

There were several conferences during the day led by outstanding educators The program culminated in a festive evening in the Ohio Union Ballroom. In addition to the Pre-Professional Day, the group also sponsored Initiation banquets in the Winter and Spring and the men and women had numerous meetings at which an imposing array of medical films were witnessed. The group also enjoyed various speakers during the quarter.

The Ohio State chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta was established primarily to aid in the preparation of students for the medical profession. The group seeks to effect a close liaison between the scientific and medical educators and pre-medical students.

The modern, paneled Commerce College office presents a comfortable atmosphere for students and faculty.

Commerce College Council

Governing body of the Commerce College, the Commerce College Council was presided over this year by Bill Judy. Members of his executive cabinet were Vice President Dick Botsch, Secretary Janet Kemp, and Treasurer Larry Schaffer.

The purpose of the Council is to co-ordinate student activities within the college and to promote better student-faculty relations. Improvements in systems instituted by the college office were another project of the Council.

Perhaps the biggest problem tackled this year was revision of the scheduling system which before this was nothing but a tedious process. By investigating the system completely and providing students to assist college office staffers while the scheduling was going on, the Council instituted some improvements which will take effect next year.

For the first time this year the Council published a newspaper for the benefit of all the Commerce students. They also kept an Improvements Suggestion Box in the Commerce library, so that students could voice opinions concerning the Commerce College administration and the Council could take steps to remedy any policies so criticized. Commerce outstanding seniors are honored at the Council's Spring Banquet.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi, the oldest and largest professional commerce fraternity holds as its goal a three-fold plan. These three objectives are: to foster scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounting, and finance; to educate the public to appreciate and demand high ideals in these fields; and to promote courses leading to degrees in business administration.

Mu chapter of Ohio State has as requirements a 2.5 cumulative point-hour ratio and those eligible must be in their sophomore year in the College of Commerce. Mu chapter was established in 1915 but was in-active during the war. Since being re-activated in 1946, it has grown steadily in size and in campus recognition up to the present time.

Beta Alpha Psi

Omicron chapter of The Ohio State University is the largest of the thirty active chapters of the national accounting fraternity, Beta Alpha Psi, and was installed in 1929. The women's professional honorary accounting fraternity, Lambda Alpha Sigma, was absorbed by Beta Alpha Psi and this past year found several alumnae being initiated at the Fall Banquet.

In the past, budding accountants have been enlightened by such speakers as Joseph T. Ferguson, the State Auditor; Leo D. Stone and Joseph Connors of the State Tax Department and various others. Therefore, Beta Alpha Psi members found dinner meetings in the Ohio Union to be both tasty and educational with various topics pertaining to their field.

Sigma Alpha Sigma

To promote good fellowship, to maintain a high order of scholarship, to foster high professional standards, and to increase the general appreciation of the need and value of social work is the aim of Sigma Alpha Sigma, the undergraduate honorary fraternity for those students who are majoring in Social Administration.

During the past year, the organization met on Tuesday evenings of alternating weeks, in order to take care of any business and to discuss the various social work areas, thus trying to better inform the Social Administration students. Several speakers on social work were heard during the year and the group sponsored quite a few service projects. Among these being a Christmas party for the Boys Juvenile Research Center, and for one of the Columbus orphanages, a caroling party. High on the list of importance in their activities this year was the annual Hagerty Society Banquet, which the group co-sponsored.

Phi Chi Theta

The key moment of the Phi Chi Theta Founder's Day Banquet is the presentation of a golden key to the outstanding senior woman in the College of Commerce. The banquet, an annual event, is held during March and is the high point of the school year. The fraternity for women entering the field of business holds bi-weekly meetings during the year. The meetings are both business and social gatherings. This spring the group held a joint meeting with the Secretarial Club.

Phi Chi Theta, since it came into existence in 1925, has established twenty-nine collegiate chapters and fifteen alumnae groups. The fraternity tries to encourage co-operation among women entering the business field, to foster high ideals for women with business careers and to promote higher education for all women. Besides this threefold purpose, the national organization awards two scholarships each year for women for graduate study.

Industrial Arts Club

The Industrial Arts Club of the Ohio State University is an affiliate of the American Industrial Arts Association. A group of Industrial Arts Education majors and minors with a common objective of clarifying, developing, and fostering the professional ideals of Industrial Arts Education in the Ohio Schools, members meet twice monthly to discuss various techniques of promoting interest in and enlisting help for their newly important field of education.

The club has been newly reorganized under the guidance of faculty advisor, Donald G. Lux, after a year of inactivity and members have enjoyed a creative year of social and professional activity centered about the bi-monthly meetings held in the new Ohio Union. Their program of professional interest was supplemented with quarterly social functions.

Association for Childhood Education

Guided by a philosophy of education which is flexible and which changes to meet the needs inherent in a changing society, as related particularly to children and to the preparation of teachers, the Organization for Childhood Education met weekly this past year. The purpose of this group of prospective teachers has been to meet and exchange ideas and experiences valuable to all of them and to receive news of the wider educational world. Under the capable leadership of Connie Frock, a Winter Quarter work shop was conducted and a Christmas Party for the children at the Franklin County Home was held. The best meeting programs of the year featured men and women connected with Ohio State's Education Department. John Rinehart, Superintendent of the Perrysburg schools provided one of the most enlightening of these programs.

Theme of the national education honorary for women this year was "The Power of Education", and Ohio State's Mu chapter chose to limit the theme to "Power of Education in Foreign Countries". Programs included guest speakers, usually educators from foreign countries or teachers who have traveled extensively. Dr. Doo Hun Kim, President of the National University of Korea, and Dr. Roger Bosworth of OSU Philosophy Department who has traveled in the Near East, were prominent contributors to program built around this year's theme. When Mia and Michio Nagai, Japanese graduate students were guest speakers a joint meeting was held with Phi Delta Kappa, Men's Education Honorary. Spring Quarter meetings were devoted to a Recognition Tea for freshmen women.

Kappa Phi Kappa

A professional Educational fraternity, Kappa Phi Kappa holds as its aim the encouraging of young men of recognized ability to participate in the study of problems of education and the application of its principles. The activites of the fraternity include intra-fraternity discussion of problems in the general field of education and programs of panel discussions with guest speakers associated with local educational institutions. At the end of each Quarter's work a social outing takes a prominent place on the agenda.

High principles and worthwhile standards are righteously upheld by every member of the fraternity it's true, but pictures of three delegates to the national convention in New York prove that all interests are not purely along professional lines.

Engineering College

Since, when the University was founded, it was called the Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College, it has promoted ever since instruction in the applied physical sciences. The College of Engineering was established in 1882 in the form of civil engineering and has grown to encompass thirteen distinct departments.

Engineering is the practical application of physics, chemistry, and mathematics by which the material and power resources are made useful to man. It has not been too long since the courses have been increased to five years. This was necessary because it was felt that the engineer should not only have a greater technical knowledge but should also receive a broader education so that he may better live and deal with his fellow man.

At the present the college offers engineering degrees in aeronautics, agriculture, architecture, ceramics, chemistry, civil, electricity, industrial, metallurgy, mining, petroleum, welding, and physics. The curriculum in ceramic engineering, established in 1895, was the first of its kind in the United States; and the curriculum in welding engineering is the only such course of study offered in any American university today.

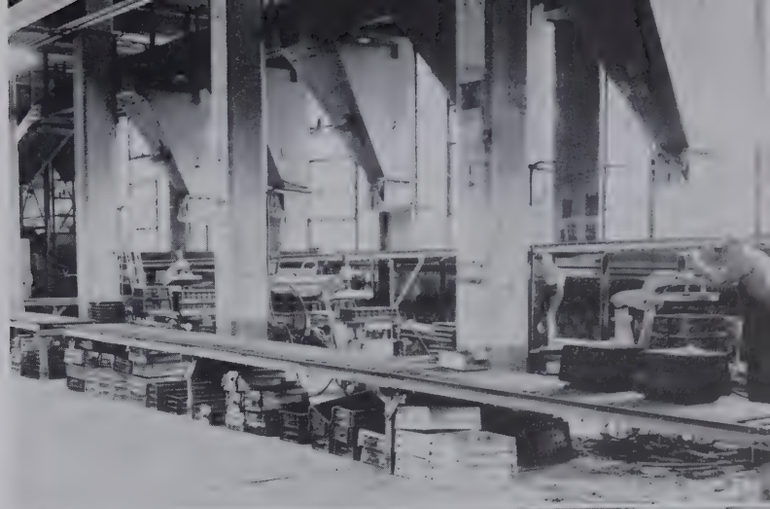
Among the many students that roam the Campus grounds in warmer weather such as artists and botanists are these civil engineers who build imaginary highways on the Oval.

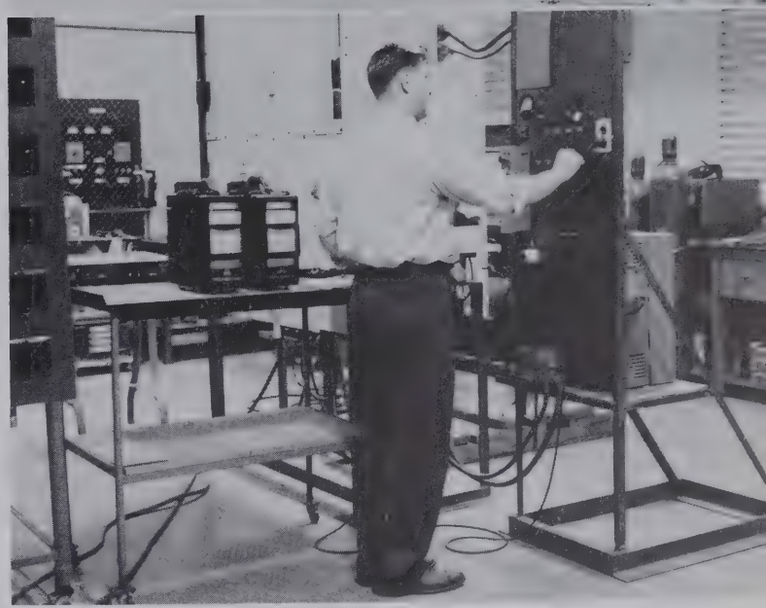
Tau Beta Pi

Under the capable leadership of president, John Mahoney who was assisted by vice-president, John Hirth and secretary, Bob Wiseman, Ohio Gamma chapter of Tau Beta Pi has just concluded another full year of activity. An Engineering honorary, this organization strives to fulfill its two-fold purpose: "to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their alma mater by outstanding scholarship or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering and to foster a spirit of liberal cultural in the engineering colleges of America". To achieve fulfillment of this purpose, set up by the founders of the national organization, Tau Beta Pi has conducted a varied program of activities.

Bi-weekly dinner meetings were held in the Medallion Room of Pomerene Hall at which outstanding speakers were presented to the group. These speakers chose non-technical subjects for the most part such as Communism, Air Power, Economics, or Hobbies. Activities included the sponsoring of a one year scholarship for the outstanding sophomore in the College of Enginering, and the construction of a display for Engineering College showing the location of graduates of the school. The national Association sponsors fellowships to members for graduate study and makes loans available to all student members.

Ohio Gamma chapter makes it a policy to co-operate to the fullest in promoting projects sponsored by the other campus engineering organizations. This year they donated trophies for Engineer's Day Float Parade and conducted tours through the College of Engineering for high school seniors. Social functions were an important part of the year's activity and included Spring Quarter picnics and an all-Engineering Honorary formal.





The foundry lab with its modern overhead loading system provides much hard work for engineering students along with experience in a real foundry.

The welding industry, still comparatively young, receives highly technical information from laboratory experiments such as this one by Wm. Brown.

Membership is limited to sixteen men each year who have completed two or more years in the College of Engineering. Neophytes were selected at the annual Engineers Prom when the actives passed among their fellow students and 'tapped' those whom they deemed worthy of the honor. Initiation took place on Engineers Day with the construction of the Texnikoi symbol in brick on the Engineering Quadrangle and was followed by a breakfast for the new initiates and a day of moderate hazing. Formal Initiation and a banquet was held that evening.

IAS

The Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences was set up for the advancement and dissemination of knowledge of the theory and practice of the aeronautical sciences. The organization provides great opportunity for acquaintance with college personnel and various activities centered about the aeronautical sciences. To supplement this, professional consciousness and fellowship are fostered. Members in the organization are from the Department of Aeronautical Engineering Monthly meetings prove to be quite interesting when representatives from various aircraft companies speak before the members. Recreation is not forgotten during the year. The outstanding social event of the year is the "Spring Brawl" which means picnicking and fun for all IAS members.

American Institute of Architects

The function of the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects is, in the words of Jim Slager, Secretary of the organization for the past year, ". . . to enrich the academic life of students in the School of Architecture by beginning those professional associations and contacts which, continued after graduation, are invaluable to the practicing architect."

Most interesting of the meetings held this year were these that included interesting speakers such as Professor Ronan who spoke at the first meeting on 'Architecture of England, Ireland, and Scotland' and O. M. Mador of the Aluminum Company of America whose talk concerned 'Architectural Aluminum'. Pierre Zoelly was present at one meeting and presented members with 'A Trip to the Alps of Switzerland', a delightful travelogue, and 'City Planning' was the topic of an October meeting.

Socializing was another important function of the group and they proved most adept. A Halloween party and a Spring Quarter picnic with the Alpha Rho Chis were on the social calendar but the favorite party was the architect's Beaux Arts Ball held during the Winter Quarter.

Foundrymen's Society

Even though the American Foundrymen's Society is relativley new on the campus here at Ohio State, the first national chapter's history dates back as far as 1896.

The group is small and rather informal but its purpose is carried out. The purpose is one of two-fold nature—to draw together those students who are technically interested in the manufacture of castings and also to plan educational meetings for the benefit of the group.

This year an innovation greeted the students in this particular field. The students enjoyed the new foundry laboratory which was remodeled and modernized last year by foundry students. Ohio State University can now boast of having one of the finest foundry laboratories in the United States.

Membership in the Foundrymen's Society in the Ohio State chapter is open to anyone who has an interest in the field of foundry. The meetings of this group are held the second Tuesday of every month. Different speakers are presented at the meetings and different phases of foundry are discussed. The meetings are held in the Industrial Engineering building and are open to the public.

Ohio State University's Student Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineering, chartered in 1925, has come to be one of the more active professional organizations on the campus.

The objectives of the American Institute of Chemical Engineering are to promote the professional development of its members and to contribute to the development of chemical engineering at Ohio State. The organization also endeavors to form fellowships among members and faculty in the chemical department. Technical and social affairs alike are part of this organization's program.

Any student, graduate or undergraduate, enrolled in a curriculum leading to a degree in chemical engineering is eligible for membership in AIChE. Meetings are held once a month on Thursday in Room 154 of the McPherson Chemical laboratory. A speaker from industry is usually featured at the meetings.

Among the events participated in by the AIChE during the year have been the making of an Alumni Directory and playing in intramural sports such as football, basketball, and baseball. They have entered teams in this tough competition.

During last spring quarter the organization was very proud when it learned it had entered the prize winning float for the 1952 "Engineers Day."

Among the social events sponsored by the chapter was the annual picnic held during spring quarter.

American Ceramic Society

The Student Branch of the American Ceramic Society provides a social outlet for the members of the ceramic engineering and ceramic art departments. Ohio State's chapter of the American Ceramic Society, which was established in 1915, is one of 14 national chapters.

Meetings of the organization are held each month in Lord Hall. At the meetings speakers of ceramic and non-ceramic nature, and also movies, are featured.

During the past year the society has been responsible for a display case in Lord Hall. The case has been kept filled with ceramic products supplied by the ceramic industry.

A picnic and a dinner banquet to honor graduating seniors was held during the Spring Quarter.

Sigma Gamma Epsilon

Under the direction of this year's President, Jim Cockfield, Sigma Gamma Epsilon sponsored a score of interesting programs at the monthly banquet meetings held in Pomerene Hall. Dr. Howard Hamilton, member of the Ohio Film Censorship Board, spoke on "Narcotics Education" and Col. William Warner, Executive Secretary of Ohio Civilian Defense Unit, presented a program on psychological warfare to mention a few of the most notable programs.

Sigma Gamma Epsilon is an honorary fraternity devoted to promoting the study of earth sciences. Scholastic requirements for membership are high in accordance with the principles of the fraternity and each candidate must have at least a 3.0 accum in his major.

ASCE

The American Society of Civil Engineers has one of its finest chapters here at Ohio State. This chapter is open to all students enrolled in the Department of Civil Engineering with the exception of Freshmen. As in years previous to this there were several projects, the two most important were that of Engineer's Day and the North Central Conference which was held for the its chapters throughout Ohio and Michigan.

This year the chapter held its customary social events. These were a field trip and a dinner-meeting honoring the older staff members of the Civil Engineering department. A joint meeting of the chapter with the downtown chapter and the Spring picnic were the shining touches to the social calendar of ASCE.

Prospectors' Club

The Prospectors' Club, logically enough, is an organization of petroleum and mining engineers which meets once monthly at Orton Hall, the center of all geological studies here at Ohio State. The organization is mostly a social one; that is to say that meetings are devoted mostly to developing a spirit of co-operation and fellowship among the young men devoting their studies to petroleum and mining engineering. Outstanding local men in this field are called upon to speak at meetings and interesting movies procurred through the Geological Department which concern special interests are shown. Most looked forward to function: a picnic held Spring Quarter at the farm of Professor Demerest of the Metallurgy Department for all the Prospectors and their dates.

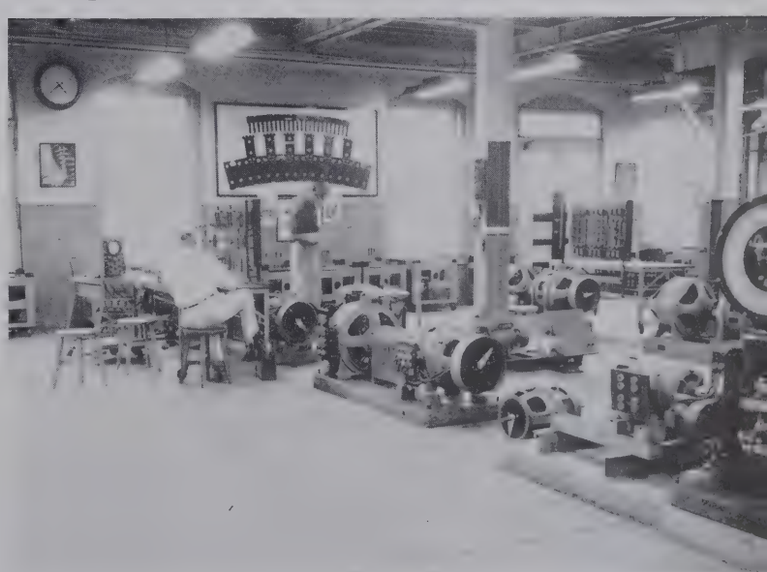
AIEE - IRE

Arthur Malek was president this past year of this "compound society" of men in the field of electrical engineering. The organization was once two separate groups, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers. Four years ago the two groups combined to further purposes common to both organizations. Ohio State then claims one of the few chapters of the combined technical society although both separate organizations are national.

Membership in this group is open to all students enrolled in the Electrical Engineering Department. Meetings alternate between programs based around speakers or discussion panels in technical subjects and social gatherings. In either case student membership is encouraged to become more acquainted with attending faculty members. Also included in the bi-weekly meetings are trips to local industrial concerns.

AIEE-IRE has for another project the publication of a quarterly newsletter which is sent to all its members. The newsletter is comprised of articles about interesting developments in the field of electrical engineering. Beside this publishing which claims extra time of some members, intramural sports provides extra-curricular activity for AIEE-IRE members.

Here is the electrical engineering laboratory where students are able to study the electrical phenomena in actual heavy equipment.



ASME

One of the most active engineering societies in the country and on campus is the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. This organization has been in existence since 1911.

The main objective of this society is to promote the art and science of mechanical engineering along with closely allied arts and sciences.

Any student who is enrolled in the Mechanical Engineering Department is qualified to become a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Meetings which are held every two weeks take place in the Robinson Laboratory. The national organization sponsored a speech and writing contest which encouraged technical speaking and writing. The group also held several functions. Winter Quarter the students held their annual "Grease Ball". Again it was a tremendous success. Spring Quarter brought the annual American Society of Mechanical Engineer's picnic.

The group was led this year by their very capable president, Floyd Guterba, and his cabinet. George D. Hudelson gave much help and advice to the students as they completed the activities by which they fulfilled their purpose.

Pi Tau Sigma

Fostering the high ideals of the engineering profession, stimulating interest in departmental activities and co-ordinating the departmental activities are the objectives of Pi Tau Sigma, the mechanical engineering honorary. The Ohio State Pi Mu Chapter of Pi Tau Sigma was established at the University on May 7, 1948. The organization itself, now composed of 51 chapters, was founded March 16, 1915.

Active members are chosen for this organization on the basis of sound engineering ability, scholarship and personality.

Among the very useful projects which Pi Tau Sigma has undertaken has been to maintain a study room called the "Blue Room", located in Robinson Laboratory. The organization also subscribes to all the non-technical magazines for the Lab so that students can enjoy these magazines during their leisure time.

The maintenance of a photograph case containing photographs of all fourth and fifth year mechanical engineering students is also kept up by the organization for the purpose of acquainting new students with the other men already in the field they have chosen.

Eta Kappa Nu

An honorary organization for those men majoring in electricity, it was founded at the University of Illinois in 1904 and three years later Ohio State electrical engineers installed Gamma chapter. Since that time the fraternity has tried to promote closer co-operation between students and others who show interest and ability in electrical engineering.

This past year the University's chapter, under the direction of President George Kramer, carried out several projects. Among them were the presentation of important men in the electrical engineering field as speakers at their meetings and the setting up of a program of instructions in working slide rules — an intricate operation which seems to bother quite a number of prospective electrical engineers. Helping the Electrical Engineering Student Council in conducting the instructor rating program was another important project.

Student Optometric Association

Problems that confront the optometric profession will come as no great surprise to members of the Student Optometric Association after attending the monthly meetings featuring prominent men in the profession. Even the Optometric Dames, ladies auxiliary, have been briefed through a series of lectures given by faculty members.

The Association has an important place in the campus life of each student in Optometry. The aims of the organization are to further the interests of Optometry, orient the student for a successful career in his chosen profession, and to promote social relationships among its members. Closer relation of the students with the Ohio State Optometric Association and with the national American Optometric Association is also encouraged. Membership is open to all students in the School of Optometry.

Standing in the Southeast corner of the campus is the University's magnificent Medical Center, dedicated May 15, 1951 to the maintenance of the well being and good health of the public. An awe-inspiring monument to the University and the State of Ohio, it is comprised of five buildings all staffed by the University: the Columbus Receiving Hospital, the Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital, University Hospital, the Dental Building, and the more recently completed Optometry Building. Maintained by the University, the State Health and State Welfare Departments, the Center provides practical training grounds for students in Medical School, and Colleges of Dentistry and Optometry.

The main purposes of Omega Epsilon Phi are to help promote the cause and interest of optometry and to strive for higher ethical and educational standards within the profession. The group tries to achieve these by promoting the study of the basic principles and problems of optometry through group discussions.

Membership into this organization is open to all students who are enrolled in the School of Optometry and who are interested in participating in the programs and social activities of the group.

The members of Omega Epsilon Phi held weekly meetings to which they invited prominent and distinguished men from Columbus who are active in the field of optometry to speak to them on various educational subjects pertaining to that field. Several of the topics that were covered this past year included, "The Proper Care and Handling of Juvenile Patients" and "The Psycho-Visual Factors" which are associated with reading.

The calendar of social activities this past year for Omega Epsilon Phi included a stag party which was held during fall quarter, and a banquet held at the Fort Hayes Hotel winter quarter honoring the new initiates.

The purpose of Alpha Kappa Gamma is to inspire the spirit of truth and good fellowship among its members; to maintain high standards of scholarship and conduct among the women in the various schools for dental hygienists; to institute new chapters at the accredited dental colleges; and to bring the women in these dental schools and in the profession into a closer relationship.

Zeta chapter of Alpha Kappa Gamma was found at Ohio State in 1946 and is one of seven national chapters, the first of which was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1922.

The members of this sorority have been very busy this year with social activities which included presenting a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family in Columbus, sending five hundred toothbrushes to Children's Hospital, and planning a program to aid needy Columbus children with dental care.

Other social functions throughout the year included house parties with two other dental fraternities, Delta Sigma Delta and Psi Omega; and a tea for prospective members. Alpha Kappa Gamma also held a dinner-dance as their social function for the month of February, while their annual Spring Formal, which was held in May, put the finishing touches to a very succeessful year.

To promote the profession of Dentistry; to establish, foster, and develop high standards of scholarship, leadership, and character of its members; to create and bind together a body of professional men who, by scholarly attainments, faithful service, and the maintenance of ethical ideals and principles have achieved distinction; and to strive for breadth of vision, unity in action, and accomplishment of ideals are the manifold purposes of Alpha Omega. This body of men was created and is bound together by a spirit of fraternal fellowship. The national organization was founded at Teaneck, New Jersey in 1907. Ohio State's chapter is the Psi chapter which was established here in 1926 and the national organization has now grown to include thirty-eight chapters.

Only students in the College of Dentistry are eligible for membership in Alpha Omega. Prospective members must have maintained a 2.5 cumulative point hour and must meet standards of the national organization to be considered for membership.

Spring Quarter the Alpha Omegas sponsored their annual Senior Banquet at which the outstanding senior member and the retiring president, Herbert Krause, were honored.

Scope

Students enrolled in Medical Technology as trainees in the laboratories of the Ohio State University Hospital are eligible for membership in Scope, directed ably this year by President Bette Doakes.

Scope members take over the orientation of new trainees entering the Hospital Laboratories. Regular case history studies are directed by the medical staff in co-operation with the Scope program once weekly. This is helpful in corelating the laboraotry work and medical services of the Hospital.

Favorite projects of the Scope members were the quarterly parties which they held for the new students in Medical Technology, and the favorite social function was the annual Christmas Party which was held at the home of Dr. H. L. Reinhart who serves in an advisory capacity.

Torch Club

President of Torch Club, honorary for student nurses, this year was Mary Lou Moss. Requirements for membership in this organization demand that prospective members have a cumulative point hour of 2.5 or above, at least junior standing in the School of Nursing, and a record of interest in extra-curricular activities.

The group this year collected magazines for the University Hospital Clinic and supplied patients of the Tuberculosis Clinic with scarlet and grey stationery folders. At Christmastime the members of the Torch Club took time off from regular duties to carol through the corridors of University Hospital, the Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital and the psychiatric hospital. Another pleasant project of the organization was a coke party for new students in Nursing which they planned this Fall.

Sigma Pi Nu

The main purpose of Sigma Pi Nu is to promote friendship among the graduate nurses at Ohio State and to help in aiding these nurses in adjusting the university living. Sigma Pi Nu is open to all graduate nurses who are enrolled in Ohio State University's education program and who are interested in participating in and helping with the organization's programs and social activities which they have throughout the year.

This nursing organization was established at Ohio State in 1946 and the members hope eventually to become affiliated with Alpha Tau Delta, which is a national nursing sorority.

The members of Sigma Pi Nu began their year's calendar of social activities with their annual fall formal which was held for the first time at the new Ohio Union during fall quarter. The highlight of the year for the organization, which is the annual banquet for the alumna and present members, was held winter quarter at the Union. Sigma Pi Nu brought their social functions of the year to a climax with their traditional Spring formal which took place at the Beechwold Restaurant near the close of Spring quarter.

Sigma Theta Tau

The main purposes of Sigma Theta Tau are to create a closer relationship between the schools of nursing at the universities across the country, and also to aid in stimulating an interest in higher scholarship as well as better nursing.

To be eligible for membership into this national honor society a student must be either a senior enrolled in basic nursing or a graduate in nursing-education, and must also have a cumulative point hour of 3.0 and be very active in other extracurricular activities.

Epsilon Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau was founded at Ohio State in 1932 and is now one of six national chapters.

Regular meetings are held by the sorority each month, and this past year they were all built around the theme "International Aspects of Nursing." Many of the outside speakers were nurses and doctors from other countries.

Sigma Theta Tau was honored during the fall quarter with a visit from the officers of the national organization, who inspected the chapter and once again approved it as meeting with their national standards.

The main social function of the year was the annual founder's day dinner which was held in the fall.

Kappa Epsilon

Kappa Epsilon, National pharmacy sorority, is open to all women students in the College of Pharmacy. Epsilon Chapter was founded at Ohio State in 1939 and is one of 15 national chapters, the first having been founded at the State University of Iowa on May 13, 1921.

The purpose of Kappa Epsilon is to help to unite the women students in the College of Pharmacy not only in the local chapter but in all the other chapters across the nation; to further professional consciousness and ethics; and to establish good relationships with the women of faculties of other universities across the country where there is a chapter established.

Kappa Epsilon did quite a bit this past year toward furthering these purposes through their various social activities. During the fall quarter the members of the sorority held a wiener roast for the sophomore girls in the College of Pharmacy eligible for membership into the sorority and interested in its program of activities.

Mrs. Bernard V. Christensen, wife of the Dean of the College of Pharmacy, and adviser for the sorority, entertained the girls with a luncheon at her home in honor of the new members of Kappa Epsilon.

Pharmacy Council

The Pharmacy Council serves as a connecting link between the students of the College of Pharmacy, campus student government, and University and Pharmacy College administration. In such a capacity the Council has been able to fulfill quite an important capacity and ably serve the students of the College of Pharmacy.

Presiding over the Council this year was Robert Secrest, a senior in the Pharmacy College, and the Council's advisor was Dr. Joseph Kern from the Pharmacy College staff. The Council is an organization of class representatives, elected from students in each of the five years of Pharmaceutical training, representatives of each of the organizations interested in promoting the study of Pharmacy, members at large from within the College, and the Faculty advisor. Projects this past year included fulfillment of the usual purpose—to interest Pharmacy students in campus activities and participation in campus projects. Participation in intramural sports was also encouraged.

The Council tried to evaluate the efficiency of the Pharmacy College's administration so that they may provide services more conveniently for the students and better faculty-student relationships may result.

American Pharmaceutical Association

Membership into the American Pharmaceutical Association is open to all students, both undergraduate and graduate, who are enrolled in the College of Pharmacy. The student branch of this organization was established in 1941 on Ohio State's campus.

The purpose of Kappa Epsilon is to help unite the profession of Pharmacy and also to try to promote a stronger bond among the students in Pharmacy.

Outstanding men in the field of Pharmacy were engaged as speakers for their regular meetings which were held once a month. Along with these meetings the American Pharmaceutical Association also had a number of social functions. The members of the organization worked very hard on their raffle of war bonds which was held during fall and winter quarters; and spring quarter was highlighted by their annual recognition and installation dinner-dance which was held at the Ohio Union.

Kappa Psi

Membership into the pharmacy fraternity, Kappa Psi, is limited to only those students who are enrolled in the College of Pharmacy and who have met certain scholastic and moral standards.

In 1924 Kappa Psi separated into two different organizations, one for the medical and the other for the pharmacy students, after having been a combined medical and pharmacy fraternity since their founding in 1879.

The purposes of Kappa Psi are to advance professional ethics, to encourage high scholarship, and to further the profession of pharmacy through fraternal good-will and friendship.

The members of Xi chapter received a great honor this year when they were awarded the Burrell Scholarship Trophy by the Professional Fraternity Council.

Their activities of the year included a dinner-dance winter quarter honoring the new initiates and a picnic in the spring with the members of the graduate chapter.

Taking a minute out from their studying, four Phi Delta Phi's gather around the card table. It wouldn't be a trick deck that brother Bill Arthur is holding, would it?

Phi Delta Phi

Phi Delta Phi, founded at Ann Arbor, Michigan, in 1869 is the oldest professional fraternity in America. There are now 72 active chapters and the national membership is over sixty-four thousand.

Some of the prominent members of Phi Delta Phi are Frank Bazler, president of the senior law class; Duane Isham, editor-in-chief of the Ohio State Law Journal; and Vic Greenslade, president of the Student Bar Association.

The purpose of Phi Delta Phi, that of helping to further higher ideals of professional ethics, was stressed throughout the year at all of the regular luncheons and dinner meetings. In addition to the regular meetings and parties which are held each quarter several rushing parties spotlighted the Winter quarter; while in the spring the annual Alumni and Initiation Banquet, which was held at the Deshler Wallick with a prominent speaker, was the highlight of that quarter.

Along with being active in the law school activities and also participating in campus organizations, several of the members of Phi Delta Phi distinguished themselves by becoming runners up for the entire university in the intramural football league last fall.

Delta Theta Phi

Delta Theta Phi has the distinction of being the largest law fraternity in the country and of contribution in a marked degree to the notable ranks of the "bench and bar". Since the founding of the first senate in 1900 in Douds, Iowa, the organization has increased until it now boasts 82 senates, which correspond to chapters in social fraternities. There are over 23,000 in national membership. Ohio State's chapter bears the name, Chase Senate.

The purpose of this organization is to unite and introduce law students to a professional environment and the basic traditions of the law profession.

Formal initiation is held Fall and Spring Quarters at the Domestic Relations Court and is followed by a banquet and a dance. Delta Theta Phis were honored to welcome Judge Henry Middelton of the Supreme Court of Ohio as guest speaker at the Spring Initiation Banquet which was held in honor of all of the year's initiates.

Dean of Chase Senate this past year was Robert Hunter, ably assisted by Vice Dean Ralph Thomen, Clerk of Rolls, Stan Jurus, and Clerk of Exchequer, Robert Winningham. Aside from presiding at meetings and formal functions these officers took charge of the various informal parties.

Military Council

A little publicized group of military students representing six organizations in the three services, and with five ex-officio members, representing the ROTC as a whole, and some special groups, meets every two weeks in the Union. Yes, although little is said of the Military Council, its actions affect the majority of military students on the Ohio State campus.

The duties of the Military Council are to coordinate the military activities of the University, and to represent the military interests in the Student Senate. Other special duties include the administration of the Battelle Memorial Prize Fund, the sponsoring of the Interservice Stag Party each fall, and the organization and sponsorship of the Interdepartmental Rifle and Drill competition. In addition to these, the main event of the year is the sponsorship of the Military Ball. Preparation for this begins with the appointment of the general chairman in October, and continues until the final distribution of the profits some weeks after the date of the Ball.

Each year, the offices and adviserships of the Council are rotated between the services, in the order Army, Navy, Air Force. This year, the honors went to the Army, which came through with flying colors. Under the leadership of Jim Woods as chairman, Tom Miller as vice-chairman, and with Harry Overs as secretary and chief penny pincher, the Council enjoyed one of its most active years. Much credit goes to Lt. Col. R. W. Schell, U.S.A., who very capably advised and assisted both the Council and the Military Ball Committee throughout the year, including informal meetings (i.e., no minutes taken) at the Riverside every other Wednesday.

Scabbard and Blade

Promoting inter-service relations is the main purpose of Scabbard and Blade, the only campus honorary that brings together students from the Army, Navy, and Air ROTC units exclusively. By preparing college men to take a more active part and to have a greater influence in the military affairs of the communities in which they will reside, the group attempts to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers while they are in college.

Admission to Scabbard and Blade is by invitation to men in advanced ROTC programs. They are selected according to their military bearing, leadership qualities and appearance. Upon recommendation of instructors and possession of all these qualities, a man may be selected.

Most honorable of the honorary's men are Ron Seeger, NROTC, president; John McCoy, ROTC, vice-president; Rodney Spotts, ROTC, secretary; and Charles Johnson, AROTC, treasurer. Major Bruce M. Whiteside, USA, is advisor of the organization.

Each year at the Military Ball, Scabbard and Blade furnishes a color squad. It also has its sabre squad give an exhibition of squad sabre drill. During homecoming festivities last football season, the saber squad also escorted the homecoming queen and her court into the stadium.

The annual S&B banquet was held on February 11 this year. During the evening new officer-instructors on campus were formally presented with honorary membership to the organization. Guest speakers for the occasion were Captain J. R. Clark, USN, Colonel A. B. Devereaux, USA, and Colonel M. E. Potter, USAF. Also on the activities schedule each year is a formal dance, held this year at the Virginia Hotel with Ziggy Coyle and his orchestra providing the music. Ronni Keogan was elected queen.

Pershing Rifles

Pershing Rifles is a national military honorary society primarily for basic students, although upperclassmen in military science are eligible for membership. This organization was formed in 1892 for the purpose of bettering ROTC men in drill, and to provide them with fellowship.

The major event of the year was, as always, the annual Regimental Drill during Spring Quarter. This year Ohio State met with West Virginia, Kentucky, and other colleges in Ohio at Kent State University. The drill squad participated in intermission ceremonies of two of the basketball games and the color guard took part in the flag raising ceremonies before two of the home football games. Maneuvers this spring lasted three days, while last fall's, held in Delaware, Ohio, was for only one day.

Socially the Pershing Rifles participated in the Military Ball by sponsoring a queen candidate and presenting a drill platoon for the affair.

Outstanding as leaders during the past year were Cliffton Daugherty, president; Thomas Miller, vice-president; Charles Harrison, secretary; Karl Paoletti, treasurer; Earl Murphy, pledge officer; Ralph Maize, supply officer; Fred G. Monaco, adjutant officer; Jim Tarbutton, pledge sergeant; Warren Wirth, supply sergeant; and Bob Pienkowski, rifle team captain.

Air Science

Men in the AFROTC program at Ohio State can prepare for Air Force work in: navigation, radar, flight operations, bombadiering, maintenance, and supply. Upon graduation, they receive a reserve commission as Second Lieutenant in the Air Force and they may go into the regular Air Force if they so desire.

Early Fall and late Spring Quarters are devoted to learning the fundamentals of drilling, and during the spring, the whole unit, along with the other ROTC units, participates in corps day; an inspection by high ranking officers in and around Columbus. The rest of the year is devoted to classroom work in the above mentioned subjects, as each man is permitted to choose his field of specialization.

To show that the Air Science program at Ohio State is outstanding, one has only to point to General Curtiss Le May, officer in charge of Strategic Air Command of the Air Force. He as well as many other top ranking Air Force officers are graduates of the AFROTC at Ohio State Men in the program are justifiably proud of their organization, now the largest on Ohio State's campus.

Command Squadron

Command Squadron, honorary for freshman and sophomore Air Science students acts as a social as well as an educational organization for its members by widening the knowledge and broadening the social background of the AFROTC students.

Squadron A, Wing One at Ohio State, organized in 1949, was the first chapter in this national organization, now with thirteen active chapters and several affiliated groups being considered for membership. Any basic Air ROTC student with a 3.0 average in Air Science is eligible for membership.

Commanding Officer this year was Cecil Blacker and Don Egan was Executive Officer. Personnel Officer and Supply Officer were Dick Palmer and Rex Cunningham respectively. Operations Officer was John DiRosario and John Raff was Sergeant-at-Arms. Two hard working men who always lent a hand when assistance was needed are Major Gabler and Sergeant Bartlet, advisors to the organization.

Among the forty-five candidates for queen of the organization, Kim Sears was voted to represent the group at the Military Ball. Command Squadron is very thankful to her and the other candidates for their cooperation in the affair.

Headquarters for National Command Squadron is here at Ohio State, and this year the national convention was held on campus during spring vacation. Delegates from eleven universities were present. Men from local wings are selected to be members of the National and they coordinate the eight wings throughout the United States. Much credit is due to National members on campus who have worked very hard to help in keeping the local wing alive and very functional.

Of the 220 men in Command Squadron, 180 were initiated during the Fall Quarter, and 35 more in Winter Quarter. As well as serenading the stadium from across the river, the pledges swept down the long walk. However, because of the large number of men belonging to the organization, meetings are now held in Campbell Hall auditorium instead of the ROTC building.

Arnold Air Society, founded in 1948, has as its purpose, the creation of a closer working relationship among future officers, and promotion of understanding and relationships between the cadet corps and officers.

During the year, A.A.S. sponsored for the second straight time, their Arnold Air Queen into the 1953 Military Ball Queenship. This years winner was Miss Nita Hunt from Bethesda, Ohio, while last year, Miss Peggy Poorman from Columbus copped the Arnold Air Queen and Military Ball Queen titles. Men who backed the contest this year were Aran Bedrosian and Bud Gerzina, Queen Co-chairman. The Society thanks these men for doing a terrific job.

Besides coming out tops in queenships, Arnold Air also had the best in cooperation when it sponsored a blood drive. Almost 300 pints were garnered for Korean servicemen this year.

Much credit is due to Buz Hindman and Bud Gerniza for their hard work in getting 40 new pledges this year, and the several parties and formals held throughout the year were all attended by a full membership of 90 men.

Thanks are also in order to Squadron Advisor Captain Frederick C. Thayer. Under his capable guidance, men of Arnold Air Society are looking forward to an even greater season during 1953-54.

Air Force ROTC Drill Team

Although one of the youngest campus organizations, the Air Force Drill Team has come a long way in the line on progress. Originated in the Fall Quarter of 1953 by men in Air Science, this organization has as its primary purpose, the improvement and promotion of the Air Force ROTC as a shole through participation in drill exhibitions and competitions. Wholehearted cooperation has been shown by members in this respect, and in the future, the men expect to have one of the top and sharpest campus activities.

This year the new group participated in the inter-service drill competition and tied for second place in this annual event, and they aspire for the top position next year. Other activities the Team has participated in are the flag raising ceremonies at Ohio State football games and several holiday parades in downtown Columbus. And to make sure the members don't suffer from too much work, plans are in the offing to include social events in the seasons repertoire in the future.

Membership in the Drill Team is voluntary, and any member of the AFROTC is eligible to join.

First officers of the organization were Glenn Mowl, commanding officer; William Sowder, executive officer; Charles Bischoff, adjutant; and John Murphy, finance officer. Don Cherry and Richard Davis were drill masters this year.

Drill competition among the drill teams of the three ROTC branches is the high point in the continual practice. This year Pershing Rifles took home the trophy for the snappiest and best-trained outfit.

After inspection, these midshipmen will use the equipment that makes the Armory a land going ship. Thousands of dollars have been expended by the Navy in order to properly train these men for life at sea.

Captain Jeane R. Clark

Naval Science

In 1926 the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps was established for the purpose of offering to college students the necessary Naval Science courses required to qualify them for commissions in the Naval Reserve upon graduation. The mission of the NROTC was greatly expanded in 1946 to include the training of career officers for the Regular Navy. Students in the Program are appointed Midshipmen and receive the appropriate instruction for a commission in the Line of Supply Corps of the Navy. Instruction is also provided for men interested in obtaining a commisison in the Marine Corps.

Courses of instruction include Naval Customs and Traditions, Naval History, Comunications, Naval Ordnance, Radar, Navigation, Meteorology, Naval Machinery, Military Justice, Leadership, Naval Supply, Financing and Accounting, Amphibious Operations and Marine Corps Weapons and Tactics.

The NROTC Unit was established at Ohio State University in 1946, replacing the Navy V-12 Program which had operated on the campus during World War II. The facilities for training future Naval Officers are located in the Old Armory, where considerable equipment has been installed by the Navy to provide the most realistic training possible for a land-locked Naval activity.

Midshipmen Council

All activities within the "USS Old Armory" are Coordinated by the Midshipmen Council. Composed of presidents of all the naval extra-curricular activities and one representative from each class: freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior, this group of selected men obtains valuable experience in leadership, and attempts to prepare all midshipmen for the rigors of naval life they will soon face.

Each year the Council sponsors several social functions among which are the Ice Breaker Dance in the Fall Quarter. This iceman's holiday enables freshmen and their dates to become better acquainted with the upperclassmen in the unit. Highlight of the year is the annual formal Quarterdeck Ball. Every year the midshipmen, under guidance of the Council, strive to make this Winter Quarter affair outshine all other social functions of the school year. A Spring Picnic, held at Oak Park this year and backed by the Midshipmen Council, is the last all-unit program of the school year.

Erich Kilmer is president while Bob Kaufman, acting in a double capacity is vice-president and treasurer. Gene Renshaw is secretary.

Not only does the Council sponsor social activities, but it also undertakes the responsibility of engaging a Red Cross mobile blood unit for the annual naval blood drive, and puts on a freshman orientation program at which policies of the unit are outlined and extra-curricular activities within the unit are described. Also accomplished this year was the redecoration of the wardroom in the Armory. The wardroom is a place where all NROTC men may rest, study, read, or, perish the thought, just loaf.

Any problems or ideas NROTC students may have are presented to the Council, through the proper representative, and action is either taken on them, or they are referred to proper authority.

Rifle and Pistol Teams

Twenty crack shots of the Naval ROTC unit are members of the Rifle and Pistol teams. Blasting their way through about sixty meets each year, these men have a motto of, "if you're going to shoot the professor, do a clean job of it." With such an incentive, these men work with a fiery zeal. Naturally they all "earn" a straight 4.0 each quarter.

Bob Kilmer, with most dead instructors to his name, is captain of the rifle team, while Ralph Campbell leads the pistol team to destruction. Major E. H. Simmons, USMC, advises the lusty crew and M/SGT Al Perri, coach, shows them how to become proficient snipers. He has been awarded 13 purple hearts for injuries received while rendering services above and beyond the call of duty. Sergeant Perri has been coach for one week.

To become a member of one of the teams, a midshipman must qualify as a sharpshooter or expert and place in three postal matches. Outstanding men are awarded ribbons with appropriate stars denoting degree of accuracy and years of participation on the team. During Winter Quarter ten men were so honored.

Shoulder to shoulder matches are held with the other military units on campus. The teams also participate in the Secretary of the Navy and Hearst Trophy matches.

Seawolf

Published bi-weekly, the Seawolf is the method of disseminating "the word" to all midshipmen at Ohio State. Erich Kilmer is the "captain" of the good ship Seawolf, and under his whip are Bob Slunder, managing editor; John Ayres, news editor; Chuck Townley and Chuck Reynolds, production and circulation managers respectively; Al Stein, art editor; and 17 other journalistically inclined midshipmen. Lieutenant G. W. Gallagher, USN, is the guiding light of the organization. Naturally, he's the advisor.

Eagerly accepting five dollars a quarter from Anchor and Chain, backers of the publication, Seawolves promptly put three cents into the kitty for improvement of the paper, and, admittedly unabashed, go out and have a party. Party or not, these midshipmen claim they work very hard and put out the best paper in the world.

Mission of Navy papers is to serve as a positive factor in promoting the efficiency, welfare and contentment of personnel. To do this, the Seawolf receives the Armed Forces Press Service weekly clip sheet, as well as all student papers published by NROTC units throughout the country. Within these publications is a wealth of material which staffers plagiarize for all they are worth. Occasionally, an original article appears in the Seawolf.

Anchor and Chain

Admission to Anchor and Chain, Naval honorary fraternity, is a pat on the back to those men in the NROTC who show scholastic ability, leadership ability, and participation in campus activities. Membership is by invitation during the Junior year in the Naval unit.

Social functions including a blimp ride topped off this year's activities. Plans are now being made for adopting a war orphan. The project will be partially financed by the sale of calling cards to senior NROTC students.

Bill Minty, president; Erich Kilmer, vice-president; Gene Renshaw, secretary; and Ron Seeger, treasurer, are this year's officers. Social chairman is Harry Garing.

Officers within the unit spoke on Navy life upon graduation at some of the informal, bi-monthly meetings. Other speakers included Sergeant Foster of the Columbus traffic squad and Charles Vibbers of the Ohio Auto Association.

NROTC Drill Platoon

Those NROTC men seen around campus with scarlet and gold citation cords are members of the Ohio State University Navy Drill Platoon. The Drill Platoon is made up of NROTC midshipmen who have volunteered and qualified for membership by practicing long and hard to master the intricacies of close order drill.

At football games, in parades, and other notable functions on campus and in Columbus, these men may be seen going through their paces. Each Spring Quarter the Drill Platoon competes with other military units on campus in a drill meet, and is proud to claim they have yet to be defeated.

Not to be confined to all work, these men of precision hold at least one party each quarter, and are led to it by Gerald Gill, commanding officer; David Immendorf, executive officer; Robert Kaufman, yeoman; Marvin Eyler, purser, and Major E. H. Simmons, USMC, advisor.

The Ohio State University, in the minds of many, stands for great athletics. But more than that, athletics are a symbol of spirit, character and sportsmanship wherever Buckeye teams play. A keen sense of spirit and the determination to win is typical of Ohio State athletics. The year 1952-53 was no exception. Highlight of the year was the resounding victory over once mighty Michigan. Paul Ebert was the Buckeyes' individual star. Yes, this was a good year for Ohio State ahtletics, not the best, but one of the most exciting in a long time. A loyal Buckeye heart pounds as the most beautiful words ever put to song sounds out what athletics at Ohio State stand for — "Time and change will surely show, how firm thy friendship — Ohio."

Day of Champions

On October the 4th for the Purdue football game, some 250 of Ohio State's all-time athletes gathered at the Ohio Stadium to watch the Buckeyes in action. Although the Bucks lost a heartbreaker to the Boilermakers, every Buckeye fan was impressed with the great speech delivered by the immortal Jesse Owens. The one time all-American track great and 1936 Olympic star, stood bare-headed before the 75,000 and humbly paid tribute to his track coach Larry Snyder and Ohio State. An ovation seldom heard in the huge horseshoe was given the great athletes Such old time stars as Dr. John Wilce and C. E. Seddon of early football fame, and Walter Metzer and Harry Workman of baseball stardom, plus recent names like Les Horvath, Jack Dugger, and Vic Janowicz were on the scene for the big tribute.

OSU'S HOLAN, OYAKAWA SET RECORDS; WHITFIELD WINS 800-METER; KONNO WINS TO PUT U. S. OVER. These headlines are typical of many which reported to the world the supremacy of the Ohio State representatives of the United States team at the 1953 Olympics. Led by two of their own coaches, Larry Snyder and Mike Peppe, the Bucks contributed five firsts, two seconds, and two thirds to the United States' sweeping team victory.

Yoshinobu Oyakawa and Jerry Holan set new Olympic records for the 100-meter backstroke and 200-meter breaststroke. Ford Konno swam to a first in the 1500-meter freestyle and was nosed out by Jean Boiteaux of France in the 400-meter. Former Buck track star Mal Whitfield tied his own Olympic record to win the 800-meter race. Freshman Nate Brooks took the final first by winning the Olympic Flyweight championship.

The Big Game

"You'll be proud of these boys" . . . Hayes

Coach Woody Hayes, beginning his second year as head coach of the Ohio State football dynasty, went out on a limb before the season got underway to comment, "You'll be proud of these boys." It took a lot of convincing, but before the season was over, Buckeye followers couldn't think any other way. Trying to build a sound offensive team, Coach Hayes instituted the now famous Split-T formation. A new quarterback was needed, and John Borton answered the call. Buckeye fans awaited the opener with Indiana on September the 27th.

OHIO STATE 33 — INDIANA 13

The Buckeyes got started off on the right foot in their 1952 grid campaign by downing Indiana, 33-13. It was the first trial for Coach Woody Hayes' addition of the Split-T to the Ohio State offensive machine. Some were impressed, others disappointed by the new system. The Bucks got their first score when the game was only three minutes old. Fred Bruney intercepted a Hoosier pass on their 17, and a 15-yard Borton to Bruney pass clicked for the TD. On the first series of exchanges after the kickoff, the Bucks fumbled on their own 25. Seven plays later Indiana had racked up seven points to take a 7-6 first quarter lead. At the beginning of the second stanza, the Scarlet and Gray gridders took the ball on their own 13 and marched 87 yards to pay dirt in 14 plays. Hop Cassady, the brilliant Freshman who starred in the Spring intra-squad game, took up where he left off as he pulled down a 27-yard Bruney pitch for the TD. With 27 seconds remaining on the clock in the second period, Indiana roared back to tie the count at 13-all before halftime.

The third period provided some thrills, but neither team managed to score. In the fourth period, Ohio's strength and deep reserves began to pay off. With Cassady providing the punch, the Bucks went knocking on the Hoosier goal once again.

After a well-earned victory over Rose Bowl bound Wisconsin, ranked first in the nation, these jubilant Buckeyes parade toward the dressing rooms with Coach Woody Hayes riding triumphantly on their shoulders.

It's no conga line, just four Ohio State defenders making sure that the Badger invader gets no further. Wisconsin's powerful ground machine met its match in these inspired Buckeyes.

Cassady snatched an enemy pass, and later went six yards for the six pointer. Eight minutes later, big John Hlay blasted through the tiring Indiana line for another, 27-13.

After Ohio kicked off, Indiana's D'Achille tried for a TD pass, but it was intercepted by Marts Beekley who carried 51 yards to the Hoosier 3-yard line. On the next play, Cassady scored his third touchdown of the afternoon. Little Tad Weed, making his varsity debut, made it five-for-five in the extra point department, and the Bucks had passed the initial test, 33-13.

PURDUE 21 — OHIO STATE 14

The Boilermakers from Purdue journeyed into town on Friday, Oct. 3, and left the following day with a 21-14 victory packed tightly under their belts. Capitalizing on the Buck's weaknesses, the engineers scored in the first four minutes of play after recovering a fumble on Ohio's 25-yard line. Before the Buckeyes could catch their breath, Purdue scored again in the second period when End John Kerr raced through the Ohio forward wall to block Bill Petersen's punt on the 19-yard line. Boilermaker Guard Tom Bettis picked up the loose pigskin and raced into the end zone for the second Purdue tally. The Bucks, behind 14 points, scored a TD in the waning minutes of the second period after Marts Beekley had recovered a Purdue bobble. Both teams managed to push one more touchdown across the opponents goal in the second half. Purdue went ahead 21-7 on a series of pass play completions by Quarterback Dale Samuels. Ohio countered with a second, but much too late, touchdown in the final three minutes to be on the short end of a 21-14 score. Fullback John Hlay was outstanding for the Buckeyes as he passed the individual ground gainers for the day with 133 yards in 22 tries for a six yard average.

raves of the mighty Wisconsin Badgers once the opening whistle blew. Some 80,000 fans crammed the huge horseshoe to roar themselves hoarse as the underdog Ohio State team raced to a convincing lead and time after time threw the Badger offensive out of gear. The Bucks, a pre-game two touchdown underdog, took the field in the peak of condition and slowly but surely wore the men from the dairyland to a grinding halt. The Rose Bowl bound Badgers played good football, but just couldn't meet the challenge offered by a well-trained Buckeye unit that wouldn't settle for less than a victory. Spectacular runs by Fred Bruney, Hop Cassady, and big John Hlay, plus some superb defensive work by linebackers Tony Curcillo, Bud Bond and Dick Doyle paved the way for the best upset in many a year. Quarterback John Borton was invincible with his needle threaded passing and generalship of the new Split-T formation. When the final 23-14 Ohio State victory was posted on the scoreboards, and Coach Woody Hayes was lifted triumphantly to the shoulders of his victorious Bucks, the Buckeye followers were convinced they had seen the Split-T executed to perfection. It was one of those games to be remembered for a lifetime.

OHIO STATE 35 — WASHINGTON STATE 7

Riding high on the crest of the nation's greatest upset the week before, the Bucks took another giant step in pasting Washington State, 35-7. Relying on the pitching arm of masterful Quarterback John Borton, the Buckeyes blasted for three quick touchdowns in the first period. The pass combination of John Borton to Bob Grimes was the key to the victory door. Borton hit on 15 of 17 passes attempted. Piling up a comfortable 21-0 halftime lead, Ohio came back in the second half to score one touchdown in each of the third and fourth quarters. The only Cougar score came late in the fourth period when Woody Hayes had substituted his entire bench to gain experience. Sharing the spotlight honors with Borton and Grimes was little Tad Weed, who had a perfect day with five extra point placements. The punting was still a little weak, but all in all the Columbus fans were generally impressed and still wondering about Coach Woody Hayes' comment: "You'll be proud of these boys."

IOWA 8 — OHIO STATE 0

With revenge in their minds and still smarting from the 83-21 pasting served on them in 1950 by the Buckeyes, the Iowans rose to meet the Buckeye challenge in an admirable fashion. Going into this game without a win for the season and a three touchdown underdog, the Hawkeyes gave their fans a real football game. The Hawks took the opening kickoff on their own 13 and marched 69 yards to the Ohio 19-yard line where were greeted with a rugged Buckeye defensive wall. However, this was only the beginning of a back-to-the-door defensive pattern which was to be the theme for the rest of a dismal afternoon. With Fullback John Hlay nursing a pulled leg muscle, the Ohio State backfield sputtered to a halt when it looked like a drive might be going. The initial score of the game came when Safety Doug Goodsell accidentally touched a misjudged punt on the Ohio 2-yard line and was tackled in the end zone for a safety when he tried to retrieve the ball. The Iowans went to the locker room at half time with a 2-0 lead and apparently sensed that they were in control to stay. Later in the second half, Quarterback John Borton pitched a lateral pass to the halfback who wasn't there and the Hawks pounced on the loose ball. Iowa in five plays pushed the ball across the Ohio goal to gain an inspired 8-0 Iowa victory.

OHIO STATE 24 — NORTHWESTERN 21

Making a fourth quarter comeback was the theme for the television game of the week when the Bucks traveled to Northwestern. Some 19 million football fans gathered around their TV sets to see the Buckeye gridders post a 7-0 first period score, but go to the locker room behind 21-7 at the halftime intermission. Failing to score in the third quarter, the Ohio State hopes sank to a new low as the Wildcats held on downs on their own one-yard line at the beginning of the final stanza. Northwestern was forced to kick and the Bucks took advantage of a bad punt which went out of bounds on the Wildcat 18-yard line. Hammering their way to the one yard line once again, it took four tries before Fred Bruney skirted right end for the six-marker. After holding the Cats on their own 42 following the kickoff, the Buckeye offensive machince started to roll goalward once again. Quarterback John Borton flipped a 30-yard pass to Bruney who cut behind three Wildcat defenders and faked for the third Ohio score. Tad Weed, with nerves of steel, booted the ball squarely through the uprights for the tying 21-21 score. Following the kickoff, the Buck defensive team pushed the fading Northwestern team back to their 5-yard line. Tackle Irv Denker broke through the Wildcat forward wall to block a slow punt, and the Bucks took over on Northwestern's 6-yard line. Ohio was penalized back to the 22-yard line for clipping, and after four desperate tries found itself on the 11-yard line with fourth and goal to goal. Once again little Tad Weed came off the bench, and this time booted Ohio State to a brilliant 24-21 victory with a difficult field goal. 17 points in the last fifteen minutes. One of the greatest football comebacks in Buckeye history.

PITTSBURGH 21 — OHIO STATE 14

The Pitt Panthers came into the Ohio Stadium primed for an upset and left with the bacon by a 21-14 count. The Ohio ground attack failed and the closeness of the score can only be accredited to brilliant play of Ohio State's defensive squad. Three times the Buck defensive unit stopped sure Pitt TD drives The Panthers first reached pay dirt and seven points after a series of running plays following a recovery of an Ohio fumble on the Bucks' 31-yard line.

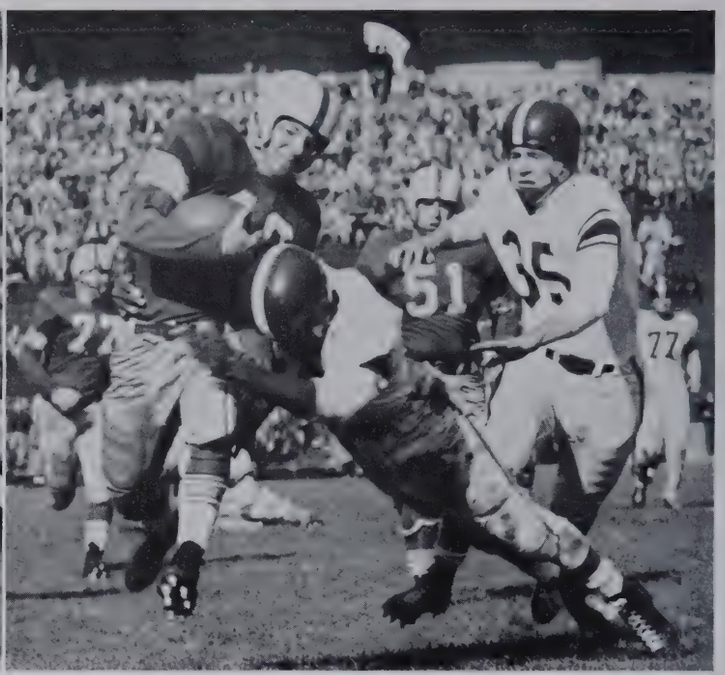
The game was tied 21-21, the ball was snapped, John Borton placed it, and then Tad Weed, with his usual ease, kicked the field goal which climaxed the Buck's great comeback against Northwestern.



Hopalong rides again, this time he tries to escape the clutches of a lunging, ferocious Cougar, Washington State Cougar, that is.

The Buckeyes tied the score at seven-all when John Borton found End Bob Grimes open for a touchdown. Trying desperately to hold down the Pitt onslaught, Ohio was called on a 43-yard pass interference play and the Panthers scored on a seven yard jump pass to put Pitt ahead 14-7 at the halfway mark. The Panthers roared back in the third canto to score another TD as Dick Deiterick took a short pass from Quarterback Mattioli and danced his way past six Ohio tacklers and 45 yards into the end zone. The scoring for the day was ended when Borton hit Fred Bruney in the end zone late in the fourth quarter. The final score read Pitt, 21, Ohio State, 14. As much action was seen following the game as during the hard fought football contest. Some 500 or more Pitt and Ohio fans tussled to bring down the goal posts. After a half hour of black eyes and bloody noses the uprights were torn down for the first time since the famous Notre Dame game of 1935.

With four receivers in the open, Halfbacks Fred Bruney (12) and Howard Cassady (40), Ends Bob Grimes (80) and Dean Dugger (83), passing ace John Borton throws one of his seventeen aerials against. W.S. He completed fifteen of these.

OHIO STATE 27 — ILLINOIS 7

Two changes, George Jacoby at offensive tackle and Bobby Watkins at right halfback, provided the difference in the football play the day the Bucks played at Illinois. The score was knotted 7-all in the first half of play. The Buckeyes marched 91 yards in 16 plays for their score in the first period. The Illini came back 68 yards in five plays near the end of the second period for their score. Coming out after the halftime intermission, the Bucks got rolling for 20 points before Illinois could catch its breath. Skippy Doyle set up the first Buckeye score when he intercepted the first pass attempt by the Illini on Ohio's 41. Seven plays later Dean Dugger went high in the air to pull down a 35-yard Borton touchdown pass. Following the kickoff the Illini had the ball for only one play when the alert defensive Buckeye line pounced on another costly bobble. With Bobby Watkins sparking the ground attack State scored its third touchdown of the afternoon eight plays later when Hop Cassady blasted over from the 2-yard line. Later in the third period the Illini's Quarterback Tom O'Connel desperately trying to put the Indians back in the ball game pitched a strike that was intercepted by halfback Doug Goodsell who picked his way down the sideline to the 2-yard line. On the next play Fred Bruney carried over for the final score of the afternoon. Fans were amazed at the great team spirit that provided the 27-7 win, especially after the defeat by Pitt one week previous. Bobby Watkins, given a chance to prove himself, was the star of the game carrying the ball 16 times for 98 yards and a 6-yard average.

OHIO STATE 27 — MICHIGAN 7

The Ohio State football season ended in a blaze of glory as an inspired Buckeye team derailed the Rose Bowl bound Michigan Wolverines before a jam-packed Ohio Stadium 27-7. Playing the regular Michigan game on Saturday instead of the usual Thursday night practice the relaxed Bucks took the field full of confidence, something missing in the eight previous years of bad games. The pattern was set in the initial quarter when Fred Bruney, playing his last and most brilliant game in a Buckeye uniform, intercepted two Wolverine passes to put the skids under sustained drives. His second interception resulted in a Buckeye march that carried to the Michigan 4-yard line as the quarter ended. As the second quarter began, the Bucks hammered to the Michigan 1-yard line where a fumble ended the scoring threat. The Wolves punted out and George Rosso returned 37 yards to the Michigan 26. With Koepnick, Hlay, and Watkins providing the ground punch, the Bucks came back down to the Michigan 6-yard line. Quarterback John Borton, calling his best game of the year, crossed up the Wolves with a TD pass to End Bob Joslin in the end zone. After the kick off, Michigan pulled its favorite quick kick, but Safety George Rosso was ready again and returned 19 yards to the Michigan 28. Hlay and Watkins hammered the line several times before Borton faded deep to uncork a sensational pass to Bob Joslin who made an equally sensational catch as he was falling in the end zone. The Bucks were leading 14-0 as Michigan put in its bid for a TD. With 18 seconds remaining in the first half, the Wolves tried a touchdown pass that was snatched up by Fred Bruney for his third interception of the day, and thus ended the Wolverines scoring threat. The Bucks came back in the second half with that air of confidence and determination to win. After a series of ball exchanges, Ohio's vicious tackling caused a Michigan to fumble. The Bucks recovered and four plays later, Borton scooted inside the Michigan right end for another score. With a commanding 21-point lead, Ohio racked up its fourth and final score in the fourth quarter. George Jacoby dropped back to intercept a Michigan pass, and 6 plays later Borton hit End Bob Grimes who carried three Michigan defenders into the end zone with him. After the kick off, the Wolves marched 71 yards for a token score to give a final reading of 27-7 in favor of Ohio State. The win was strictly a team victory. Seventeen seniors played the greatest ball game of their collegiate career. An eight year drought had ended, and Columbus, Ohio rocked with the victorious rhythm.

The sometimes up and sometimes down 1952 Ohio State football team didn't have the best record ever, but who could deny that it didn't provide the most thrills? Yes, they probably would have played in the Rose Bowl had they beaten Iowa, but that's the unpredictableness in football. Comebacks against Northwestern and Illinois offered thrills a plenty. The losses to Purdue, Iowa and Pitt were disheartening. The romps over Indiana and Washington State, and the great upset over Wisconsin were indeed satisfying. And the greatest climax to a glorious season was surely evident in the triumphant win over once mighty Michigan. Six wins as against three losses was something to be mighty proud of, especially in competition as keen as the Western Conference. Woody Hayes had proved himself, and another football season was recorded in the Buckeye history books.

Football Coaches

Under the fine leadership of Athletic Director Richard C. Larkins, Ohio State's football dynasty was led by a nine-man football coaching unit. The head man of the aggregation was W. W. "Woody" Hayes, starting his second year at the helm of one of the top football powers of the country. Hayes came to Ohio State in the spring of 1951 after the resignation of Wesley Fesler. In his first year, the Bucks compiled a record of four wins, three losses and two ties. And last fall Woody piloted the men of the Scarlet and Gray to six wins and only three losses, including a long overdue victory over Michigan, 27-7. The Buckeye head mentor was assisted by two capable veterans in Ernie Godfrey and Esco Sarkkinen. Godfrey, the mainstay in the Buckeye football picture, first came to Ohio State back in 1929 as an assistant to the late Sam Willaman. His experience, wisdom and personality have become so much a part of the Ohio State football scene that he has been aptly referred to as "Mr. Buckeye." Sarkkinen known only as "Sark", came to the Bucks as an end coach in 1946 after proving himself for the job as an all-American Buckeye end in 1939. The rest of the Ohio State coaching staff is built around six outstanding men in the coaching profession. Harry Strobel, Bill Arnsparger and Bill Hess worked with the linemen, while Doyt Perry and Gene Fekete handled the backfield. Bill O'Hara, the newest member to the staff from VMI, coached the Bucks' crack freshmen team. At this writing, the nine men that control Ohio State's football future are hard at work in spring practice preparing for the toughest schedule in the country for 1953.

Block "O"

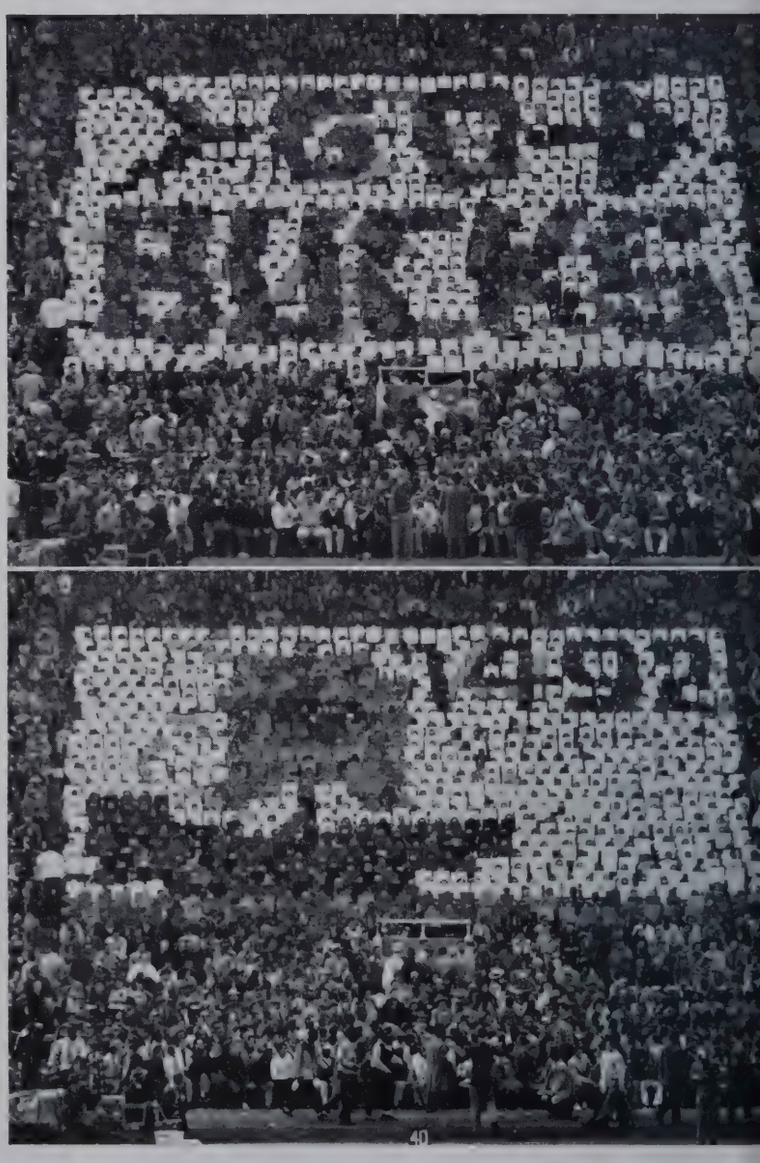
Bright cards and plastic capes with help of students add new color to game.

Newest of the campus activities is an up-and-coming young organization called "Block O". The function of this group is to set up a card section at the football games comparable, eventually, to the ones which impressed us at the University of Illinois. Members of the Block O feel that such card formations at the football games add color and activity to the Saturday afternoon festivities and also help to promote school spirit among the groups which participate.

As it was set up this past year, Section 15A, the fifty yard line section of the stadium devoted to student football fans, was turned over to those students or student organizations who were willing to be a part of the card section and participate in the card flashes during the games. Nancy Rampendahl, newly appointed director, took capable charge and spent many long hours this summer collecting fees and applications of groups and individual students. For the enthusiasm of their reply to this call for volunteer participation was a bit overwhelming. Before Fall Quarter began Nancy and her directory committee, Jerry Silberman, Margie Gairing, Reggie Altman, Ed Saar, and John Crawford were busy preparing the "shopping bags" of equipment for each of the 912 card section participants.

The result of the committee's hard work showed plainly at each of the football games. Field Director John Crawford took charge of all the Saturday afternoon proceedings and kept the entire student body constantly amused with his sideline antics. Through the efforts of the Block O committee OSU's card section has been successfully revitalized and established again.

Half-time card formations produce a colorful spectacle in the west stands as the Block "O" salutes the team and theme for the day.



Accuracy that's the word with the shopping bag committee as they carefully check912 of them before game time, insuring an impressive display for all the fans.

Basketball

Records were broken, but it wasn't enough.

Coach Floyd Stahl began his third year as the Buckeye basketball leader with a good crop of returning lettermen when the hardwood sport opened practice early in November. Seven veterans, paced by the brilliant Paul Ebert, greeted the cage fans in the Fairgrounds Coliseum on December the 6th when the Bucks opened their 1952-1953 season against the Billikens from St. Louis. The Bills, ranked 10th in the pre-season nationwide poll, got off to a quick lead and led at the intermission. But the scrappy Ohio State outfit took the lead early in the third canto and romped home to a well deserved 81-71 victory. The brilliant play of Guards Dean Cook and Merrill Hatfield told the difference with their aggressive, alertness, and smooth ball-handling.

Riding on the crest of their surprising upset win over St. Louis, the Buckeye cage squad journeyed to Indiana to meet Butler. The Bulldogs led for the entire first half, but Ohio came back with 22 points in the third period to take a 50-47 lead. Then the roof caved in when Center Paul Ebert fouled out, and Butler regained the lead to win 63-60.

Not too upset by the Butler setback, Ohio State returned home on December the 20th for a game with Pittsburgh. Cashing in on a record 36 free throws as a result of 32 Panther personal fouls, Ohio pulled away in the third period to win 76-70. Ohio's Guards cracked the Pitt pinwheel possession-type offense to feed Paul Ebert who scored the highest individual total with 24 points.

Ohio State Captain Tom Williams goes high in the air for the rebound with an Iowa player.

Defending Western Conference Champions Illinois came to town during the Christmas holidays, and made it anything but merry for the Ohio State basketball team. The Illini completely outclassed the undermanned Buckeye quintet as they breezed to a 87-62 win. Illinois scored 12 points before Dean Cook broke the ice for Ohio with a free throw. The Illini height plus the poor shooting percentage of the Bucks accounted for the wide margin in the scoring. However, Paul Ebert continued to be the leading scorer as he managed to push in 23 points over the titans.

The on-again-off-again Bucks sailed to a victory over the Wildcats of Northwestern as they hit a season high of 82 while the Cats could only manage 70. Traveling to Michigan State, Ohio found the road rough as they tumbled to a 57-68 defeat at the hands of the Spartans. Coming back once again, the Buckeye hoopsters trampled Michigan79-46, and then trekked to Purdue to eke out a 67-65 victory on a last second shot by Paul Ebert from the side court.

Returning home after a three game road trip, the Bucks ran head on with the Western Conference and NCAA bound Indiana Hoosiers. The next door neighbors acted anything but friendly as they swished the nets to a 88-68 victory.

As the halfway mark of the Big Ten Basketball season approached, the cry of stop Ebert and stop Ohio State had made the campus rounds. Wisconsin paid heed to the warning and held the rangy Center to a season's low of 14 points as they whipped the Bucks 64-51 on the Badger floor.

Minnesota caught the signal from the Badgers and held Ebert to 15 as the Gophers raced to a fourth quarter 82-64 victory in the Minnesota Field House. The Bucks narrowed the gap to two points early in the final period, but the Gophers rifled in 27 markers for the decisive win.

Buckeye Guard Dean Cook starts his fancy dribbling as two Indiana cagers are faked out of position.

Basketball

Ohio journeyed to Evanston on their way back home and hit the Northwestern Wildcats in a hot streak. The Cats broke a 46-46 third period tie, and went on to win 82-73 in the final quarter. As January came to an end, Ohio's Conference record stood at three wins and six losses for a sixth place standing.

Coming back from a dismal road trip, the Ohio State cagers bounced back to whip Purdue for the second time in a thrilling 79-77 last second victory. The score see-sawed back and forth all evening until the scoreboard read a 77-tie with 40 seconds remaining and Ohio in possession of the ball. The crowd went wild as Guard Jack Jones arched a high set shot through the nets with just two seconds remaining. Five days later Michigan State came to town and left with a defeat at the hands of the Bucks. Eagle-eyed shooting by Ohio State allowed the Bucks to grab a 35-24 lead,and to win going away.

The Bucks moved into the first division as they bounced Minnesota, 81-71, and also dashed the Gopher's hope for a possible Big Ten title. Balanced scoring and alert floor play paid off for the Bucks. Moving into the final third of their season, the Bucks presented the Columbus fans with a Valentine's Day win over a rugged Pitt defense to the tune of 62-53.

The Hawkeyes from Iowa invaded the Coliseum, and it looked like the Iowa football team in action as the supposedly weak western quintet raced to a last quarter 71-68 win over a stunned Ohio team. The Bucks had a 68-63 advantage with less than three minutes when the Hawks broke up the Ohio stalling, and went on to win.

Ohio State lost the next four Western Conference games as they bowed to Indiana, 81-67; Iowa 90-75; Wisconsin, 69-93; and Illinois, 93-74. The latter game was played in the Coliseum, and set a new team mark for a home contest.

Rebounding from five straight defeats, the Buckeye cage team enjoyed its most successful close in many a year as they romped over the Wolves from Michigan to a harmonious tune of 95-71. It was especially sweet, because it established a new Coliseum team mark, erasing the one set by Illinois only the week previous. Terry Smith, a substitute Guard, arched a one-hander from the right side to set the new mark. Center Paul Ebert ended another brilliant season against Michigan as he poured in 34 points for his season's high. The point total also enabled the Columbus lad to break and reset the all-time Ohio State season scoring record. Ebert's 27th point of the night erased past all-American Dick Schnittker's record of 469 points set in the 1950-51 season. Ebert's final count stood at 477 points for 22 games, and a brilliant 21.7 average for all games. He also led in the individual field goals per game and the free throws attempted and completed.

When the season was completed and the columns added, the Bucks had won 10 and lost 12 of the 22-game slate. In the Conference, they had moved up one notch from last year and finished with a 7-11 record.

Four top seniors in the names of Captain Tom Williams, Bill Wilks, Merrill Hatfield, and Jack Jones bowed out in the final game with Michigan, but Coach Floyd Stahl, who did a fine job with the material he had, promises some top players in the new Freshmen group. Names like Robin Freeman, Cleo Vaughn, Ray Tomlin and Dick Kelley will be heard from in the years to come.

Dean Cook fights for a Pittsburgh rebound as three Buckeyes prepare to head for a fast break.

Swimming

Coach Mike Peppe's 1953 Ohio State swimming team—one of the smallest in history—completed another successful season, winning the Western Conference championship and again breaking a flock of records. But many more new heights would have probably been within the reach of the talented Buck mermen if the numerous handicaps and misfortunes hadn't been bestowed upon them.

The Big Ten's ruling Ford Konno and Dick Cleveland ineligible for the first two meets set off a chain reaction of sickness and injuries that kept the Bucks from being at full strength most of the season.

The absence of key men proved costly to Peppe's team from the beginning. Without the services of Konno and Cleveland, the Buckeyes dropped their first dual meet in 25 starts—covering a span of four years—to Michigan State. Michigan was last to turn the trek in 1949.

Konno, out with the mumps this time, was unable to defend his 1500 meter title in the NCAA, thus causing Ohio to be no serious threat from the meet's outset. The defending champion Buckeyes did finish runner-up to Yale.

However, the many disappointments that couldn't be helped were exceeded considerably by the many records set by Buck splashers. Ten new marks were written into the record books.

Mike Peppe, center, watches Ohio State's progress in a long race.

Bob Clotworthy, first in the Big Ten on 1-meter and 3-meter, completes a half twisting layout while Joe Marino takes off.

Yoshi Oyakawa's smooth, easy backstroke brought him the 100-yard world record.

Coach Mike Peppe smiles approvingly as Ford Konno takes a few more seconds off his time in practice. Ford, a great Olympics star, was out with the mumps most of the year.

Swimming

Perhaps the most cherished record of all was that set by the 300-yard medley relay team. After the season had closed, Yoshi Oyakawa, Jerry Holan, and Dick Cleveland combined their efforts to cut the previous world record of 2:47.1 by 1.8 seconds.

On the first leg, Oyakawa, in addition, set a new world record in the 100-yard backstroke of :56.1. Jack Taylor, also from Ohio, previously owned the record of :56.5.

Another record thrown overboard was the varsity 200-yard breaststroke record. Co-captain Jerry Holan now owns the record of 2:16.4.

While Holan, Konno, Cleveland, and Oyakawa gained most of the praises, two other swimmers—Rocky Cirigliano and Nickie Silverio—filled in miraculously when the occasion arose. They won between them the four events normally won by Konno and Cleveland when the latter two couldn't compete against Pittsburgh. Cirigliano, who had been pressing him all season, finally defeated the jet-propelled Konno in the 440 at Indiana.

Little Mike Peppe, who consistently produces great divers, found this year no exception as Bob Clotworthy, Morley Shapiro, and Jerry Harrison formed one of the best diving trios in the country. They took the first three places in the Big Ten 1-meter event, and Clotworthy and Harrison earned first and second place respectively in the 3-meter.

This amazing performance was most influential in Ohio's winning the Big Ten championship for the seventh time in eight years.

Yes, one can only wonder what these fourteen talented Bucks could have done if they had been physically fit the entire season.

Dick Cleveland, Ford Konno, Rocco Cirigliano, and Jerry Harrison watch Oyakawa come down the home stretch.

Bob Clotworthy, second in Olympic springboard, demonstrates some of the finer points of his form to Morley Shapiro, left, and Jerry Harrison. They receive much valuable training by this study and criticism of each other's dives.

Jerry Holan nears the end of a long race with time as he breaks the world record in the 300-yard breaststroke.

Wrestling

The Ohio State wrestling team suffered one of its poorest seasons in many a year as Casey Frederick's mat crew failed to win a single meet. The grapplers were pinned down 16-13 in their first match with Indiana, and then proceeded to take a nose dive for eight straight contests. Michigan State blasted the Buckeye hopes, 20-5, and a week later Ohio came out on the losing end of a fourway meet with Minnesota, Purdue and Northwestern. Still looking for the initial win, the matmen dropped decisions to Pittsburgh, Wisconsin and Purdue. In the final dual meet of the season the Bucks were trampled by a powerful outfit. Refusing to finish in last place at the Western Conference Meet, the Bucks put all their eggs in one basket to salvage an eight place ranking over Purdue and Wisconsin. Captain Jack Milligan (177) and Tony Stavole (137) both went to the semi-finals before losing, and Heavyweight Dan Whitacre won the consolation final round to earn 6 points. The Captain-elect for the 1953-54 season is Dan Whitacre, son of another famous Buckeye grappler. Coach Fredericks has a balanced team returning next year paced by Whitacre and a Norwalk senior, Tom Knoll.

Fencing

Throwing off the annual jinx of losing, the Ohio State Fencers showed true form as they enjoyed a successful season with 11 wins as against only 4 losses in the regular season. Starting on the right thrust, the Buck swordsmen topped Oberlin and Fenn in a triangular meet on January the 10th. But the following week, the Badgers from Wisconsin came to town to sweep all three events to win 18-9. Getting back on their feet, the Bucks fenced to a quadrangular victory over Wayne, Lawrence Tech. and Detroit U. A week later, Ohio managed a split as they lost to Notre Dame, but won, 17-10, over Buffalo. Starting on their Conference meets, the fencers topped Michigan State, Indiana and Iowa. A win over Chicago and Northwestern made it six straight victories, but the Bucks ran into trouble as they dropped an 18-9 decision to Western Conference Champions from Illinois. At the Big Ten Meet held in the Men's Gym, Ohio placed 4th with 23 points behind Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan State. Captain Ted Hootman represented Ohio in a final fence-off in the Sabre, but lost out to Illinois' John Cameron. Hootman was the individual star with 26 wins and 6 losses in eleven attempts. Coach Bob Kaplan expects to have a good team next year with seven veterans returning.

LaCrosse

Ohio State's LaCrosse Club completed a nine game schedule last spring winning three, losing five and tying one. After a slow start, the stickmen played above the .500 mark in their final six engagements.

Although last year's record was not extra impressive, it was convincing enough to make the athletic board decide to grant varsity status to LaCrosse for the first time in history beginning this spring.

LaCrosse was started as a non-varsity sport at the Buckeye school in 1947. It was a petition filed by the players that caused the board to grant the new status.

Coach Richard Bowers' 1952 outfit was sparked offensively by co-captains Floyd Williams and Tommy Wooten and captain-elect Darrell Apt. Goalie Ray Stull carried a big share of the defensive load.

This spring, 1953, the LaCrosse team, under the tutorship of Jack Corkery, took an eastern trip—also for the initial time—stopping off at the University of Delaware, the University of Baltimore, and Rutgers University. The journey was unsuccessful in the win column—losing every contest by a wide margin. However, the trip gave the team much needed experience for the Ohio schedule ahead.

Gymnastics

Coach Joe Hewlett could have used more Andy Breiners and Don Perrys on his gymnastics squad. While this duo sparkled in their respective events, the team could only post a fair 3-4 record.

The gymnastics made a strong bid to tumble Michigan in their opener, but finally succumbed, 50½-45½. In this meet Andy Breiner and Don Perry won five events between them.

The Buckeyes were victorious for the first time in a triangular meet with Michigan State and Iowa. They edged the Spartans, 50-46, before bowing to Iowa, 54-42. Capt. Breiner again excelled, becoming a double winner with triumphs on the rings and parallel bars.

The Bucks were completely outclassed by champion Illinois, 73-23. However, the Ohio gymnasts later had things very much their own way capturing every event in a triangular win over Western Reserve and Case.

Another defeat by Indiana preceded the Big Ten Meet in which the Buckeyes placed fifth with 49 points—far behind Illinois' 133.

Baseball

Ebert wins seven; Gannon, Hein, Leonard, hit over .300; team has mediocre season.

The Ohio State baseball nine, which pulled a big surprise in winning the Big Ten championship in 1951, found it too difficult to repeat last year, finishing with a 7-7 league record and 17 wins and 13 losses for the entire season.

It was evident after Coach Marty Karow's diamond figures had returned from their annual spring tour with a 4-4 record, that they would be in for plenty of trouble as the spring progressed. Although the team appeared to have just as strong a pitching staff as the previous campaign, lack of experience was due to catch up with the Karowmen.

With the season underway back north, Ohio promptly started a winning skein that was to reach five games. It was during this stretch that basketballer Paul Ebert proved that he was as equally adept on the diamond as the hardwood, turning in an impressive 12-3 mound appearance over Miami.

After losing a doubleheader to Notre Dame, Ebert and Captain Stu Hein put Ohio State back on the right track by pacing a 4-1 victory Michigan State in the Western Conference opener. The former hurled a four-hitter while Hein provided the offensive punch with a home run over the centerfield fence.

State's title hopes were cooled considerably the next day, however, when the Bucks bitterly tasted defeat twice at the hands of Michigan. Any final chances of continuing to wear the conference crown another year were erased on the varsity diamond when the home forces dropped the final two tilts of a three-game series to Illinois.

A Buckeye batter lays down a perfect sacrifice bunt to put a man on second in position to score in the Minnesota double-header.

Two shut-outs—one by Dick Finn in his league debut, 1-0, and other by Paul Ebert, 5-0—in the final twin-bill against Minnesota took part of the sting out of the tie-for-sixth-place finish. It was Ebert's seventh victory without defeat.

Rightfielder Bill Dobbs led the team in batting with a .370 average although appearing at the plate only 46 times. All-American Stu Hein banged out 40 hits in 129 trips to close his college career with a .310 average. Catcher John Gannon and left fielder, Dave Leonard both topped the .300 mark with .341 and .324, respectively.

Track

Coach Larry Snyder's Buckeye trackmen experienced a mediocre season in 1952, finishing fourth and sixth in the Big Ten — far behind champion Illinois—in the indoor and outdoor championships, respectively. The Bucks had a 1-1 and a 1-2 dual record.

The outdoor season picture was dimmed sharply when co-captain Gene Cole, 440-880; Joe Morgan, promising shot putter; Peron Dubard, second-place high jumper in the Big Ten; and Kenny Thorpe, broad jumper were ruled ineligible scholastically. The entire quartet had contributed valuable points during the just completed indoor Winter campaign.

One of the indoor highlights was Joe Morgan's phenominal efforts in the shot put at the Michigan State Individual Relays. Morgan finished second in the event, but in so doing established a new Ohio State record with a heave of 52 feet, two inches, eclipsing Joe Masio's mark of 49 feet, 9¾ inches.

The outdoor season saw Captain Lenny Truex regain his form in the distances after being bothered by bad health. He bettered a Miami field record in the mile during the Miami-Ohio meet, and was a double winner in his final stadium appearance against Indiana.

Climax of the outdoor season came when Coach Larry Snyder revived the Ohio Relays, bringing some 17 Olympic prospects to the stadium to the delight of 3000 spectators. The main attraction was focused on the distance medley relay event where Michigan's foursome set a new world record of 9:56.3. This mark shaved 3.1 seconds off the old record.

Tennis

Coach Herman Wirthwein's Ohio State tennis team turned in another unimpressive record of three wins and nine defeats last spring, but it was an improvement over the previous year's 1-10 showing.

Led by co-captains Jerry Schiff and Dick Slager, the Buck netters opened with two consecutive wins before going into a seven-game tailspin.

The Buckeye netters also escaped the Western Conference cellar eking out just one more point in the Big Ten Meet than Minnesota. Indiana captured the title.

With veterans Herbert Jones, Gil Miller, George Whittaker, and Keith Hanlon back as regulars this year, Coach Wirthwein predicts his team will do better.

Last year's tennis edition would have been strengthened considerably if freshmen had been eligible. This year's squad will also have some fine first year men waiting to show their talents.

Golf

Coach Bob Kepler's Ohio State Golf team fared pretty well for the 1952 season. The Buckeye linksmen finished with 9 wins and 5 losses in seven outings. In their first test of the spring, Ohio had an even split with Ohio U. and Xavier. The following week, the Bucks dropped two in a triangular meet with Purdue and Michigan. Getting back on the winning trail, the stickers downed Bradley, 27½ to 8½. Then in another triangular meet, they whipped Purdue and Iowa. Two weeks later, the linksmen won two out of three as they bowed to a powerful Purdue four in a quadrangular meet, while whipping Northwestern and Michigan. A return engagement with Xavier provided another victory for the Bucks as they put down the Musketeers, 20½ to 6½. In the final triangular meet of the year, Ohio blasted Indiana and Illinois, but lost once again to the Boilermakers from Purdue. In the Western Conference Meet at Illinois, Ohio State placed fourth with 1583 points behind Champion Michigan, Purdue, and Wisconsin. Francis Cardi, Frank Guarasci, and Mel Woefling paced the Bucks through the 1952 campaign, and all three standouts will be back for the 1953 season. Cardi, a 19-year old Freshman from Columbus, and Woefling, the 1950 National Caddie Champion, are expected to provide stiff competition in the Big Ten this year.

Soccer Club

The Buckeye Soccer Club, only in its third year of competition, compiled an improving 4-4-1 record. The Bucks opened the season by tying powerful Kenyon, 3-3, and ended it in spectacular fashion by blanking Cincinnati, 1-0.

Four of the Club's members received Mid-Western honors. Dick McCombs landed a second team wing position while Igor Leliakov, Bob Snyder, and Bill Wall were given honorable mention.

Coach Jack Corkery's soccerman resembled a small United Nations as they hailed from fifteen different countries.

The Club's officers were Bill Wall, president; Dick McCombs, vice-president; and Paul Halpern, secretary.

The prospects for the future look very bright. With several freshmen breaking into the line-up it is quite probable that soccer may become a varsity sport next year.

Rifle Team

Having lost nine men from last season, this year's edition of the Ohio State Rifle Club failed to win the Big Ten championship for the first time in three years. Our sharpshooters finished in third place. Ohio's standing was determined from the total points of its matches with other schools in the eastern division (Michigan, Michigan State, and Purdue) and its rating in the final matches held this year at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

In addition to Western Conference competition, the Rifle Club participated in the stiff Central Ohio League, the Southern Ohio Inter-collegiate Rifle League, and the Illinois Invitational meet this year.

Officers of this year's team were Clifton J. Daugherty, president; Thomas A. Miller, vice-president; Herbert Reed, secretary; and Sergeant Herman J. Hodges, coach-treasurer. Captain Peter F. Egan, USA, is the advisor.

Sailing Club

Keeping pace with its fine performances of past years, the Ohio State Sailing Club sailed off with two firsts and a third in the six regattas entered last fall. The coed club came home ahead of eight other entries in the Ohio State Invitational at Scioto Dam. For its fine effort, the club was awarded the Afterguard Trophy.

The women in the Sailing Club excelled in winning the Women's Championship Regatta at Wesleyan.

In displaying a fine record, the Buckeye Sailing Club has promoted high interest in the sport at Ohio State. In addition to racing, the members obtained a thorough knowledge of the mechanics of boating.

The Buckeye boaters comply with rules of the Mid-West Collegiate Sailing Association and the Inter-Collegiate Yacht Racing Association.

This year's officers were Bruce Anderson, Commodore; Scott Moore, Vice-commodore; Pat Coe, Secretary; and Bob Wilson, Treasurer.

Scarlet Key

The Scarlet Key is an honorary organization consisting of Junior and Senior managers of all varsity sports at Ohio State. A Scarlet Key member is always ready to welcome, on behalf of the University, any visiting athletic team to the campus, and to act as host during the team's stay.

Some of the organization's projects include the planting of buckeye trees in honor of Ohio State All-Americans in the Buckeye Grove near the southeast corner of the stadium, and distributing programs at the basketball games. The Scarlet Key works in close accordance with the Varsity "O" and the Athletic Department on these projects.

With President Dwight Kidnocker, Vice-President Harold Rice, Secretary Marvin Snyder, Treasurer Charles Miller, Advisor Casey Fredericks as its leaders, the Scarlet Key held bi-monthly meetings in the Men's Physical Education Building this past year.

WOMEN'S RECREATION ASSOCIATION EXECUTIVE BOARD

Women's Intramurals

The executive board of the Women's Recreation Association is a coordinating group working with the many sports clubs, intramural house, dorm, and sorority representatives and the student sports chairmen to provide well planned recreation primarily in sports for women.

Among the truly running games offered is hockey. The O.S.U. Girls' Field Hockey Team is a member of the Central Ohio Field Hockey Association, thus playing other colleges and universities in the area. In competitive area tournaments, the outstanding player may be chosen to play on the C.O.F.H.A. team or even, if very good, to play on the Great Lakes team which draws its team members from the Cleveland, Detroit, and Southern Ohio areas.

Coming inside now, Volleyball really hit a new high with eighteen teams of jumping, spiking, hard-playing gals really making the V-ball spin. In a photo finish came Westminster Mu Kowe Mu and Baker Notchers as league winners with Mu Kowe Mu finally emerging as the tournament winner.

Hardly had the V-ball time to rest before its sister, the basketball was sent bouncing and flying over the floor and through the basket as twenty-five teams stormed Pomerene Hall. After many tries and overtimes Kappa Alpha Theta came out the tournament winner, defeating Gamma Phi Beta in the championship tilt. Delta Delta Delta swept through the losers' bracket to win the final game against Mu Kowe Mu.

In order that the walls might be kept intact and the play somewhere near normal the Officials Club members blew madly on the whistles to lend a fairness to the games of volleyball and basketball. All of the officials spent many hours in practice to meet national requirements for officiating before undertaking the officiating in the intramural tournaments.

Swimming in wedge formation are the outstanding members of the Swan Club.

These Outing Club members think that it's great to be out with the birds and bees.

Women's Intramurals

Really enjoying a co-recreational sport has been no trouble for the Badminton Club, with O.S.U. students from all over the world meeting in a universal game. Deep shots, whizzing smashes, and flashing "birds" make for the wonderful and stimulating co-educational activity.

Here at O.S.U. the Swan Club really gives forth with all kinds of "water acting" from speed swimming contests with other schools to the yearly water ballet at the Natatorium. Many a girl has made this type of swimming a creative expression, almost an artistic experience, during her four years. Those swimming in the wedge formation are the steady water-logged outstanding members of the year.

But this same thing can be done equally well on dry land and University Dance proves it. Composed of more experienced dancers, the co-educational group moves through a stagelight of performances from the lesson type, to tours, to The Arts Festival program on campus.

Modern Dance is not limited to only the very skilled. For those who want a form of creative recreation in dance, Orchesis opens the way. Aided by gongs, and changing lights, and urged on by free feeling of moving, this coed group practices and performs.

Women's Intramurals

Moving away from the stage settings into the great out-of-doors, the Tennis Club becomes alive. With spring in the air white shorts flash against a black court, as the ball is ruled-or-lost through a smash, a drive, or a slice. College meets, Invitational State Tournaments, and just plain fun in playing are to be had for the taking.

And what is to be had in the are of womanly defense? A foil in one hand, mask and jacket for protection and you are off to see who can outmaneuver whom in Foil and Mask. These girls really do a tremendous job in clinics and exhibitions for surrounding schools.

BOOT AND SADDLE

But all activity and no food and rest is no fun so Outing Club offers cook-outs, birdhikes, camp week-ends, and that wonderful feeling of being out with the birds and bees in the sunlight. Just plain getting away from it all!

Many people think guns are for the man to handle but the fairer sex proves its worth in the Rifle Club. In all positions, from prone to standing, they pepper the targets under the excellent guidance of their "captain". Telegraphic meets and club tournaments cause pause before the trigger finger snaps.

But if you want to strike something other than a shooting target try bowling for size. About fifty teams of women roll it out quarterly for the spares and strikes in the round robin tournament. Out of all these the "Strikettes" carried away the honors this year. If you want more bowling there's always the Bowling Club.

Perhaps you want someone else to do the work, if so, Boot and Saddle is a good choice. A coeducational group, competing in horse shows, field trips, college meets, and just plain riding, really see the world from a high, if sometimes changing seat.

Against a background of rolling mowed grass the Golf Club moves from the to green or sand trap. Since it's recreation you need not be a star. Tournaments, college matches, and the Club offer you the thrills. Many of the girls move later into summer golf tournaments, and some go on into highly competitive golf.

To wind up the outline is Physical Education Club, composed of women majors and minors in physical education. This is primarily a professional club dealing with ethics, standards, and programs conducive to foster good education through physical education.

Outside the classroom we direct our interests socially. Some of us have chosen to affiliate with one of the Greek groups which make up an excellently directed fraternity system and others of us prefer to be recognized among the highly idealistic, independently organized groups. To whichever group we direct our loyalty, we find a fine association of fellow collegians who represent ideals that coincide with our own. And between Greek and Greek, independent and Greek we find an ideal rapport — keen competition to keep our standards high and consistent co-operation to unite our efforts as a student body.

The Ohio Union

The new, beautiful student "home" becomes a million dollar business.

The Ohio Union is our building — to be used and enjoyed! We, the students, asked for these facilities in nineteen forty seven. The working plan arose from our needs and today we share in its administration. "Just a building", you say, "with walls and furniture stuffed inside." Impossible! The walls house a multitude of activities. From the game rooms, in its basement, to the activity offices on its second floor, there's a continual circulating feeling of friendly warmth. The fees we pay each quarter make us part owners of a variety of things— the luxrious contour chair in the lounge, books and magazines in the library, records we buy and request in the music room, the spacious ballrooms, the jukebox in the tavern, and even the eight ball in the billiards room. This is our campus home for studying and relaxation — a place to meet with old friends and to make new ones. The first year The Union had a million dollar business. As it is a non-profit organization, dividends are given to us in the form of reduced prices and better facilities.

Remember the quick cup of coffee we snatched in between classes in the tavern . . . when we danced to the name bands in the ballroom and intermissions when announcements were made about who won the contests . . . the conferences and meetings on the second floor . . . when the rooms were opened and we had our campus carnivals?

Remember the hustle bustle of the activity offices . . . everyone busy bothering someone else . . . the excitement of seeing our project completed? Remember the quiet hours of studying and relaxation in the music room . . . ?

Remember all these wonderful things about our Union!

Whether it's bright lights or a calm blue sky that stand as a background for the Ohio Union, the warmth that is eve

Union Board

The Ohio Union is directed by a Union Board composed of student, faculty, and administration members. President of the Board is always elected from among the student members. Serving in that capacity this year was Lee Peterseim.

Five of the student members are appointed by the Union Activities office to head the various areas of activity within the Union: Entertainment, Dance, Office, Public Relations, and Recreation. Four student members are elected as members-at-large during the campus election in the Spring. They are selected from a slate prepared by members of the Union Board from the previous year and are elected for one and two year terms.

The job of the student Board members is to serve as a balance wheel of student opinion, directing policies in accordance with the wishes of students, faculty, and alumni whose privilege it is to use the modern facilities of the Union.

There's no match like a tennis match and this young man looks like he knows how to work the racket.

Replacing Patti Page as the rage of the year . . . Bridge . . . everybody's playing or watching.

Recreation

From the swish . . . swish . . . of tennis rackets in early spring to the thud . . . thud . . . of basketballs in late winter, if it's recreation that students want, Ohio State has plenty of it to offer.

On one side of the Oval stands the ultra-modern Ohio Union, "The Crossroads of the Campus". Found in this edifice are bowling alleys numbering sixteen; a game room boasting twenty-four card tables; a music lounge and a music library equipped with shelf upon shelf of all types of records which can be played by students; tables for table tennis numbering eight; an Arts and Crafts Room; eighteen tables accommodating pocket pool, cushion billiards and snooker; and a photography lab.

The Union also offers space for recreation of a "lighter notation". Meeting rooms, lounges, two large ballrooms where big campus weekend dances are held in addition to Candlelight Inn, campus activities offices, and last but by no means least, "The Tavern", a campus intersection.

Careful . . . Careful . . . one of State's many avid golf players plans his strategy for making that last putt.

Here in good ol' Buckeye land, by the oval round,
As that hot ol' sun goes up, the tops come tumblin' down.

"If you dig that tune . . . wait till you hear the flip side, it's the greatest," music fans at the Union.

"Cokes at Charberts" . . . with good friends . . . plus a few jokes thrown in, can make a pleasant afternoon.

"Hey, what happened to the ball" . . . OSU men get a healthy workout on the handball court.

"Behind the eight ball" here is concentration plus . . . the mastermind at work trying to get that ball in the exact place.

Recreation

Still another side of the Oval flourishes with a system of tennis courts, swimming pools, ball diamonds, a huge football stadium, facilities for track, stables and riding equipment, an airport, and two 18 hole golf courses. The men's and women's gyms furnish a home for wrestling, fencing, and gymnastics as well as basketball, LaCrosse, soccer, sailing, and shooting are other recreational highlights found on the OSU campus. Intramural sports play an important role in the recreational program at Ohio State. Also on this side of the Oval, picnics and parties along the river are campus favorites.

. . . and then there is the recreation at Larry's, The Heidelburgs, and The Trails where students chat with friends and dates. The campus night club, alias Ptomaine Tommie's is a spacious spot, lively at any hour of the day or night. The Tom Thumb is also a well-known campus recreation spot.

The beautiful Ohio State main campus is spread out over 2100 acres. Within that area recreational facilities abound in plenty. From each of the 88 counties in Ohio as well as from every state in the Union and a score of foreign lands, students have come to put these numerous recreational opportunities into use. Recreational activities of the campus build traditions and are the essence of the college spirit which remains with Ohio State students through the years.

Whatever the form of recreation, it is likely that the Ohio State campus can furnish it.

Top: "He went that-a-way" . . . rider and horse out for a friendly gallop. Bottom: Students work to collect money for worthy campus drive . . . exit misers.

Left: "Will it be a strike" as the ball spins down the alley. Right: "Making Up" the Union lounge.

Delta Delta Delta
Makio Sorority of the Year

Proud of being Makio Sorority of the Year? You bet! And for proof, take a look at these two pages of smiling gals. But the Tri-Delts have many other reasons for being proud this eventful Sesquicentennial year. Not only were many Tri-Delt pledge pins seen regularly in the Union, but Connie Cutlip was elected Sophomore Class Secretary and Louise Thomas a Senior Class Senator. Connie again copped honors when she was announced Strollers Business Manager for 1953 at the same time that Nancy Dunton was elected President of V.I.C. and Secretary of Panhellenic. Lucky girls were Pat Potter and Connie Harlan, representing organizations at the 1953 Military Ball. Fun and work with skits, parties and dances kept the Tri-Delts on their toes and ready for another year.

(This award was based on competitive Makio sales.)

Trying to study for a pledge test, are these Tri-Delt pledges. Hmm, they don't seem too interested.

What better publicity can there be for a dance than the girls right there, ready to go — with smiles too.

Sigma Chi or Tri-Delt? Our guess is Sigma Chi admirers thumbing through a scrapbook of hilarious memories.

Makio Fraternity of the Year

Proud of their two year old house which perches at the end of Iuka Ave. at 174 Woodruff, the Zeta Beta Taus boast one of the finest social fraternity groups on the Buckeye campus. Construction on the ZBT house, complete with cherry-paneled living room, first floor dining room, and modernly furnished suite for housemother, Mrs. Pearl Gordon, was completed in the Fall of 1951. It is the newest and most modernly equipped of all the fraternity houses.

Biggest function of a busy ZBT social season was the Damon Runyon Party to which members came dressed as their favorite characters from work of the famous playwright. As a prolog to the party, the fraternity donated $400 to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund . . .

Here they are, the ZBT's victorious after being named Makio Fraternity of the Year. Despite work in numerous educational and social activities, these men found time to put forth the effort to attain this honor.

Alpha Chi Omega

A brand new house about half-way up Fifteenth Ave. was the pride and joy of the Alpha Chi Omegas this Fall. To say that it is brand new is not quite correct for it is still the old chapter house . . . but now, with a newly remodeled interior and greatly improved exterior. For where the old house once stood now stands a gracious white Georgian structure which easily accommodates all of the A Chi O out-of-town members.

Despite persistent overseeing of both actives and alums, however, the house wasn't ready for use when rushing season was at hand but plucky Alpha Chis took the situation well in hand. Out-of-town gals were 'adopted' by their town sisters for the first part of the quarter. A very successful rushing season was conducted in Westminster Hall across the 15th Ave. way. The only trouble encountered during rushing occured because of the mysterious appearance of a replica of the Sig Ep house sign in the third floor dorm window . . . at least one rushee we know of was a little bit confused. And as soon as the second and third floors were completed, the girls moved in, bag and baggage, while the workmen were still converting the first floor! In fact a certain carpenter named Joe was unanimous choice for A Chi O man of the year.

Members active in campus activities were by no means held back by inconveniences of a house under construction. Barbara Jettinghoff piled up the most impressive record of activities. She was Society Editor of the Lantern, Secretary-Treasurer of V.I.C., a member of the important Council on Student Affairs, Secretary of the Junior Class, and fittingly, elected to Chimes honorary. Nina Krause was also sporting a tiny golden chime beside her A Chi O lyre and sisters were sorry to see her leave the chapter when she transferred schools. There were more girls to keep the Alpha Chis well represented on campus. Pat Higdon and Tana Vasely were both Mirrors members, Barbara Stines was Panhell Vice President, and Joan Goth was President of the 1955 Nursing Class. Nancy Vesper was a chief cog in the wheels which kept a tremendous Golddiggers' campaign going for WSGA and was rewarded with an appointment as Social Chairman of that group for next year.

State Day, which is a convention of all the Ohio chapters of Alpha Chi Omega, was held Spring Quarter here on State's campus and hostess chapter Alpha Omicron was understandably proud of the new house and the many accomplishments of the members.

What have we here? Looks like the circus is coming to town at the A Chi O house with this menagerie.

This doesn't look like it's the most conducive place to study but the A Chi O's don't seem to mind.

Food for thought — when there's anything left around these gals seem to know just where to find it.

This is what the navy is looking for — but then what would OSU do without Donna Mercer and the A D Phi's

Fall Quarter started with a "bang" for the ADPi's as they campaigned to "dynamite" Donna Mercer onto the Homecoming Queen Court. Yes, it was a "bang-up" quarter and year for the ADPi's under the watchful eye of prexy, Marge Hillyer. Memories of the Violet Formal and the big spring weekend were still fresh in their minds as they settled down to another year of studies and fun. Skyrocketing along with exchange dinners, hour dances, a fall formal at Ilonka's, a winter informal at the White House, a Golddiggers dinner at the house on the night the girls paid, and another fun-filled spring weekend, the ADPi's scored a hit every time. During Greek Week, they took a trip to "the Boardwalk in Atlantic City", and came back with the third place skit trophy. Nanci Curtiss and Joan Brophy provided humor as they presented their "Curtiss and Brophy" skit at the OSU talent show in Akron. Added to the list of ADPi beauties were Donna Mercer, sweetheart of TKE and a member of the Homecoming Queen Court, and Nita Hunt who reigned as queen of Arnold Air Society. 'Course now and then they were nameless—some culprit kept running off with the sign from the front of the house.

Between studies and social life, a number of ADPi's found time for activities. Tille Winterkamp served as secretary of Strollers, Golddiggers chairman of WSGA, Junior senator, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Fraternity Managers Association, and treasurer of Chimes. Another busy junior was Pat Love who was secretary of Panhellenic and Chimes. Wearing Mirrors pins were Pat Radekin, WSGA, and Home Economics Club, and Phoebe Shreck, sophomore editor on the Makio, a member of Browning Dramatic Society, and treasurer of Alpha Lambda Delta. Ann Gorsuch didn't have much spare time either between Senate, VIC, and WSGA.

As a philanthropic project, the ADPi's spent one or two evenings a week working at the Ohio State School for the Mentally Retarded.

When Spring Quarter ended and the seniors were graduated, all ADPi thoughts turned toward Banff where the oldest secret society for women will hold its 102nd anniversary convention.

Alpha Epsilon Phi

"Anyone wanna' be a fourth for bridge?"—a voice boomed forth for the millionth time. Between this perpetual query and the race to see who would get to the bridge table first, things kept hopping at the A E Phi House.

The new pledges and their dates were introduced at an informal dance at the Beechwold, as they danced through a white flower covered trellis. But enough of this easy life, thought pledge trainer, Lynn Frank, so she set the pledges working at the Bureau of Juvenile Research. The actives were recruited and so were the men of Sigma Alpha Mu for the annual Christmas party.

Late in February loud shrills of laughter, noise of pots and pans and kitchen spoons being clanged together came from the living room. Two pledges entertained our chapter with an original song they had written for our annual slumberless party. After the delicious feast that Aunt Fran had prepared was gobbled down, we broke up to spend the rest of the night gabbing and what else? . . . playing bridge of course!

Barely had we recovered from this night when we put on our dungarees, piled into cars and joined in the square dancing at Cubbage Corners. "Swing yer pardner left 'n right" . . . puff, puff, we'll never live through the night . . . "Twirl yer honey light on her feet, Go to the center 'n take a little peek". . . . holy cow when do we eat?

Late dinners seemed to be the practice for all activities girls in the house. Bobbie Loeb, Associate Editor of the Makio, sat in one corner of the dining room mumbling something about the Makio being a two page pamphlet if she didn't get rolling. Ellen Wolinsky reported that she had better get in on time or as Sec. of Standards she would take drastic action. Ellie and Kay thought this might be a good story for their Sundial.

Girls were now playing bridge on the floor beside the mirrored mantle where two of our new trophies were displayed. The first belonged to Rachel Rephan, who was on Pledge Princess Court, and the other had the freshly engraved letters of Jo Ann Weiderschein, OHIO STATE'S 1953 Freshman Queen. This was the second year that this honor had been ours.

Spring Quarter was filled with banquets, open houses, and our wonderful Spring Weekend. A dinner dance at Winding Hollow Country Club was followed by a picnic on Sunday. Oops . . . the loud speaker boomed "AW, didn't anyone want to be a fourth for bridge?"

It doesn't take the AE Phis long to see that it takes a lot of brain and brawn to break a lock!

Look who is trying to work his way up to the second floor. Don't you know that that is not allowed.

"With a hand like that you should have bid six clubs." "But how was I to know that my partner had 13 clubs."

"My goodness, look at this picture of last Spring's picnic."

Fall Quarter will long be remembered by Alpha Gamma Delta as a very significant quarter in the chapter's history. At the traditional Feast of Roses following Fall initiation the announcement was made of the purchase of a new chapter home at the corcorner of 15th and Indianola Ave., 1832 Indianola Ave. The new home is the realization of a dream and it has come true just six years after the Ohio State chapter was installed on the campus.

Activities, scholarship, and Queens shared the spotlight of Alpha Gamma Delta achievements for the year. In scholastic circles, Nannette Williams was initiated into Delta Phi Delta and was elected treasurer. Carol Kroeger and Inge Blechschmidt became members of Torch Club, the nursing honorary. In the activities department, Maridean Close served as Chief Justice of Panhellenic Commission, and was a member of WSGA Board. Joan Dreher was elected Constitution chairman of VIC and was also a Justice on the Panhellenic Commission. In the beauty category, Nancy Snyder was a member of the Homecoming Court and Jayn Rice was pictured as a Sundial Girl-of-the-Month, marking the fifth consecutive year that the Alpha Gams have received the recognition. Nationally, the AGD's were proud to claim Janet Kaye Bailey, an Akron University coed who was selected to reign as Ohio State's Sesquicentennial Queen.

A well rounded Social calendar included the annual Christmas Party for underprivileged children. This party is held jointly with Alpha Zeta Fraternity and the two organizations take turns acting as the hosts and hostesses for the children. This year the party was held at the AGD house. Before the actual party the Alpha Gam pledges and the AZ pledges had a party of their own in the AGD kitchen where they baked cookies for the little tykes. Surprisingly enough, all the cookies turned out edible and the children didn't stop at seconds or thirds!

The Franklin Room at the Union became a part of old New Orleans when the AGD's held their Winter Formal there January 31. All wore Mardi Gras masks which they removed at intermission when the 1952-53 pledge class was formally introduced. The Spring Formal was held at the University Golf Course Club House. With the International Reunion Day banquet, the Alpha Gamma Delta book of memories was closed for the year.

From beginning to end, this year proved to be quite eventful and successful for all the Alpha Phi's. Fall rushing got us off to a wonderful start, followed by various campus and social activities.

New trophies adorned our shelves this year won by Joyce Adams who was on the May Queen Court; Lois Milsom who was on the Homecoming Court; and Marilyn Brown who became the second Alpha Phi in succession to be named "Mistletoe Miss."

Actives and pledges alike spent much time and effort working with the local organization of Cardiac Aid, helping in every possible way. A decorated toy chest was presented to the Children's Hospital for the rheumatic patients.

the various honoraries. They are: Jeane Smith, president of Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-med honorary; Barbara Grimmer, treasurer of Gamma Alpha Chi; Audrienne Dale, Mirrors and Phi Chi Theta; Mary Ann Grossman, Phi Upsilon Omicron; Jo Ann Kirby and Mary K. Fox, Omicron Nu; Mary Todd, Chimes; and Marilyn Brown, Zeta Phi Eta.

The social calendar was opened by the enthusiastic pledges when they decided that the actives should live in town so that they could take over the house for a week-end.

Winter quarter found Cupid right at home at the Alpha Phi house when the girls entertained their fabulous male friends with a dinner dance at Ilonka's. Every year the girls select a traditional king at this time. Nine candidates were selected, all of whom were pinned to Alpha Phi's, and then the entire chapter voted. This year the honor went to Al Wagner, Sigma Chi. Al Wagner's pinmate, blonde, blue-eyed Lee Eyestone was chosen Sweetheart of Sigma Chi at the Sig Sweetheart Formal during the winter to the delight of her sorority sisters.

Spring quarter came with the annual "Dawn" Dance which started at sunrise and was followed by a breakfast at Mac Park. The afternoon was spent swimming, sunbathing, playing softball, and hiking. In the evening the Phi's and their dates ventured out to the Valley Dale. This brought the social calendar to a close and also the year which proved very happy and wonderful for the Alpha Phi's.

Alpha Xi Delta

Alpha Xi spirit zoomed high as school opened Fall of '52. First on their social calendar was their Pledge-Active Dance to honor their splendid new pledge class and assign them their "Big Sisters." Also a highlight of the quarter was a Christmas party given for Columbus under-privileged children with the aid of the DU's. The remainder of the year was filled with such events as football open houses, exchange dinners, serenades, the traditional Mardi Gras party which was held at Bexley Legion, the Rose Formal and the Founder's Day Banquet.

Queen courts were graced with the presence of Kim Sears, Freshman Queen Contestant and Queen of Command Squadron; Nancy Welker, Phi Mu Delta Redhead Contest, and Toni Hightower, Mistletoe Miss Court. Betty Smutz was crowned "Dream Girl" of Pi Kappa Alpha. Margie Musser held the lead in Stroller's "Time of Your Life," while Doris Deetz, president of the sorority, held the leading role in "Twelfth Night," University Theater production. The Alpha Xi's have won the Intra-mural Sing for the last seven years and were finalists in the Greek Week skits with the theme of "Show Business."

One could see many "Fuzzies" industrious in activities offices on the campus. Outstanding were: Barb Darrah, Associate Business Manager of Ye Old Yearbook, the Makio; Jean Hittle and Darlene Wagner, President and Vice-president, respectively, of VIC, and also Mortar Board members. Darlene also handled secretarial duties for Browning Dramatic Society. Toni Hightower was WSGA secretary and is the new President-elect of WSGA. Interspersed with her activities she shows her pep on the field of the "Battlin' Buckeyes" as cheerleader. Toni, a Chimes member, was also elected as Junior Cheerleader for the coming year. Lynn Blakeney, also a Chimes girl, led all YWCA meetings as President. Mirrors claimed Diane Blake, active in YWCA and Strollers. Joyce Moore could be seen busily filling in social calendars for Buckeyes and Alpha Xi's as she served on the Social Board.

Ah Ha! conspiracy is afoot to night as the Alpha Xis examine the plans for their Homecoming decorations.

This game of Fantan may be replacing knitting at the Alpha Xi house, but one guy will have warm socks.

The Alpha Xis join in the parade with banners and signs to add their cheers at the Michigan pep rally.

Chi Omega

Chi Omega has many purposes which include sincere and creditable scholarship, membership in campus activities, and friendship among the girls of the chapter, and with other students, faculty, and administrative heads.

Winning first place among sororities for Homecoming decorations was a big thrill even though the decorations suffered in a strong wind. Outstanding in campus activities was Ann Middleton, member of Mortar Board, vice-president of YWCA, and a member of WSGA, and VIC. Marie Murphy is treasurer of Delta Omicron, national music honorary, and Sara Kreglow was co-chairman of Greek Week.

During winter quarter the traditional scholarship dinner was held to honor the senior woman with the highest point hour. President Bevis presented a medal to the winner, who was chosen by the sorority entirely on her scholastic record. This year the award went to Geraldine Hezebicks who has maintained a straight 4.0!

Relationships with parents and alums were furthered with a Dad's Day Luncheon, Homecoming, and many open houses after the games. Other social events included a Christmas formal at the Fiesta Club, several slumber parties, a Hard Times party, and a Spring Dinner Dance. Another worthwhile and enjoyable project was the annual Christmas party for underprivileged children.

Chi O's outstanding alums are Juanita Hutch who has her own television show, "Nita's Guest Book," and Mrs. Dalton Kincaird who was recently honored by the Columbus Journal for her part in social and civic affairs.

Three Chi Os, all dressed for a formal, make conversation with a fellow as he waits for his date.

Everyone knows that the dancing pavillon at the Fiesta Club is raised from the floor with steps at only one end. It seems that at the Chi O formal last fall a young couple who were very much engrossed in each other, decided to sit one out. They started to leave and stepped off the wrong side of the pavillon. Imagine the boy's surprise when he looked up and found himself in the waiting arms of the housemother who was standing nearby watching the dancing.

Delta Delta Delta

The Tri-Delts kicked off for an undefeated season by showing their spirit and selling the most Homecoming Dance tickets to be named Homecoming Sorority of the Year.

A strictly first-string pledge class helped carry the ball by winning first place for the sorority booth at the F.A.C.'s Fair. Pretty Phyllis Queen and lovely Joyce Jackson graced the courts of Freshman Queen Dance and the Pledge Princess Prom. Sandy Starr was named vocalist for the Makio Queen Contest.

Many Tri-Delt faces were familiar in activities around campus. Nancy Langmead was voted secretary of the newly organized Buckeye Political Party; Pat Nilson was on Stroller's Board; and Connie Harlan was a member of the Makio Sophomore Staff. Gwen Tooley was named Public Relations Chairman for the Social Forum. V.I.C. officers included Nancy Dunton, hospitality chairman, and Judy Feil, sophomore secretary. The 3 D's point proudly to their more intelligent members; Marlene Isenagle, Chimes; Connie Cutlip, Mirrors, who also served as chairman of the May Week Supper; and Judy Feil, Alpha Lambda Delta.

The toyland skit for the ATO Circus provided lots of fun and hard work—a shining new trophy for first place was added to the shelves.

Fraternities put their different signs of approval on the Tri-Delt pulchritude when Jeannie Mellot became Kappa Sigma Dream Girl and Carole Smiley became Pledge Princess of Delta Chi. Other lovely lasses include Jo Call, who was on the Phi Delta Theta Dream Girl Court; Kitty McLaurin, Phi Kappa Sigma Court; and Dorothy Weaver, Lambda Chi Alpha Sweetheart Court.

The social calendar was filled with red letter days like the Founders' Day Banquet, a scavenger hunt at Hallowe'en, a tree-trimming party at Christmas, and a Valentine Brunch for each gal's "favorite beau." The traditional Pansy Breakfast caused the hearts of all Ohio State engaged senior women to flutter, and the winter formal and spring dinner-dance at Ilonka's kept the stars shining in all Tri-Delts' eyes.

Jo Call, Gwen Tooley, and Nancy Etter play turn-about and serve an April Fool's dinner to waiters.

Tri-Delts relax and enjoy their after-dinner coffee while a couple of the girls entertain at the piano.

These Tri-Delts are eating again. They never seem to want to quit, and neither do the kitchen boys.

D.G.s used the familiar anchor symbol for their Homecoming decorations theme — "Anchor 'em Bucks!"

Anchored fast in their position among the very top sororities, Delta Gamma held true to form. Last Spring Quarter saw a trio of DG Barbs elevated to royalty. Barb Lehman as May Queen, Barb Quinlan as her royal attendant, and Barb Swank as her successor in copping the Tri-Phi crown presented by Phi Gams, Phi Delts, and Phi Psi's. May Week the honoraries drew heavily from the DG ranks—chapter president Carolyn Nitschke, Makio Associate Business Manager Marge Coy, Panhell President Beverly Stover, and National IAWS Convention Chairman Barb Moore were tapped by Mortar Board. Mirrors tapped five newly initiated sisters—Barb Bauer, Marilyn Gross, Jane Beck, Delores Carilou Woodyard, Loretta Bluh, Marilyn Jordan and Ann Emery campaigned for D.G. Queen candidates.

Mechling, and Loretta Blum. Mirrors elected Barb Tussing president and Chimes honored some DG who reads these write-ups before they go to press.

Came Fall Quarter and there was no stopping them. B. Swank was back in the spotlight, this time as a member of the Homecoming Court. Saralou Gettinger was chosen the capitol city's Sesquicentennial Queen, pert 'n' pretty Ronnie Keogen was elected Pledge Princess, and the Phi Delts elected Lu Ann Wisterman their Dream Girl. Fall Quarter every open house was crowded by alums and dates warming to DG hospitality. The Delt combo was always there to provide open house music and they were even pressed into service at the Christmas Decorating Party where they not only brandished musical instruments but paint brushes, tinsel, and tree lights as well. Christmas-time was turn about time for the indispensible house boys who kept Delta Gamma dinners fairly uproarious at all times. Just before Christmas vacation they were treated to a banquet for which the girls donned the white serving jackets. Seniors got choice serving jobs (they ate in the kitchen), juniors handled the garbage disposal problem, but unlucky sophomores (the only two living in the house) Jane Beck and Karen Rautio sang the dishpan blues . . . alone! Before Christmas actually arrived, DG's held their Winter Formal at Winding Hollows Country Club, where a traditional red-and-white clad someone appeared with the dance favors. The someone was a DG institution—Edward—whom we see, white-coated, greeting visitors at the door of 131 E. 15th or serving at candle-lit buffets and with whom we share the opinion that you can't find a greater crew than the crew that sails through campus activity behind the DG colors.

Sigma of Delta Phi Epsilon has had a busy year at Ohio State. In January of '53, it joined in the Heart Drive, along with sororities on other campuses. Each girl from this group of sorority women, actively participated in collecting funds with which to fight heart disease. The campaign, on the girls part, as well as a whole, was a great success. Another project in this line was completed when many of the D Phi Eers went to Franklin Village to entertain the children with a Christmas party. At this time, Santa came down, on a special trip from his northern home, in order to give the girls a lending hand.

Aunt Helen entertains the D Phi Es by reading them jokes from one of the greater issues of the Sundial.

If we only got a dime an hour for playing bridge, we would all be rich enough to retire by now.

Delta Phi Epsilon

During the year, Delta Phi Epsilon had its share of social functions. Fall Quarter, they started the year with a bang when they had their Fall Festival at The Ilonka Provincial House. This was followed by a successful, pledge-tendered "speakeasy" house party. An atmosphere of intrigue accompanied the excitement resulting from their affair. In the spring, the "Deephers" took advantage of the warm weather, and held a dinner dance preceded by an all-day outing. After a picnic lunch, sports, dinner and dancing, the girls proclaimed a successful day.

Other various events of great importance have occurred throughout the year. Two admirable ladies of Delta Phi Epsilon were in the limelight this year. Housemother, Aunt Helen received her sweetheart pin and was serenaded by the girls. Could there be a better sweetheart? Another Deepher sweetheart was Mimi Siprin, who held the honor of being on the Pledge Princess court. Intramurally, D Phi E really went to town. The house had five teams in the bowling league. Along with this there was a basketball team that scored significantly. Best of all was the volleyball team which reached the intramural finals.

Delta Phi Epsilon has many girls prominent in campus activities. June Gold, an Alpha Lambda Pi member, served as president of Hillel Foundation. Serving on VIC were Phyllis Koppelman and Sharon Fox, who was a sophomore secretary. Sally Schagrin was a member of the Greek Week committee, and Lainie Gale served on Dad's Day and May Week committees. D Phi E's own Micki Epstein writes and announces on radio station WOIO. Leading the group this year, were Phyllis Koppelman, President; Marcia Ginsberg, Vice-president; Rita Rosenberg, Secretary; and Sally Schagrin, Treasurer.

Delta Zeta

The time—a busy Monday meeting night. The place — the Delta Zeta House. The occasion — A RAID. At the opportune moment the intruder swept into the house. The terrified girls screamed in protest and looked for cover; but, there was something different about this raider. He made no effort to take any of the usual prizes of a raid. He couldn't have carried much if he would have liked to. This invader was a bat! Finally, a brave biology student, looking for seven hours of A, captured the hideous animal and took it to her biology class.

The year kept on at an equally exciting pace for the Delta Zeta's. The turnabout party found the actives subjected to the pledges' weird and frightening concepts of initiation week. More fun followed for the girls when they held their annual Big and Little Sister Party.

Santa Claus came to the DZ Christmas Formal which was held at the Fiesta Club. Midway in the evening he presented all of the girls' dates with curious toys straight from his North Pole workshop. He also put in an appearance at the party which the sorority held for the underprivileged children from Gladder Community House.

With anniversary spirit the Delta Zeta pledges, Alumnae, and initiates at an open house held in honor of the DZ founding on this campus forty-two years ago. The Alumnae particularly enjoyed laughing at their old flapper dresses as they watched a rowdy Charleston and later some fine harmonizing.

Delta Zeta is very active in all of the Campus activities. DZ is particularly proud of Fanne Kehoe who received the O. S. P. A. award for outstanding women in activities for her work as vice-president of Student Senate, as a member of W. S. G. A.,

The pride of Delta Zeta is sweet and pert Fanne Kehoe — this year's "Delta Zeta Dream Girl."

Panhellenic, Mortar Board, and Pi Lambda Theta. Other particularly active women are Mary Hough, Secretary of Student Court, Chief Justice of Panhellenic Commission, and a member of Chimes; Anne Clark, Ag Student, and vice-president of Mirrors. Betty Hutchinson has now returned from Italy and France where she was part of the International Farm Youth Exchange program. She had a glorious time and has helped the girls immensely when they order spaghetti. They all have enjoyed her many pictures which she has shown at Monday night meetings.

Delta Zeta girls are very understanding to sorority sisters who sleep with windows open on rainy nights.

DZ Janice Diehl and sorority sisters seem to be getting a big laugh about something while eating ice cream.

Gamma Phi Beta

Gamma Phi Beta is a relatively new sorority on the Ohio State campus. This chapter, Beta Xi, was installed just about two years ago. But since that time, Beta Xi has only honored the name of Gamma Phi Beta. In every way, they have proved themselves a fine chapter. This year, twenty-eight girls were entered into the bonds of Gamma Phi Beta pledgeship. These twenty-eight pledges have created much activity and hub-bub at the Gamma Phi house! At one time, they took the actives for a long ride. The actives thought that they were about to be treated to a nice elaborate breakfast. But the tide turned, and somehow the dejected actives landed in jail. (Of course, this was all due to the ingenious plans of the pledge class). Nevertheless, all was forgiven when, later in the year, the pledge class culprits gave the actives a lovely banquet at Ricardos.

Social events were all great occasions as far as the whole chapter goes. Fall Quarter, a "Harlem Costume Party" was held at Halloween time. Intriguing were the decorations in the house, and the entertaining acts put on by the actives. Came Winter Quarter, and frills and bows hit the house, for this was the time for the Junior Ball. Held at the Neil House, a dance ran along smoothly to the tune of Tommy Dale and his orchestra.

Gamma Phi's concentrate quite a bit on helping younger children in different ways. During the Christmas season, they held a Christmas party at their house for under-privileged children. Helping Gamma Phi Beta's make this a great occasion for the children was the Phi Delta Chi fraternity. Gamma Phi has a project called the National Campship. The National Philanthropic Organization sends a child to camp through the aid of Gamma Phi Beta. This is a major part of the project phase of Ohio State Gamma Phi's.

In the spring, the alumnae gave the chapter a banquet in commemoration of their many honors. Among girls receiving recognition this year are, Ann Campbell, Chi Delta Phi, literary honorary; Marge Ruble and Pat Bailey, art honorary; and Connie Wall of the Commerce Council. This proves, indeed, that Gamma Phi has had a second successful year, and is now looking forward to many more.

Busy, busy, are these Gamma Phi Beta's as they chatter and delve through the chapter book of history.

The Theta's returned to school last fall with many exciting plans for the coming year. A pleasant surprise was in store for them when their house had been decorated during the summer.

The social chairman spent long hours during the summer working out social functions; thus assuring a great year. Football open houses were held after each home game. Dad's Day was in November when the girls were hostesses to Theta Dads. During December a party for the orphans was held with the Phi Psi's. Every child received a wonderful gift from Santa Claus. pledges, was held at Winding Hollow Country Club. Winter quarter came in with a bang when the pledges pulled a ditch night. The rooms were completely cluttered with odds and ends, toothbrushes were taken to Union Station, and as a result a few pledges went to the showers. The latter part of the quarter the Kappa-Theta formal was held at the Southern Hotel. Spring was climaxed by an all day picnic followed by a dinner dance for the Thetas and their dates at Ilonka's.

Heading the way down activity row were Mitzie Unckrich, vice-president of WSGA and a member of Mortar Board; Jane Wheeler, vice-president of Red Cross and Chimes; Rosemarie Moorman, treasurer of Browning, WSGA, and Chimes; Marge Pfeiffer, vice-president of Browning Dramatic Society and also vice-president of Social Board; Mary Weaver, Student Senator, WSGA, Mirrors, and Alpha Lambda Delta. Doris Bergen and Jan Haworth were chosen for Pi Lambda Theta; and Marcie Vaughn, Delta Phi Delta. Patty Moorman was appointed sophomore secretary for WSGA; Joan Elliott was sophomore editor for the Makio; Jan Schwartz and Sharon Moloney were named to the Education and Arts Council respectively. Carma Acklin had the lead in the University production, "Playboy of the Western World."

Beauty reigned supreme when Pat Charman was Sweetheart of Lambda Chi Alpha, Joan Mumm was on the court for Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, and Marty VanVoorhis claimed the honor of 1953 Makio Queen.

Kappa Delta

Kappa Delts are either very politically minded or else they love pizza. This combination enticed the girls who live at the house to stay up all night the night of elections. As most houses, the KD house was divided on the subject of the presidential election. After the election all political hatchets were buried and peace again ruled the dinner table.

The Kappa Delts were avid rooters for their Buckeye team this year as their Homecoming Decorations showed. The sorority won second prize in the contest this year with their display named "Pinocchio Nose We'll Win. After the Michigan game all of the girls were glad of Pinocchio's well placed confidence. The sorority also held open houses after the home games.

Christmas season arrived and the Kappa Delta girls celebrated the glad season with two parties. The next door neighbors came over and helped the girls with the party for underprivileged children. The Sigma Pi's even helped lead "The Farmer in the Dell" and other children's games. December the 15th was the night of their Christmas Formal at the Columbus Riding Club. Zeige Carle furnished sweet music for the dancing couples. Lynn Carr, the president, sang for the group during intermission. The girls presented their dates with pen and pencil desk sets with the sorority crest on them. In true Holiday spirit Mary Ann Rosati threw a party for the whole gang attending the formal.

The KD's had a pleasant surprise when they returned to campus this fall and found that the house had had a face lifting. It now has a new modern front with a wide concrete walk leading to the house. It is the only house on campus which can boast of having chartreuse steps.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Following in the dainty footsteps of their worthy predecessors, the Kappa Kappa Gamma's have had an exceptionally good year. This past year the chapter has been busy with philanthropies—one of which is working with the homeless children at Franklin Village. During winter quarter a Christmas party was held for twenty-nine children at the Kappa house with the Delts. The children were thrilled with Santa Claus, the gifts, the movies, and the candy, ice cream, and cake.

Fall quarter had an exceptionally good start with the football games with the friendly open houses following and the Delt Combo providing mellow music. A Dad's Day luncheon was held at which the fathers were initiated into the Poppa Poppa Gimme Club. Homecoming brought glory to the Kappa's as lovely Carolyn Rhoten was elected to the Homecoming Court. Winter quarter was high-lighted with the Kappa-Theta formal at the Southern Hotel. The large spring quarter social events were the spring formal and the annual Mother's Day Tea.

Well known Kappa actives include Sally Vierck who is treasurer of WSGA, a member of Mirrors, Greek Week Stunt night chairman and Panhellenic representative; Mitzi Timmons, treasurer of Mirrors, and a member of the May Week Committee; Beverly Cross, Mortar Board and president of Browning Dramatic Society; Martha Hesthal, president of the Council on Religious Affairs; Nancy Bowerman, secretary of Mirrors and a member of IAA; and Jane Beckett who is very active in dramatics.

During winter quarter the sweet little pledges decided to leave their ever-lovin' actives and planned a walk-out with the Kappa Sig pledges and the help of a few Sigs. All the actives' stuffed animals were removed from the rooms and all the toothbrushes were taken to the Sigma Chi house. After tearing up the house the pledges decided to stay as far away as they could from the actives—or at least until things cooled off. Within a week or so, however, actives and pledges were on good terms again.

Betty Hamilton asks twin sister Barb what she thinks of contestant's chances at Kappa FAC's fair booth.

Phi Mu

"Closets! Just look at those closets!" cried the Phi Mu's when they moved into their newly remodeled house at the beginning of Winter Quarter. Closets had been all that they had wanted in their new home after being so crowded for space during last Spring and Fall Quarters when they either lived at the Theta Upsilon house or at the home of a town girl. The new spacious closets have built-in shoe racks and shelves and they are the Phi Mu's pride and joy. The upstairs rooms also have built-in dressers and study desks.

When the girls first moved in there were no drapes or furniture but they all pitched in and helped and in no time at all the house was in livable condition. New furniture was added to the living room Winter and Spring Quarters. On April 10, the girls held a fair at their house as a money making project for further improvements at the house. At the fair there were different booths, door prizes, bridge, refreshments, dancing, and an auction where they sold handkerchiefs, aprons, towels, etc., which the alumnae group had made and donated.

Since moving into the house the girls have had several social events there. The first was the dinner honoring the house corporation which was responsible for the splendid remodeling job. In January they held their first house party, a record affair at which every couple attending had to bring a record. The house was properly initiated and their record collection enlarged. A dinner was held before Golddiggers and every Phi Mu date was a king. After the chicken dinner all of the dates were presented with gold crowns.

In March the Phi Mu sorority celebrated their 101st birthday. The girls made a big week end around the birthday. They held a dessert with various alumnae as speakers and followed it with an anniversary dance in the recreation room.

You can drop in at the Phi Mu house almost any time and find a group of "cards" decked out on the carpets.

The Phi Mu's had a gay celebration after Winter finals when one third of the chapter went to Cincinnati for the district convention. There were luncheons Friday and Saturday at which various speakers talked on expansion and told of the national convention held last summer. The convention was climaxed by a Formal Saturday night and a huge banquet held Sunday afternoon.

A little puppy doll gets a lot of attention in Phi Mu dorm. Could this be the "doggie in the window"?

Phi Sigma Sigma has had a fine group of officers to keep the sorority running smoothly this year. In the role of president was Alayne Kushkin; vice-president was Louise Morgenstern; SariLynne Muldavin, secretary; and Arlene Arkin, treasurer. Also keeping the girls in the best or order was the new housemother, Ilka Hayman.

Phi Sigma Sigma girls have done well in socializing and becoming more acquainted with various fraternities on the campus. This has been accomplished by many exchange dinners and serenades, in which many lasting friendships began. Some of the serenades have had special meanings. The pinning serenade with AEPi will hold a special signifiance in the memory book of Mary Ellen Harris. To supplement these affairs with fraternities, was the Christmas party held with Phi Sigma Delta. The affair was a gay and frolicking one with plenty of laughs and refreshments for all!

There have been many exciting moments during an activity-filled year at the Phi Sigma Sigma house. Two of these events took place during the Spring Quarter. Adriene Diamond, a Phi Sigma Sigma beauty, ran for May Queen. Later in the Quarter, girls from the sorority as a whole put their heads together, and came forth with a great skit which took second place in the Hillel Stunt Night. This was a well deserved reward, for the skit represented a lot of talent!

The social calendar is an important part of sorority life. The Phi Sigma Sigma girls do well in creating many big and exciting affairs. During Fall Quarter, they started the year off well with a dance in the Patio Room of the Fort Hayes Hotel. It was a great party—worthy of repetition. The pledges did a great job in repeating this occasion, for during Winter Quarter, they instigated a house dance, which was also a well approached event. To top the year off right, came another dance. This time, the girls donned their best togs, and took their dates to the Gold Room of the Fort Hayes. A luscious dinner was in store for the men before the evening of dancing. There could be no better occasion with which to end the social calendar for the year.

The Phi Sigma Sigma pledge class did its part in creating much agitation. Throughout the year, the actives found themselves constantly looking for silverware or trophies, hidden by a future active class of high-spirited pledges.

The arrow of Pi Beta Phi was found all over the campus this year: at pep rallies, queen campaigns, activity offices, and in skits, as well as classrooms and libraries.

Last May brought new honors to the chapter. Bev Klunk became the president of WSGA, and Jeannie Evans presided over Mortar Board meetings, which Bev Klunk and Janie Krieg also attended. Chimes members were Elaine Fallon and Peg Willman, while Jo Harder, Sherry Peters, and Peg Poorman added Mirrors pins to their shiny new arrows. Peggy Poorman reigned over the Military Ball as queen, and was present at Corps Day in that capacity.

The Pizza craze hit OSU and the Pi Phi's helped out by having a snack of this delicacy at times.

This is sorority life in the raw — giggling, primping and gossiping about all the big events of the day.

Pi Beta Phi

A tremendous pledge class brought new enthusiasm to the chapter fall quarter . . . Pi Phi angels floated back to 1845 Indianola Avenue with the trophy awarded for the group having the most pep at the Homecoming Rally . . . fall quarter sped by with its usual rounds of football games, open houses and parties, culminating in the Christmas Formal at the Fort Hayes . . . everyone was in attendance, including Santa Claus.

Winter quarter started off with a hilarious ditch night, courtesy of the pledges . . . "Dody" Schroder was elected to the Pledge Princess Court . . . and everyone was talking about Greek Week, Stunt Night, the Square Dance at Cubbage Corners, and midterms. Foul weather doldrums were solved by thoughts of Florida . . . lots of Pi Phi's showed up on the beach at Fort Lauderdale during spring vacation.

Sun-tanned Pi Phi's gloated over their less fortunate sisters during the first weeks of spring quarter . . . the sun finally came out in Columbus and evened the score. The spring formal was first on the list of the quarter's events . . . May Week was here before we knew it . . . studies held their own with convertible riding, parties, and thoughts of summer weddings. Family weekend was as popular as ever . . . before long it was time to entertain the seniors at a luncheon . . . and the senior farewell ceremony. Then it was over—another wonderful year at Ohio State, filled with a combination of fun and enthusiasm that is a specialty with the girls who wear the golden arrow.

Sigma Delta Tau

Sigma Delta Tau pledge agitation is no new story but ingenious pledges thought up and carefully executed a stunt that was more than newsworthy this past Winter Quarter. Early (5:30 a. m.) on Saturday morning a pledge who had innocently enough acquired permission to spend the night with her big sister at the 15th Ave. house arose and silently admitted the rest of the waiting pledge class to the house. Then, one by sleepy one, the actives were aroused to "answer a long distance phone call". There were no phone calls, needless to say, and unsuspecting actives were led from the dorm, taken to their rooms, and ordered into jeans and old clothes. Once dressed, they were blindfolded and bundled into a waiting bus and driven to the Columbus Zoo where, as prearranged, the zookeeper had prepared one of the new pens. By the time befuddled actives were allowed to remove blindfolds, fraternity men, called early that morning had arrived to throw peanuts (thoughtfully supplied by pledges) and newspapermen from downtown Columbus were taking front-page pictures!

Last Spring the SDTs boasted a rather unusual turn of events in connection with their social affairs, too. It seems the calendar called for a scavenger hunt so social chairman and associate planners came up with the most unique scavenger treasure—President Bevis! And who should be more surprised than the planners when later in the evening, in walked triumphant Nancy Fink with a chuckling President Bevis in tow!

And so it went with the Sigma Delta Taus this year. But the girls were not recognized solely for their pledge antics or crazy parties. They boasted quite a number of individuals prominent in their own right in the activities this past year. Nancy Marowitz and Barbara Levitt are Mirrors members; Nancy, a sophomore Secretary of WSGA and Barbara, new appointed Panhell Court justice. President of I. A. A., Elaine Suid was tapped for Mortar Board, and Fern Kristeller, Reggie Altman, and Gert Weintraub were tapped for Chimes. Nothing short of complete confusion reigned that night as Chimes girls aroused these three sleeping Sigma Delta Taus bunked in the third floor dorm at intervals of approximately 15 minutes. Sylvia Taylor took the beauty prize adding trophies to SDT collection as members of May and Homecoming Courts and Makio.

Indian squaw Sylvia Taylor is giving Minnehaha tough competition while Phyllis Hoenig makes heap big smoke.

Steaks are enjoyed at SDT Spring Weekend after President Bevis was secured during scavenger hunt.

"Bubbling over" with joy, SDT's and their dates have "super" time at the "Sudsational" pledge affair.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Girls of Zeta Tau Alpha started the year off on the right foot when they won third place in the Homecoming decorations contest. They chose the motto "Keep Michigan at Zero" and illustrated it with a huge paper painted Ohio State player guarding an ice cube made of clear plastic in which a poor puny Michigan player had been imprisoned. Several open houses were held during the football season, too.

To celebrate the Christmas season the sorority held their annual Holly Formal at the Beechwold Restaurant. The girls gave their dates cuff links wrapped as Christmas presents as favors. During intermission the girls crowned their Holly King and named Carol Helm as outstanding pledge for Fall Quarter. Carol was chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and activities. Remembering the purpose of the sorority "to think in terms of all mankind and our service to the world," the girls joined with Phi Kappa Sigma to have a Christmas party for twenty children from the Franklin Village.

A tradition of Winter Quarter at the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority is their Valentine party which is held with a different fraternity as guest each year. This year the Phi Sigma Kappas were honored by the large chicken dinner and dance following. Lee Pitcher was chosen as "Sweetheart of ZTA" for the 1953 year. During Winter Quarter the girls were very busy with numerous exchange dinners—Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Kappa Sigma, Pi K A, and Tau Epsilon Phi were several of the fraternities.

Spring Quarter was highlighted by the Spring Formal held at the house. A gay picnic was held with Phi Sigma Kappa. After numerous exchange affairs with this fraternity what would be more natural than a Phi Sigma Kappa pin in the house. During May the fraternity serenaded the sorority in honor of a happy couple.

Barb Goodwin, deeply engrossed in that paper, looks kinda worried about that four point.

ZTA is also proud of its girls in activities. Prominent activities women are Joann Matechek, President of Phi Chi Theta; Terry Broderick and Sue Rowe of Alpha Lambda Delta; Barbara Goodwin, sophomore editor of the Makio, "With the Greeks", and the Lantern; Marcia Wilson, Delta Omicron and Pi Lambda Theta; Louise Erstettler on the executive board of Browning Society. The happy ZTA year was marred by only one very sad event, the death of their beloved house mother, Mrs. Ann Charles.

The ZTA's take drudgery with a smile as they cavort while getting down to the job of doing their laundry.

Must be finals week with all these Zeta Tau Alpha's sipping coffee and emptying their cigarette packages.

Costumed figures and a Smorgasbord dinner lent a touch of the unusual to Delta Sigma Thetas biggest social event of the year. A couple dressed as Cyrano de Bergerac and Roxanne won first prize.

Russ Jones, executive Secretary of the YMCA was the Deltas speaker at one of their meetings during Religion in Life Week. His topic, "The changing of religious convictions from childhood to adulthood" led to an interesting discussion.

More than half of the chapter attended their National Convention in Cleveland during the Christmas Holidays Mary Waiters, the chapter's voting delegate found that morning business meetings and the evening social affairs didn't mix very well.

The major program emphasis of the Deltas is scholarship, library demonstration service, job opportunities, and human relations.

Important chapter activities were such community projects as the Old Folk's Home, Godman Guild Settlement House. The girls also were hostesses at Lockbourne Air Base.

Although busy, the Deltas found time to place second in the Sorority Sing finals.

The only international fraternity on campus, Beta Sigma Tau became affiliated with the national organization in 1947. All of the Fraternity's members have been renting rooms in the same house at 144 E. Woodruff, which they hope will become their house and official center of activities next year.

Beta Sigs were quite conscientious along the line of community projects and this past Christmas they proceeded to arrange a party for children at one of the settlement houses in Columbus. The settlement house they had in mind informed them, however, that their small charges had been invited to a Christmas party by another well-intentioned organization and would not be available for the afternoon the Beta Sigs had planned on. Undaunted, the brothers called another community house and arranged to plan the party with children in their charge. The party came off as scheduled in the social hall of the Plymouth Congregational Church but children from both settlement houses showed up! Beta Sigs came through nicely and provided plenty of entertainment and food for all.

The best social functions of the year as far as the Beta Sigma Taus were concerned were their dance with the girls of the Zonta International House, held at the Union, and their 6th anniversary celebration — a formal dinner and dance which was attended by members of other Ohio chapters of the fraternity.

Acacia

The Acacia House is a house of sinners or at least that's the way it was the night of the annual Saints and Sinners party held with the Michigan chapter following the Michigan game. The party is a costume affair at which everyone dresses to represent either a Saint or a Sinner. This was the first time that everybody came as Sinners. As an added attraction pillows had been stuffed under a sheet which was draped over the pool table in the basement recreation room. One couple got a surprise when they sat on the table and discovered that the lifeless pillows had been replaced by a live pledge. To this day no one has been able to decide when Don removed the pillows and crawled under the sheet, and he's not telling.

During November the pledges tried their annual ditch night when they try to keep the actives out of the chapter house until midnight. If they succeed the actives become pledges the next Saturday. After a long and hard fought battle the actives finally gained entrance to the house with only forty-five minutes to spare. As a reward for their failure the pledges had a little work session and thoroughly cleaned the house.

Other social functions of the year included the Winter and Spring formals which are held at the Beechwold Restaurant. The Winter formal followed the Valentine theme and necklaces with the fraternity crest were given as favors. At the Springtime formal stuffed animals were given the dates.

The Acacia's have a very active Mothers' and Wives' Club. This year after the house was completely redecorated, the Club presented the fraternity with new sectional living room furniture. As well as adding to the beauty of the room the furniture is very convenient, especially when they want to clear the room for a large party.

These are an example of the fine, upstanding men here at Ohio State.

May ninth, the chapter played host to the other Ohio chapters from Miami, Cincinnati, and Ohio University. The occasion was the All Ohio Day with such special events as a baseball tournament for the rotating trophy, the dinner with speakers from all of the schools, and a brawl in the evening. The Founders' Day dinner, another event of Spring Quarter, was held at the House, May 15th. With these events, Acacia closed the house for the summer and started making plans and resolutions for the new school year.

The barber shop quartet plus four takes time out — that's John L. Sullivan second on the right.

Acacia brothers are reading a volume of the Makio. This happens to be one of the more original covers.

Wind, rain, and hail tried hard but didn't succeed in discouraging the spirit of homecoming here.

1943 Waldeck Avenue

The sign in the hallway reads: "The Happiest House on Campus", and the AEPi's have consistently made this title meaningful through many eventful occasions. Highlights of the social season are the formal Homecoming Dance in the fall, the Winter weekend Dinner Dance, and the Spring Formal. These and the many other affairs that take place throughout the year have kept the social calendar one of the busiest. Many top entertainers have graced the living room. Included in these stars of caliber are brothers Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis. Open houses held on these occasions have been the talk of the entire campus.

At AEPi's national convention this summer, Eta had to relinquish its outstanding chapter trophy, which it won last year, but walked off with the extra-curricular activities award. Contributors to this

Many AEPi's are prominent in the sports field for the great Scarlet and Grey. Knocking the cover off the ball for the baseball squad are Bart Antine and Bill Shecter. These outstanding athletes are not the only ones representing the AEPi's in sports. Sandy Atkins is a promising 220 pound tackle for Woody Hayes and his great State football team. Lou Kressin displays his athletic ability through putting-the-shot. Another man of sports is Ed Weiner, who is a sprinter for the track team. Serving also in the field of athletics are Shelly Farber, senior wrestling manager, and Irv Raff, senior swimming manager, and Mort Zahler, junior football manager.

The AEPi's are able to acknowledge names of several members who have made their names known in the field of entertainment. Burt Wolfe is now becoming a top-flight entertainer as a composer-pianist. He is also working on the Union's Entertainment Committee. Al Scherl, Marv Gale, and Bill Stein have represented AEPi in Ohio State University's great All American Marching Band. To top the year off, the AEPi's have come out in flying colors in the Greek Week events. Taking first place in the Greek Week skits, they walked off with the trophy, before an audience enthusiastic with applause.

Alpha Gamma Rho

"Let's throw him in the lake!" This is the cry of the Alpha Gamma Rho's when a brother is pinned. They are not referring, however, to Mirror Lake but to their own private little pond beside their house. Unfortunately this little pond isn't blessed with any such picturesque name as "Mirror Lake" but the cold water is just as good an installation to a pinned life. However, the purpose of Alpha Gamma Rho, all agriculture fraternity, is not to throw all the brothers in their pond but "to make better men and through them a broader and better agriculture."

Inside this Iuka Avenue home, partying for the year began with a Homecoming Party at the House and ended when the girls took over the house for the week-end of the Spring Formal—the Rose Formal held at Ilonka's Provincial House. Between these times their round of fun making included a Haunted House Party in what they claimed was a real haunted house far away from living Columbus! For the AGR's 1953 started a wee bit early when they held their traditional New Year's Eve party the week-end before finals.

In true western style the AGR's held their Western party with all of the gambling and excitement that we see in those old Western movies. Doing a quick switch for their next party the AGR's not only changed the time but also the country when they held the French Quarter party. Twice during the year the men donned their glad rags, and took off for their annual formals. The Winter Formal was held in the Gold Room of the Fort Hayes Hotel.

During Winter Quarter the pledges ruled the roost for a week. The occasion wasn't a ditch night affair but the annual "turn-about-week" when the pledges become actives and the actives relive old memories—their lives as pledges. Before the pledges actually become big actives they have to go through HELP Week; the project of the scum this year was remodeling the kitchen.

Not every fraternity on campus can claim that Vice President B. L. Stradley walked through the rain so that he could speak to them. This happened to the AGR's Fall Quarter. Luckily the weather was much better when President Bevis addressed the fraternity at their Thanksgiving Day Dinner.

AGR President Abe Studebaker is a well known man in campus activities. He received the 1952 OSPA award for outstanding man in activities.

Must be those fish we had swimming around here. Durn things wouldn't stay put.

New Year's Eve is a little early here but this old acquaintance doesn't look like it'll be forgotten.

Chuck Moore just opened with a seven no-trump bid and his partner just passed out of the picture.

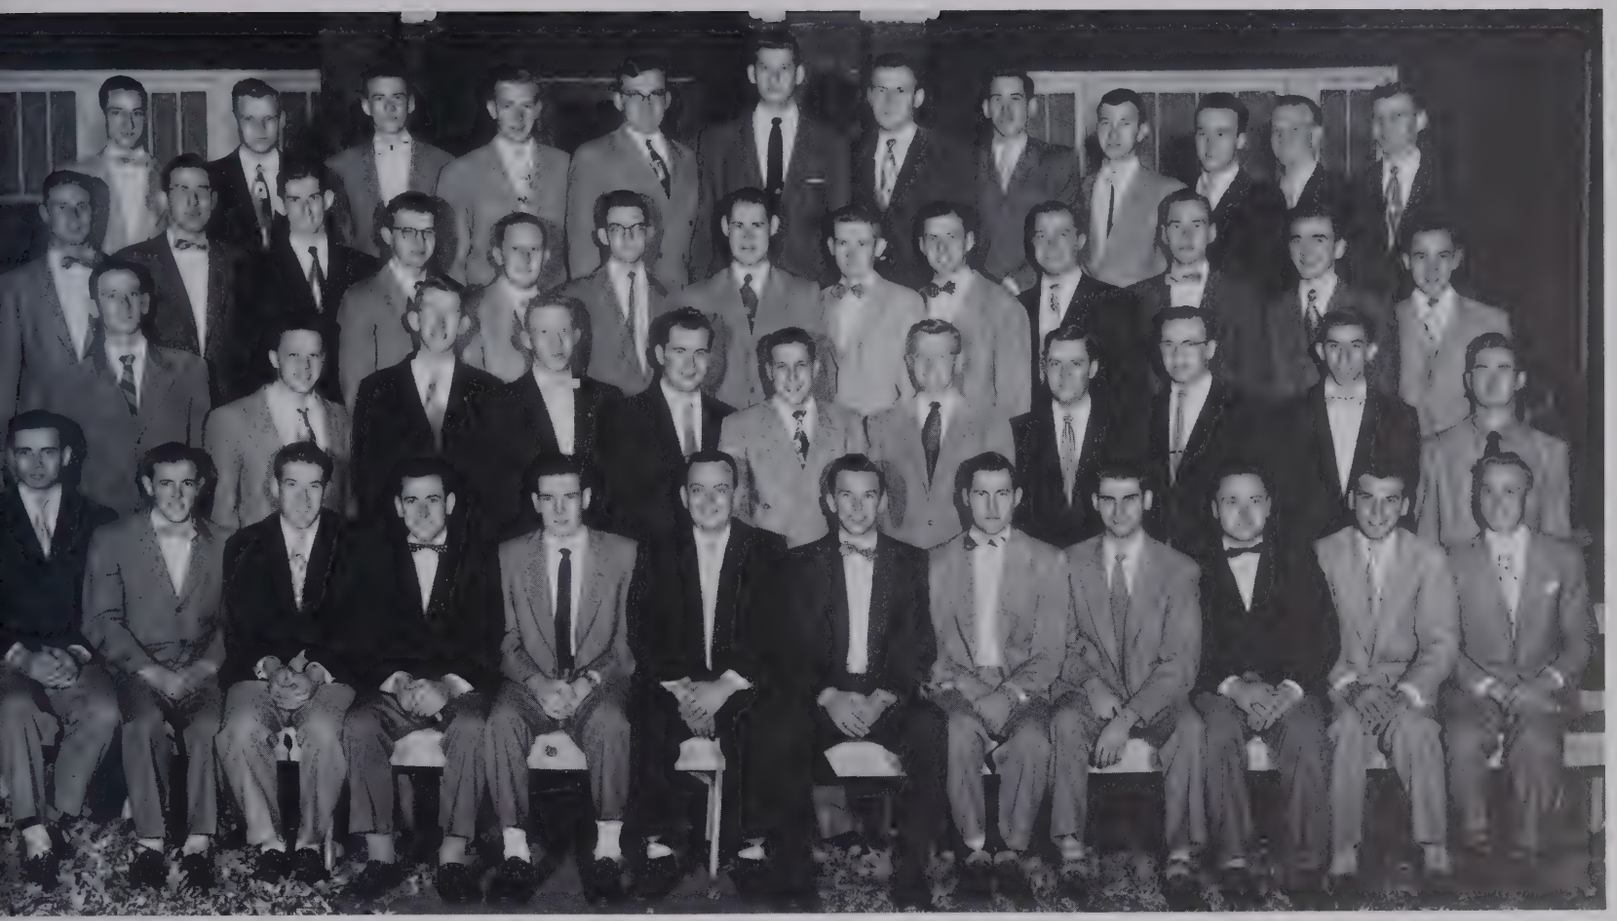
League champions in the intramural basketball competition this year were the men of the Alpha chapter of Alpha Gamma Sigma, national professional agriculture fraternity. Since the Alpha chapter was organized on the Ohio State campus in March, 1931, the chapter has been known as one of Ohio's best ag fraternities.

When the men of the Alpha chapter decide to do something, they really do it. Notations from the social whirl this season show that black and white stripes and ball and chains prevailed at the Prison Party given at the house. White rags and a bread line told the tale of a Hard Times Party, the old Alpha spirit helped to make a Valentine's Party

Must be something pretty hilarious at the AGS house as Earl Todd and Dave Maurer go into mild hysteria.

Who's playing this hand, anyway? Paul Althouse is probably thinking this, as brother AGS peers over.



Alpha Gamma Sigma

a big success. Formals were held at Ilonka's Provincial House and at the OSU Golf Course, while the Tri-Ag Formal was held at the Ohio Union. Alums swarmed in by the dozens for the Spring Picnic, held at Scioto River and an annual hayride proved to be fun. Earl Todd won the Liar's Contest which was featured at Parent's Day. (The nature of the winning lie was not disclosed.)

Presidents . . . presidents . . . and more presidents boast the AGS house at 1918 Indianola Ave. Dwight Michener, president of the OSU Christian Science Organization and business manager of the Agricultural Student; Guy Hummon, president of the International Farm Youth Exchange Committee; Francis Huck, frat vice president and president of the Vegetable Crops Society; and Gerry Grooms, president of Alpha Gamma Sigma and president of the Agricultural Economics Club are names which prove the Alpha's right to boast.

Presidents, yes, but that's not all. Larry Rhonemus, Master of the University Grange; Neil Reeder, chairman of the Folk Festival; Bill Strayer, member of the Livestock Judging team; Ken Hoffman, member of the Dairy Products Judging team; Paul Althouse, member of the Meats Judging team; and Don Gehres and Carl Ruff who participated in the International Farm Youth Exchange program prove that there's more to the Alpha Gamma Sigmas than presidents.

Brother Francis Huck, president of the Vegetable Crops Society, is a "real" vegetable grower, explain the AGS men. He is always glad to give instructions about raising tomatoes so that they grow into the house and lay themselves on the table. He also gives advice about growing cabbages in a ten acre field so thick that if one row of cabbages is picked, the whole field shakes.

The men of AGS gave new faces to two study rooms, installed some new furniture, and did various interior decorating at their house this year.

1918 Indianola Avenue

Alpha Kappa Lambda

New this year for men of Alpha Kappa Lambda is a home at 263 15th Avenue. The background of this event is rather unusual as one day last Spring Quarter ex-president Harry Thompson got a brainstorm and exclaimed, "Let's move." And move they did; not only to another house, but they scurried around painting and repairing where necessary to make their new abode something to be proud of. Naturally the job wasn't completed, or even started, with so little thought, but that driving spark at the appropriate moment seemed to be what it took to get things going for the project, and now the men are comfortably settled and very proud of their new quarters.

AKL's chapter president has been co-chairman of the "Help Week" program that has been sweeping the fraternity system throughout the country. Members note that the entire Greek system helped in the Community House project this year, and they personally feel that the "Help Week" idea is very good, for public relations and for those who receive the help.

Mu chapter's social events this year turned out to be many and varied. Starting out with dances and hayrides and leading up to formals and the annual Founders' Day Banquet. Fall Quarter ended with a brilliant Christmas Dance while Winter Quarter abounded in house dances and smokers. Spring Quarter picnics are a favorite with the men and one of the highlights of the year came with the annual Tri-State Convention. Ohio State and Ohio University as well as chapters in Indiana will travel to Illinois one weekend for the memorable occasion this year.

Following the middle path in regard to intramural sports, the men have had football and basketball teams go to the semi-finals only to fall prey to the Sigma Chi's. Plans are in the making to better results in the future and the chapter is looking toward some championships in the coming year.

Men of Alpha Kappa Lambda are still deeply interested in the national expansion program for the fraternity, especially since Lou Bacon, national secretary, has been to the new house several times this year instilling a great feeling of self-confidence and mutual cooperation into them. Prospective sites for new chapters are in Pittsburgh and the Missouri State Teacher's College.

This quartet will never quite put the four Aces out of business but the audience enjoys it.

Spaghetti nearly overran the Alpha Phi Delta House at 99 E. 13th Avenue on November ninth. The occasion was the campus wide spaghetti dinner held by the Alpha Phi Delta brothers. Tony DiMichele was acclaimed the champion spaghetti eater as he consumed five heaping dishes at one sitting. The sauce was donated by brother Frank Sinacola, heir to the Sinacola Spaghetti Sauce Company of Columbus.

Tony and Louie play a wicked game of chess, but looks like Joe doesn't quite dig this crazy game.

Alpha Phi Delta

"The Alpha Phi Delts boast of the best jitterbugs on campus, so if you are a female, beautiful, over 16 years of age, and want to learn to dance—call WA. 7414 . . ." (and we quoted the chapter vice-president, Vinnie Galati.)

Heading the social season at Chi Iota chapter was the annual Tri-Fraternity Dance held jointly with Phi Kappa and Theta Kappa Phi fraternities. This function has a great part in the furtherance of interfraternity relationships. At the semi-formal Homecoming dance the APD's alumni have a chance to renew their old acquaintances.

Winter quarter was ushered in with the Winter Formal and Bowery Dance at which the APD's went all out in decorating. Prizes are awarded at this Bowery Party for the most original costumes. The Depot Country Club marks the spot for the Spring Dinner Dance which is by far the biggest APD affair of the season. Memorial Day is celebrated by an annual picnic featuring baseball, swimming, a weiner roast, and dance given for the actives by the pledges. Hayrides, Initiation banquets, and informal dances complete their active social program.

As for sports, we see that the APD's play quite an important part. They not only won the Bowling Championship at Ohio State, but also have Bruno D'Alonzo and Richard Vannelle on the track team and engage in all intramural sports.

A $10,000 extension to the house is being planned. Work for these extensive improvements is in progress now.

On the list of prominent ADP alumni we find Buff Donelli, head football coach at Boston University; Joseph Guglielmi, mayor of Cambridge, Massachusetts; and Judge Freschi, a prominent federal judge in New York State.

Alpha Psi

Ah, a return to the roaring twenties! "Flappers, yes sir, one of those, has anybody seen my gal?" Grotesque animals, white draped ghosts, ship-wrecked sailors, and lovely hulu girls mingled with the rouged Charlestonians. Alpha Psi's latest masquerade party was in full swing.

Alpha Psi is a professional veterinary fraternity. The members have to be in good standing with their respective colleges. It was founded with the main purpose of promoting fellowship and at the same time to give its members additional training and encouragement to maintain the high ideals and ethics of the veterinary profession. The Alpha chapter at Ohio State has always tried to follow these concepts.

Thirty-one freshman veterinary students pledged this fall. The growth in the Alumni brought about the founding of an Alpha Psi Alumni Association this year. Its two fold purpose is to maintain contact with practicing alumni and add financial aid to the chapter.

Representing Alpha Psi in varsity sports again was Ted Kostner of the varsity wrestling team. On the literary front were Marvin Maxson, managing editor, and Richard Burns, editor, of the "Speculum," quarterly magazine publication of the Veterinary College. Other activities men were Bob Alexander, who represented the veterinary college on the Student Senate, and Karl Grady and Joe Skaggs who represented the Alpha Chapter at the National Conference which was held in Georgia. Wally Keller is another busy Alpha Psi. Tenor for the Sig-airs, a Sigma Chi Quartet, he also plays the uke. The Quartet appeared on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour in 1951. This year the Sig-airs sang in U-Hallzapoppin!

1927 Indianola Avenue

In intramurals Alpha Psi went to the semi-finals in both bowling and basketball. They planned to form their first baseball team before the end of Spring quarter.

Highlights of the year's social activities were the Fall and Spring formals. Each class in the Veterinary school planned a skit for their annual variety show. In addition the usual parties, hayrides, and banquets helped to minimize the shock of the ever present homework.

A little raid on the kitchen before the big attack on the gooks. Food for the fighting men, so to speak.

Back and forth the heads go as Alpha Psi brothers match point for point in sizzling ping-pong game.

Pure comfort is what we have, here as a few of the boys take time out from the old book grind.

Alpha Rho Chi

One of the outstanding professional fraternities at Ohio State is Alpha Rho Chi, national architectural fraternity that came to Ohio State in 1916. Since that time the Demetrios, the Ohio State chapter, boast such alumni as John Welborn Root, designer of Soldier's Field in Chicago; Reamer Keller, cartoonist and creator of "Kennesaw" found in Collier's Magazine; Joseph Hudnut, Dean of the Graduate School of Design at Harvard University; and Milton S. Osborne, head of the Department of Architecture at Penn State.

Bill Henry guided the Alpha Rho Chi's through the year at 101 East 12th Ave. In addition to his presidency, Bill is a member of Tau Beta Pi.

If activities men are wanted, the Demetrios could supply Stan Mitchell who is house manager, director of Block "O", a member of Texnikoi and AIA; John Hagely who is fraternity vice president, representative of AIA to the Engineers' Council, member of Student Senate and Texnikoi; or John Liimatainer who is committee chairman of Line Magazine and a member of the Block "O" committee here on campus.

Among other fraternity awards, Dennie Walters "brought home the bacon" in the Raser Prise Mathematics competition, and several "Archi" brothers were presented with the coveted "Sick Grandmother Trophy" which is awarded to members who are notified at the last minute that their dates will be unable to keep appointments. The "Archi" men report that this year there was a slight indication that the health of the nation's grandmothers was on the rocks, or at least it was on the downgrade.

Blueprints and slide rules are standard trademarks of the APX's. The trademarks were shunned, however, for a good old-fashioned Hallowe'en party, a Homecoming Dance, and a Christmas dinner during Fall Quarter. Freshman entering Ohio State during Fall Quarter found the men of Alpha Rho Chi busy fulfilling their jobs as Orientation Week leaders answering the questions of bewildered, bug-eyed new Ohio Staters. An annual Winter Formal took place in Winter Quarter along with a reception for the faculty of the College of Architecture. Spring Quarter found the Demetrios ending an eventful year with their annual Greenwich Village Party, a Founder's Day Banquet, and the White Rose Formal, given to honor the chapter's graduating seniors.

"I'm sorry about that" —Mark Dove's humorous saying echoes through the halls of the Alpha Sig's chapter house on Fifteenth Avenue. What could this mean, Mark? Could this have originated when the pledges made off with certain useful articles?

Fun prevailed at the dinner table one evening after the disappearance of the silverware. A cream pie race with no utensils was featured. Calvin King, winner, received as his reward an extra piece of cream pie to be consumed in the same way.

The fellow on the far right is Houdini in disguise — Those other two are trying to get into the act.

Alpha Sigma Phi

The Alpha Sigs have their share of prominent alumni. They point with pride to Benny Oosterban, Ray Elliot, and Ivy Williamson, all head football coaches in the Big Ten. Arthur Fleming and Lewis Morril, presidents of Ohio Wesleyan and Minnesota Universities respectively, have also gained prominent places in college life.

The Zeta chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi had much reason for being jovial at homecoming time, not only because of the Buckeye's victory but also because they copped third place for their Homecoming Decorations.

The Zeta chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi had good Alpha Sig parties. Social events such as open houses after all homecoming football games, a family night, hayrides, a Dad's Day Smoker, a Christmas gift exchange at the house, the annual Bowery Party given by the pledges, and a Beach Party complete with sand, scenery, and beach attire, were a few. The Beechwold and Whitehouse were the sites of the beautiful winter and spring formals. The "Sig Bust" annual banquet for alumni, was held at the Gold Room in the Fort Hayes Hotel. An outstanding alumnus was honored.

Activities are an important phase of college life to Alpha Sig members. Participating in campus organizations are Bill Hanschmidt, president of OSPA; George Bannister, vice president of OSPA and senior class senator; Carl Drescher, junior class treasurer, Paul Rempes, Romophos, Sundial art staff, and member of Kerame, Delta Phi Delta, and Texnikoi honoraries.

Not to be forgotten the pledge football team came through with flying colors to tie for first place in the intramural pledge football league.

For sixty-one years the "hairy-chested" ATO's have been going strong on the Ohio State campus, and leading the way this year are George Caronis, Student Senate, associate editor of the Activties Deskbook, president of F.C.C., and a member of the varsity debate team; Jack Spengler, sophomore secretary for Union Activties, and May Week planning committee; Tom Foster, COMO and co-chairman of Greek Week pledge parties; Bill Hand, president of the Council of Fraternity Presidents, Union Board, vice-president of Ohio Staters Inc., and past president of the Arts College Council; Duane Isham, editor of the Law Journal; and Larry Whitehouse, president of Boot and Saddle.

Tony Curcillo leads a few choruses of "We are the great big hairy-chested men, we are the ATO's."

Alpha Tau Omega

In sports the ATO's saw Jim Bodman as head drum major. Tony Curcillo, Marts Beekly, Bob Thorton, and Jack Manjak were the ATO's strong men on the gridiron this year. Winter Quarter brought tankers George Harvey and Jack Van Horn into the limelight. Chuck Rossfield was a member of the wrestling team. Golfers from the chapter include Hugh Quinn and Jim Tewant.

When Tony Curcillo left to play in the East-West football game he told his ATO brothers that he would see and talk to Marilyn Monroe while in California. Because of the seeming improbability of this, the trusting brothers suggested that he bring back a souvenir, stating that "seeing is believing." Tony returned and a few days later a letter and package containing a precious article of the blond star's clothing arrived. His brothers were speechless. However, after a few days of glory, Tony broke down and told them that the articles received were from a friend in California, not from Marilyn.

Besides having outstanding men in athletics and activities, Alpha Tau Omega is well represented in campus honoraries. Max Holzer and Bill Hand are members of Sphinx, with Max holding down the presidential position in the organization. Tom Foster, George Caronis, and Jack Spengler all belong to Romophos.

Festivities aside from the gala ATO circus are the Blackfoot Ball, held with the Sigma Nu's, a winter formal at the Deshler-Wallick, the annual Halloween party, exchange dinners, serenades, and others.

Alpha Zeta

Winning the second place trophy for their very original Homecoming decorations this year, more than compensated for the many hours of hard work exerted by the men of Alpha Zeta in preparation for the 1952 Homecoming.

Although high IQ's and horn rimmed glasses still prevail at the Alpha Zeta, national professional agriculture fraternity, this years members didn't quite make it to the top nook in the scholastic average scale contributed to by all campus fraternities. It had been the AZ custom for the past two years to reach the top.

True to another custom of the Townshend chapter, which is one of forty-eight national chapters of Alpha Zeta, the social calendar was full of circled dates which included the annual Butcher's Dinner, the mention of which still brings back memories of delicious morsels, and a square dance during Fall Quarter. Winter Quarter yielded the Tri-Ag Formal and Spring Quarter brought the traditional Spring Formal. A Gobblin's Party of the 31st degree, a Christmas Party, and the annual Alumni Dance plus various other house parties should have been sufficient to keep the men at 144 East 13th Ave. occupied, but the Alpha Zeta men also gave Christmas parties for underprivileged children.

Since the founding of the Ohio State Townshend chapter in 1897, two alumni boasted by the AZ men are Milton Eisenhower, President of Penn State College, and C. M. Ferguson, Federal Director of Agricultural Extension.

This is the first lesson on how to get a four-point the Alpha Zeta way.

Not only do the AZ's boast alumni, they are also proud of such present members as Allen Jackson, who is President of the 4-H Club and President of the All-Ag Council; Gerald Bradford, who is President of Saddle and Vice President of the All-Ag Council; Robert Jones, who is an honorable Student Senator; Allan Robert, Harold Lezotte, David Yundt, who are all members of the Ohio State Track Team and Varsity O; and Bob McCoy, who uttered an original "quote" . . . and began building a reputation for unique quote creations.

On the international scene, Alpha Zeta was represented by Eli Hutchison and Gordon Patty who were International Farm Youth Exchange Students.

John Bross and Randall Finken smile their approval as their dates sign the guest book at the AZ house.

Entertainment at the Alpha Zeta house is tremendous plus we think, and so does this foursome enjoying it.

Every year is a big year for Beta Theta Pi. Over two-hundred Betas and their guests helped to celebrate the victory over Michigan at the annual Homecoming house dance. A Miami Triad Dance with Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta was held at the Seneca Hotel which rounded out the fall quarter social activities. The winter quarter consisted of a square dance, a Pirate House party, and the annual winter formal. During spring the traditional "long week-end" was held which provided plenty of fun and time for the spring formal, the annual breakfast,

On the basketball court were Merrill Hatfield, Terry Smith, Les Slamen, and John Miller. Bob Clotworthy left for the Olympics with his white fedora and blue blazer and returned with an award for his outstanding performance on the three meter board. Dick Finn and Bill Sachs made an excellent contribution to the baseball team and Jim Martin was on the fencing team.

Norm Ryder was elected president of the newly formed Buckeye Political Party and Tom Torbet served as president of the Red Cross. Bob Clotworthy and Bob Grimes were elected to Sphinx, senior men's honorary; Bill Drier and Mel Woelfling were members of Romophos; and Clarkson Bitzer was elected to Bucket and Dipper. Larry Conaway received the Gainer Cup award for his outstanding contributions to the fraternity world.

For the second consecutive year a Beta man has won the Golddigger's Crown. This year the title went to Al Germanson who stole the hearts of many O.S.U. co-eds. After the Golddigger's Dance, Al and the Betas showed their apperciation to the girls by serenading the girls' dormitories. This was a treat for every O.S.U. co-ed since the Betas have an outstanding reputation for their excellent serenades.

Chi Phi

Vaudeville lived again when the Chi Phi "Song and Dance Men", dressed in tuxedoes and top hats, tapped their way through the Greek Week Skits to the theme of New York. The group felt well rewarded for their time and effort when they were selected to participate in the Annual Spring Frolics. However, most of the Chi Phi's wished that vaudeville could have died and been peacefully forgotten after hearing "The Sidewalks of New York" for twenty-eight consecutive nights. All antagonistic feelings were appeased when the "Song and Dance Men" entertained the Chi Phi men and their dates at their annual Winter Formal held at the Fiesta Club. The Chi Phi's held two other formals during the year—the Fall Formal, held at Winding Hollow Conutry Club; and the Spring Formal.

The smell of pine greeted all of those who attended the annual Holiday Inn when they first entered the door. The reason for the strong fragrance —eight Christmas Trees located throughout the first floor of the house. It was really Christmas!

Other social events included numerous open houses. One was held with Stomp Gorden as entertainment. Stomp was hired to play for two hours. Either the gang enjoyed him so much or he enjoyed them so much that he stayed until 12:00 p. m. All of the Cats there had a real crazy time!

"Happy Birthday, Grandma!" This was the greeting which Mrs. Carrie Commerson, the Chi Phi housemother received when she entered the dining room March third. A special dinner was held in her honor. Grandma, as she is lovingly called by the brothers, is eighty years old and has been with the Chi Phi's for twenty-eight years.

2000 Indianola Avenue

One of the very interesting speakers of the year was William Sazby, Chi Phi alumnus and the present Speaker of the House of Representatives of Ohio. Luther Rosser, the Chi Phi National Director, spoke at the Alumni Week-end Dinner where he was the guest of honor. Other prominent alumni are David Wm. Harris, President of Universal Oil Co., and Clifford F. Hood, President of the United States Steel Co. Prominent active members include such campus figures as Dan Amstutz, the present president of the fraternity and newly elected president of the Student Senate; Ted Griffith, chairman of the Military Ball Committee; and Dave Judy, executive committee for OSPA.

That 8 diamond bid brought quite a laugh from all around the Chi Phi bridge table.

Chi Phi laundryman is a bit perplexed as he burns his shirt that he needs for a big date this evening.

Kibitzers Dan Amstutz and Manuel Tzagournis think they would bid this bridge hand much differently.

Delta Chi

The vampire struck the Delta Chi house one winter night in February. It really was a crazy trick very successfully carried out by several of the brothers. Late at night two of the guys called the house and reported that an insane man had escaped from the Hilltop and was thought to be in the college vicinity. Everybody was to keep their house locked as the man was considered dangerous. As the two men receiving the call turned from the phone — there IT was! One of the fellows had covered his face with wax and had made a very gruesome face over his own. The two boys really received a shock and the whole house was turned into an uproar, much to the amusement of the pranksters. Out of this trick grew one of the best and no doubt the most exciting parties of the year At this "Horror" party the vampire again appeared amid a proper atmosphere complete with bats, rats, ghosts, and cobwebs. Candles furnished the little light present and midway in the evening the candles suddenly went out — the vampire again struck but three of the men saved all of those present when they gave their blood for the vampire. The blood was a quart of milk, a bottle of vinegar, and ninety proof alcohol, representative of the personality of each of the men.

Other social functions of the year included the Homecoming Party, the Winter Formal held at the Beechwold, a Paris party, a Gay Nineties party, and the annual Sweetheart Weekend at which the housemother and best gals took over the house for a whole weekend.

The usual fraternity ditching of pledges has turned into an event which all of the Delta Chi pledges look forward to every year. Each year one pledge is abducted and exchanged for the pledge of another chapter. This year the Ohio State chapter exchanged with the Michigan State boys. The pledges went to Toledo where the exchange took place. Each school shows the guest pledge a good time, including a date for Saturday night and absolutely no work. There's only one catch to the weekend — the pledge has to hitchhike home.

A new face appeared at 1999 Iuka Spring Quarter. A committee was formed to select a dog as mascot for the house. They came home with Mergatroid, a little yellow furry Duck! Well known campus faces are also seen at the Delta Chi house — Buz Lukens, Dave Depner, and Loyd Turner are a few of the fraternity BMOC's.

Delta Chi actives recline on a downy couch of their house as two "volunteer shoe-shine boys" go to work.

Starting their twenty-seventh year on Ohio State's campus was the largest fraternity on campus and the largest Delta Sigma Delta chapter in the world. Hardly had school started when the Mu-Mu chapter played host to all the new dental students at the Beechwold. The costume Halloween and Yukon parties gave the Delta Sigs and their dates a chance to compete for the prize for the best-dressed couple. The proceeds from the latter were put into the educational fund. A freshman recognition banquet gave the Delta Sigs an opportunity to display their acting ability as skits were given in honor of the seniors. Dr. John Cox was honored at the Winter Formal at the Chittenden Hotel; Dr. Cox was one of the 1930 co-captains of the first East-West Shrine's game and an All American for two years at Colgate. Final recognition was given to the seniors at the spring banquet as each senior received a small token from his little brother.

Intramural athletics added numerous honors to the fraternity as they became Class B champs in touch football, won the league in bowling, and both basketball teams played in the semi-finals. Dillon Rhodenbaugh was on the Varsity Fencing team and Pete George proudly displayed the two gold medals he acquired during the Olympics and Pan-American games as he was acclaimed champion middle-weight lifter of the world.

All is not work at the Delta Sig house, for far into the night we may find many an enthusiastic card shark playing "Go-Wop", the unique new game dreamed up by the Delta Sig chapter while extracting teeth over at the Dental Clinic. During the "Go-Wop" game we hear a "Ba, Ba" and it isn't a bid of a brother. This "Ba-Ba" is the Northwestern Delta Sig's chapter mascot which was sent to OSU as payment of a bet placed on the Northwestern-Ohio State game. The bet was originally a sheep skin but the Northwestern brothers didn't have the heart to kill their mascot so Ohio State Delta Sigs received the real "McCoy"—a live sheep instead of the anticipated sheepskin.

"Longbelly", ball python borrowed from the Columbus Zoo, brought fame to Delta Sigma Phi fraternity and President Don Davis as he aided them in capturing the "Ugly Man On Campus" title for Davis.

Much effort has gone into renovating the Delta Sig house this year. A new appearance both inside and outside has been achieved with painting and remodeling.

The extensive social calendar is highlighted by the annual Sweetheart Weekend in the spring during which as an added feature the boys vacated the house and the gals took over. This event is climaxed by the traditional Carnation Ball. The Sailor's Ball, at which everyone dresses in pirate's and sailor's costumes and the Sphinx Stomp fill out the spring social functions.

A joint homecoming dance was held at Helenic Hall with Kappa Delta Rho and Alpha Rho Chi fraternities. The Delta Sigs also joined with the Delta Chis for a dance during the fall quarter. Another social function was the Christmas Orphan's Party held at the chapter house at which small children were feted with a meal and many presents from Santa Claus.

The Alpha Iota chapter entertained chapters from Ohio Northern and Wittenberg colleges at a banquet held at the Ohio Union. Square dances, hayrides, picnics, and stag parties along with the usual house parties completed the social calendar.

The Delta Sig's activities men include Cecil Blocker and Bob Borden, presidents of the Command Squadron and the Military Amateur Radio Society respectively. George Keys was tapped for Phi Epsilon Sigma honorary.

Ken Russell wore the scarlet and gray for the Ohio State cross-country track team while Dave Blayds served as swimming manager.

The Delta Sigs were among the fraternities replacing "Hell Week" with "Help Week". During the year thirty initiates to be were sent to the Godmen Guild where they cleaned, painted, and helped with welfare projects.

Delta Sigma Pi

This past year was a busy one at 112 14th Ave., the residence of the men of the Ohio State Nu chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. The Nu chapter is made up of students in the College of Commerce and students pursuing courses in the College, but it is a social fraternity.

During the year, the Nu chapter fostered the study of business in the university, and it encouraged scholarship and the closer association of students for their mutual advancement. The chapter promoted closer affiliation with the commercial world and students of commerce. In connection with the professional program, the Deltasigs invited local citizens who are prominent in the business world to speak to the group. They also participated in field trips, tours of industry, and forums throughout the state of Ohio.

Highlighting the Delta Sigma Pi social season this year was the annual Rose Formal and the crowning of the Rose of Deltasig. During the year, the Deltasig social calendar carried the notations of a Homecoming Dance, a Founders' Day Banquet, and numerous dances, house parties, dinners, picnics, and outings. The men of Delta Sigma Pi, under the leadership of Richard Booher, also participated in interfraternity athletics and in extra curricular activities, particularly in the College of Commerce.

Delta Sigma Pi was founded in 1907 at New York University and since that time has grown to number 88 undergraduate chapters which are located throughout the United States and Canada. The Nu chapter was founded in 1921. Since that time the chapter boasts such outstanding alumni as the presidents of Rutgers, Miami, California, Grinnel and Northwestern (emeritus) Universities; 30 deans of schools of business administration; members of the President's cabinet; Mr. Benjamin Cohen, Asst. Secretary

There was a woman hater at the Deltasig house this year. During the year the house kept an animal which resembled a dog, but at the house parties he turned out to be a woman hater. Betrayed by his cute innocent looks, many of the girls suffered hand wounds and shredded hose when they attemped to pet him. Finally, out of ever-present kindness of Deltasigs, the dog was presented to some very nice elderly ladies who are giving him a fine home.

Delta Tau Delta

"Paw."

"What, Ma?"

"I'm a-cravin' to attend that shindig over in the Joneses' barn tomorrow night. It's goin' to be held in typical dogpatch style, complete with the Old Man's cave, and Schmoo Island. I hear even Injun Joe is goin' to be there." Yep, Delta Tau Delta's Sadie Hawkins Dance was really a hit last fall, especially with Lois Bond, Kappa Alpha Theta, as Dasie Mae.

Delt activities men this year were James Hogan, Athletic Board, Ohio Staters, Inc., Day of Champions, president of the Junior Class, and Student Senate; Tom Franklin and Keith Olds, Ohio Staters, Inc., and Day of Champions; and Ted Nicola and Gene Matonovich, Ohio State Political Party.

In football, Delta Tau Delta was in the front behind the quarterbacking of their vice-president, John Borton. The pledge class was well represented in sports with Francis Machinsky, tackle, and Bob Dick, guard on the freshman squad; Dick Garver, a pitcher, and Tony Stavole, varsity wrestling.

The Delts' homecoming decorations were their answer to the odd voodoo trick of sticking a pin in a wax doll. Instead they created an imaginary Ohio State football player called Buc Buzsaw. It was Buc's job to dissect an unlucky Michigan tackle into minute pieces with a Buzsaw. Their idea won them an honorable mention.

Parties, parties and more parties filled the Delts' social calendar to over-flowing. Winter quarter the Southern Hotel was the scene of a combined dance with the Phi Psis and the Kappa Sigs. Spring quarter found Kent State University at Ohio State for a Founders' Day Banquet held at the Beechwold. Both chapters relaxed at a formal dance afterward. At the Spring formal a Delt pinmate was chosen Sweenheart of Delta Tau Delta. A welcome change came when the Mothers' Club took over the house and cooked a dinner for the members and their dates.

After playing at numerous fraternity and sorority open houses the Delt Combo rounded out the year providing the music for the Spring Fling Show given by the faculty, deans, and students.

Football intramurals brought another trophy to the Delt mantel as they took the runner-up spot.

"Yep, Dogpatch can't hold a Buzsaw to the carrying- ons at 80 E. 13th."

John takes time off from his broom to hear some vocalizing by the pajama clad brother who just got up.

Delts and dates at St. Valentines party take to heart annual tradition and really have themselves a time.

It's party time again as the Delts have one of their bimonthly houses dances where fun and food is plentiful.

What ain't we got!! We ain't got dames.

The lowly pledges hold quarterly scum dances for those going active and regularly show actives the historical points of Ohio and neighboring states. Hayrides, square dances and a picnic were among the activities planned for spring. A favorite subject is ROTC. Not one active has escaped so far.

One of the last projects of the year was the spring formal and a Parents' Day complete with a dinner and entertainment.

Delta Theta Sigma

To the layman a cow is a cow but to Arden Blythe a cow has a distinct personality. As a member of a live stock judging team he has traveled to such widely separated places as Chicago, Kansas City, and Baltimore to watch cows put through their paces.

1953 has been a busy year for DTS. Last fall they held their annual National Conclave at Ohio State and played hosts to Penn State and Wisconsin. Among their other fall activities were their Homecoming Banquet, and an annual Alumni Dinner held in conjunction with Fireman's Home Week. After their Christmas party the tree and decorations plus twenty-five dollars were given to a needy family whose name they had obtained through a Welfare Agency. February 14 saw candy hearts and flowers invading the house at their Valentine's Day Dinner and Dance. Professor Barden entertained the members and their dates with slides of Canada.

Activities men are Mel Krill, treasurer, and Marion Kroetz, executive committee of TAES; Roland Erlecamp, Freshman Council; and Bob Milkie, Dairy Tech Toastmaster. DTS members are also active in the Horticulture Club, Scabbard and Blade and at least five have Agriculture scholarships. Last year they placed second among the Greeks in scholarship.

Impending finals and the resulting grades were forgotten at the Tri-Ag Formal. Held in the Union Ballroom this top function for the winter quarter is jointly sponsored by Alpha Gamma Sigma, Alpha Zeta and Delta Theta Sigma.

There may be a change of scenery for DTS in the not too distant future. An Alumni building committee is making plans for raising funds for a new house. Everything made by the fraternity will be matched by the alumni, with the tentative building plans to begin in 1962.

Delta Upsilon

Swimming suits, loud ties, sunglasses, bathrobes, etc.—anything goes for Thursday night dinners at the Delta Upsilon house. Every Thursday dinner is "Suppressed Desire" time and all the guys who live at the house wear something corresponding to the established theme. One night in January was Florida time and the brothers showed up in bathing suits, beachrobes, sneakers, sun glasses, and towels. Another night was "loud tie" night and another "bathrobe night." The DU pledges are just as fun-loving as the actives. In February the thirty-seven pledges staged a major revolt when they left the campus for three days with all the bedclothing, silverware, and faucet handles as well as the actives' sense of pride.

The DU's social events are as lively as their stag affairs. The Formal held at Winding Hollow Country Club was the big event of fall quarter. The dates were presented with silver beer mugs upon which the fraternity crest has been mounted. The house was turned into a barn for the Hayloft party. Real honest-to-goodness straw was imported from a farm outside of Columbus to give the "barn" authenticity. Hillbilly costumes were the order of the night with a prize being given for the most ridiculous costume.

The Spring formal, the Lake Hope outing, and-Phi (Duffy) Day held with the Phi Delts are the annual events of Spring Quarter. The DU's were again the proud possessors of the Duffy trophy which is passed each year to the winner of the baseball game at the picnic. The various picnic activities are followed in the evening by a party and dance.

32 E. Sixteenth Avenue

The DU's have their serious side, too. They have had such speakers as James McElhaney, Assistant Dean of Men, DU alumnus O. E. Pollock, Assistant Dean of Men. Other outstanding alumni are Hugh E. Nesbitt, A. Beaumont Johnson, and C. William O'Neil.

The fraternity also is proud of their activities men. Fritz Lalendorf, Student Senate; David Sherck, Fraternity Affairs; Bob Wherry, Strollers, and University Players; George Weingardt, Block "O", and Arts College Council; and Stew Hein, Sphinx.

DU boasts its athletes—John Koontz, Bob Schnabel, and Will Sadler, Varsity baseball; Ray Farnowski and Al Stucky are the wrestlers of the club not to forget George Rosso, DU's big defensive left halfback.

Duke and fellow DU brothers discuss the latest social board ruling with Mrs. Cone.

Singing talents are shown by DU's as they practice up for Doke's big golddigger's campaign.

There are big plans brewing in the prexy's room as the exec board gets together for a bull session.

"Now you be a good pledge", says 'Captain Video' Active, or I'll use this ray gun on you again.

Publishing the only optometric publication in Ohio is quite an honor, and that honor goes to Epsilon Psi Epsilon, professional optometry fraternity at Ohio State. James Blockson is the editor-in-chief of the unique twenty-eight page quarterly magazine known to all students, alumni, and friends as the O-Eye-O.

Epsilon Psi Epsilon, under the leadership of Presiden Bruce Bradley, bought a new house this year just three doors from the old one. The EPE's now have two houses, the main chapter house at 58 East 12th and the residential annex at 76 East 12th.

"Hey, did you hear this one?" — a familiar thing you hear around any frat house where they shoot the breeze.

E Psi E men proudly survey a new trophy they have received — guess they'll have to build another shelf.

Epsilon Psi Epsilon

Scholastically speaking the Epsilon Psi Epsilon men participate fully in the Student Optometry Association and in organized class seminars and study sessions at the chapter house.

Athletically speaking, there's a shiny new trophy resting among the collection of Epsilon Psi Epsilon. The fellows are mighty proud of the trophy that stands as proof that the EPE men were tops in the fraternity intramural baseball competition this year.

Socially speaking, the main social event of the year was the Spring Founder's Day Formal Dinner Dance. Supplementing this main event were various house parties, square dances, and three formal dances, one each quarter, brought to a close another social season.

Speaking of outstanding members, brings to mind Nelson Abrahamsen, who was elected president of the Student Optometric Association; Honorable Senator Robert Lamborn, who represented the School of Optometry on the Student Senate; and Bruce Bradley, who was vice president of the Professional Interfraternity Council.

When speaking of alums, members of the EPE fraternity proudly boast Lt. Col. John Sheridan who is head of the Optometry Section of the Medical Service Corps, US Army; H. W. Hofstetter, who is Dean of The Indiana University School of Optometry; Charles Stewart, who is Dean of the University of Houston School of Optometry; Jack T. Keith, president of the Ohio State Optometric Association; and Nelson E. Abrahamsen, member of the Council of Education of The American Optometric Association.

Epsilon Phi Epsilon strives to prepare each member of the fraternity scholastically and socially for his profession of Optometry.

Kappa Sigma

Since its founding December 10, 1869, Kappa Sigma has grown into one of the largest of all national fraternities, and now boasts the largest endowment fund of any fraternity in the country.

Kappa Sigma's brilliant social season was highlighted by the annual Homecoming Superfunction, the theme of which was "Basin Street Bounce." The big, white-pillared Kappa Sig house looked at the world like a side alley in New Orleans. Other bright spots on the social calendar were the Star Dust formal in honor of one of Kappa Sigma's most famous brothers, Hoagy Carmichael; The Founders' Day Banquet; Hoskin's pig roast; the Milk Social sponsored by alums Tom and Jack Kohr. Another big event which took place after the close of football season was the "Beer Bowl" in which two teams from the chapter battled each other.

Kappa Sigma is well represented in varsity sports by Dean Dugger and Dave Gambill in football, and Paul Ebert who broke eight individual scoring records during last year's basketball campaign. This year he was named to the American "Dream Team." He also led the Big Ten Conference as pitcher for the Buckeyes. Dean Dugger is also a member of the basketball and track teams.

Besides being big wheels in sports, the boys are also found in many campus activities. The more prominent ones are Jim Linzell, a member of Alpha Pi Mu and Phi Eta Sigma honoraries and Red Cross. Gabe Campbell is affiliated with the Strollers Board of Control, Red Cross, Forensic, Greek Week Committee, May Week Committee, and the Buckeye Political Party. Paul Ebert is a member of Bucket and Dipper, Romophos, and Student Senate. In addition, there is Herb Hunt, F.A.O.; Brandon Barnes, WOSU; Bill Shimp, Debate Team and Forensic; and John Drain, Scabbard and Blade. Dan Greiser was elected the "Gentleman of Jazz" of the famed Jazz Forum and Ray Gentile was a member of the Marching Band.

Also this year the Kappa Sig's had their library paneled in walnut which was taken from the farm of an alumni of Alpha Sigma.

"See, fellas, I wasn't kiddin", claims Henne. I caught this big one with me own little hands.

Even housemother, Mrs. Hayes, joins in on a chorus of "but Kappa Sigma is the best, boys, in all this world."

Kappa Sigs went all out for their boy Frank Hersman, when they campaigned for golddigger's king.

That call to a pretty miss brings quite a crowd of listeners. "Maybe she has a friend for me."

73 E. Fiftenth Avenue

The Lambda Chi Alphas have been quite busy during the past year due to the excitement and work which always accompanies the building of a new house. Construction was begun last fall quarter, and progress has been rapid on this beautiful, modern house on 15th Avenue. They expect to be living in it by next fall.

The Gamma Tau chapter was established in 1923, fourteen years after the founding of the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity at Boston University in 1909. This fraternity, composed of 142 chapters located all over the nation, is the largest of the social fraternities.

Lambda Chi Alpha

this year, and it was highlighted by a formal each quarter. This fall formal was held at the Southern Hotel and the winter one took place at the Fiesta Club. The Sweetheart Dance in the spring was held at the Winding Hollow Country Club. Two big events of the year were the annual Founders' Day banquet and a Suppressed Desire party. A picnic at Madison Lake on Memorial Day provided a very enjoyable way to spend the holiday. Next year in the new house, exchange dinners and house dances will be added to the Lambda Chi's list of social functions.

Several Lambda Chis were active in the athletics of O.S.U. last year. Jerry Krisher was an important member of the football team as center and he received honorable mention on the All-American team. Frank Beatty ran cross country for the track team, and Marv Perkins did a fine job on the fencing squad.

Bill Watkins brought honor to the chapter through his work in many of the campus activties. He was elected to Texnikoi, the men's activities honorary for engineers. He was treasurer of Sigma Gamma Epsilon and president of the Student Branch of the American Ceramic Society.

One of the worthwhile projects of the Lambda Chi's was the donation of blood to the Red Cross. In two separate drives, they donated more than 1/6 of the total amount of blood given on campus.

Throughout the year the Lambda Chis have been inspired by the sight of the construction of their new house and by the realization that by next fall they will be occupying it.

Phi Delta Chi

Phi Delta Chi, the professional pharmacy fraternity, has as its main objective the advancement of pharmacy through its fraternal organization. The fraternity strives to raise the scholastic standards of its members and also provide a means whereby they may obtain assistance and cooperation from each other.

Scholastic achievement is recognized by awarding annually the Phi Delta Chi Cup to the pharmacy sophomore with the highest point hour for the year. Recognition of achievement inside the fraternity is made by the presentation of keys to the member with the highest cumulative point hour and also to the member who shows the greatest improvement in his point hour.

Founded at the University of Michigan in 1883, Phi Delta Chi has since expanded to 28 active chapters, including the Xi chapter, founded at Ohio State in 1906. The past year has resulted in the formation of new chapters and the reactivation of several inactive ones. Rand P. Hollenbeck, a Xi alumnus, serves as National Grand Secretary at his offices in Columbus.

Carrying on the traditions of the chapter, the members have been active in all the intramural sports under the professional fraternities' program.

Several Phi Delta Chis have been especially active in college and university organizations. Past president Robert Kral served as President of the Professional Interfraternity Council. Robert Secrest was president of the Pharmacy Council, other members of which included Reed Sherwood and Lemont Kier. Ralph Zuendel was Student Senate representative. Ralph Lawrence was president of the Student Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association and was succeeded by President Lemont Kier.

Doing Pharmacy homework in the basement of the house proves very valuable.

From the social standpoint, the fraternity has had a full schedule. Social affairs included house dances, exchange dinners, stag parties, and various other informal functions. Fall quarter was highlighted by the annual Homecoming Dinner Dance which was held at Mrs. Root's Party House. The traditional spring formal was held at Ilonka's Provincial House, providing a wonderful finish to a fine year for the Phi Delta Chis.

Phi Delta Theta

One of Ohio Zeta's outstanding brothers is Jim Hietikko. At the beginning of football season Jim broke his arm and was on the side-lines most of the season. Winter Quarter he came bouncing back with much vim, vigor, and vitality to be elected to Golddigger's court. Shortly afterwards he was practicing a few dance steps and down he went; result—one more broken arm.

Since Ohio Zeta's establishment in 1883, the Phi Delts at O.S.U. have striven to meet the high standards set by the national office. Of every forty men in "Who's Who" one is a Phi Delt; a record which they are justly proud. Such well-known local men as Dick Larkins, "Tippy" Dye, Don Scott, "Red" Trautman, Jimmy Hull, Pete Stinchcomb, and Wilson Dumble are brothers in the bonds.

Last year the Phi Delts again turned in a point-hour which was above the all-men's average on campus, and at the same time "partied" their way through a gala social calendar such as the Triad, the Champagne formal, the "Florida Beach Party" and numerous other parties.

In the sport spotlight Jim Hietikko, Jim Merrill, and Harry Edgington were varsity football men, and Jack Campbell, Elbert Ebinger, and Bill Booth were first-string men in Freshmen Football. Jim Bagley played Freshman basketball, Pete Carpenter, swimming, and Jim Walker, Dan Whitacre, Pete Whiteford, and Paul Zenisek were on the wrestling team. Denny O'Brien was a trackster and Tom Neal, Joe Kirwin, and Jim Bull were on the baseball team.

Keith Welborn was Director of Freshman Orientation Week, Bob Winzeler was President of Student Frontliners, Bob Tressel was President of Romophos, and Chick Martin was President of Bucket and Dipper. Bill Boyd was campus editor for the Lantern.

The pledge class won the "Pledge Princess Prom" trophy for the best skit, and trophies for touch football, volleyball, and basketball. The Phikeias have also been active in "Fraternity Affairs," "With the Greeks," Union Activities, Freshman Class Council, and the Intramural Office.

Bob Tressel takes the part of Cyrano (who needs a putty nose?) in golddiggers campaign.

Phi Delt's go all out at FAC's fair with their happy go lucky booth. Brothers watch as someone cops a prize.

Relaxation comes after a heavy day at the berg, Larry's, Ben's, a little basketball and maybe an hour at school.

Phi Epsilon Pi

From the first day of Fall Quarter until the closing minutes of Spring Quarter, the Phi Epsilon Pi house was alive with the hub-bub of social affairs, studies, activities, and athletics. The social calendar reached novel, new proportions this year. Split-skirts, turtle-neck sweaters, and a "cafe atmosphere" all contributed to making the "Parisian Party" a rollicking success. Indeed, it would be hard to ignore such atmosphere as this in making a party a great success. Other affairs of the year, long to be remembered by the Phi Ep men, were the "Phi Ep Flicker Follies", another gay and well-decorated party with much atmosphere; Winter Weekend, and the Spring Formal Dinner-Dance in the ballroom of the Seneca Hotel. The scene changed on the week-end affairs. Dressed in their finest, the dates of the Phi Ep men completely bedazzled their partners quite as much as they did through their attire at the costume parties.

Alpha Omicron is able to boast its share of activity men for this year. The most outstanding of these were Bernie Winick, President of the Sophomore Class and student senator; Nate Lichtscien, Men's Intramural secretary, and varsity tennis manager; Dick Wells, a sophomore editor on the Makio Staff; Joe Zoldan and Milt Lieblich, varsity basketball managers; and Bob Wolfson, a feature writer for the Lantern.

Athletics certainly have their place in any of the fraternity houses. Phi Epsilon Pi is no exception. Leading the house this year in varsity athletics were Irv Denker and Mike Stern. Irv was a big man on the Buckeye gridiron squad. To supplement this, Mike saw a lot of action as a member of the soccer team. As a whole, the fraternity received a bit of reward and honor in intramural sports. This held especially true in bowling, for the Phi Ep's were among the four top fraternity teams on the campus in this sport.

As a chapter, Alpha Omicron was started in 1932. The fraternity, founded in 1904, boasts thirty-seven chapters throughout the nation today. In Alpha Omicron, Ohio State's chapter, many honors and outstanding men have made the chapter a national pride. Leading the fraternity this year were Lloyd Fingernut, President; Irving Denker, Vice-president; Dick Wells, and Bernie Winick, Corresponding and Recording secretaries; and Mark Kupperman, Treasurer. These executives have brought the fraternity through with flying colors.

Phi Gamma Delta

Omicron Deuteron is probably the best chapter of Phi Gamma Delta on Ohio State's campus. A grand bunch of fellows, the Fijis participate in campus activities, play bridge, tell stories, drink beer, have parties with girls, and elect presidents whose names sound like mixed drinks. They made many worthwhile contributions to blood drives, WSGA House Rules Committee, and Amicons' Excess Profits.

Quite a few big wheels on campus belong to this club; Chuck Johnson is a DG houseboy, Darrel Zipfel owns half of Amicons, and one boy has been pinned to two sorority girls. They also have two legacies who turned out pretty well—Tom Hague who plays sports and Mike Moritz who lives at the Union. They have a fairly large chapter which includes eleven boys they pledged this fall, some actives that pledged in '36 and don't want to graduate, and some transfers from Wittenberg; also three rich alums who donate free Dixie Cups and Mennen's Shave Cream to the chapter.

All the Phi Gams are suave and debonair and they have parties with girls. At Homecoming time they won a trophy for Homecoming Decorations because the wind wasn't blowing 'way over on 17th Ave., and Winter Quarter they took the class B intramural basketball championship—these honors and the fact that the Dean of Men is a Phi Gam and all the boys like them put their frat way up there this year.

Jazzy parties (with girls) included a Gay Nineties Party, a joint meeting with the Mothers' Club to hear Wilson Dumble speak, a Hearts tournament on Valentine's Day, a street dance with the AE Phi's, and a Religion in Life Week party. Entertainment was provided for all these functions by Hugh Hazel who can play the piano. The Fiji Island Party was another swell affair and 35 alums showed up to free-load and bird dog.

But Phi Gams have the best parties on campus 'cause everyone knows how to play bridge and tell funny stories, and the social chairman is a regular fellow. They also boast lots of varsity athletes, a soft-shoe dancer, two television sets, a golddiggers' candidare, and a dog named Barf. So . . . Perge', huzza, huzza, and all that—the Fijis are a fine frat.

Tommy Hague and Paul Williams, back from the army, get together to entertain at the Gay Nineties party.

Phi Gam quintet makes a colorful background for Don Maloney's campaign for golddigger's king.

"Joe sent me." This was the only pass which entitled the Phi Kaps and their dates to enter the house for their night club party Winter Quarter. On entering the house the couples found themselves in a dark night club of the speak-easy days. A tuxedoed headwaiter guided them to their table around the dance floor, while a tuxedoed bartender quietly served the "bootlegged" drinks mad with food coloring and punch. A Ziegfield Follies chorus line of Phi Kappa pledges provided the floor show. Couples Charlestoned or gambled their money away while others merely sat back and listened to the music of name bands, courtesy of RCA, and wished for the good old days of Mama and Papa.

The Phi Kaps "drink up" at a house party in the basement of their 14th Avenue house.

Dave Meyer shows one of the pledges how it was done in the old days with the hickory paddle.

Phi Kappa

The entertainment committee was reversed at the annual Winter Formal honoring the pledges. The actives put on a skit about the life of an innocent college freshman planning to pledge a fraternity. Of course the tactics used in pledging the poor boy did not in any way resemble those of actual Phi Kappa rushing. The pledges elected a pledge king and he and his date reigned over the Ball. The theme of the dance was Valentine's Day and the girls received heart boxes of Valentine chocolates.

The Phi Kappa formal of Spring Quarter was the Province Ball which was held this year in Cleveland. A basketball tournament, the first of it's kind was played Saturday morning to start the convention off. The game was followed in the afternoon by a swimming party. A cocktail party preceeded the formal Ball which was held at a Cleveland country club. After the dance the whole party had breakfast together. Sunday after church the group attended the open house given by Alpha Beta chapter at Case. The men and their dates returned to the Ohio State campus a weary group of young people but with the memory of a gay, extensive weekend.

The Phi Kaps are also interested in athletics—everything from checkers to football. This is the fifth consecutive year that the Phi Kaps have won their league championship in football. They were also the runners-up in the basketball tournament. During May week the Phi Kaps have their own Champions' Day. The fraternity has playoffs in golf, tennis, checkers, bridge, chess, and pinochle. The winners are named Thursday of May Week.

Phi Kappa Psi

Football season ended happily enough as far as the Phi Psi's were concerned when at the Ohio Staters Football Appreciation Banquet brother Bob "Rock" Joslin was elected to co-captain next year's football team. Rock made headlines more than once this past year with his outstanding performance for Woody Hayes on the right end of the Buckeye line.

Other notable names on the Phi Kappa Psi roster are those of Jack Cookston who has capably held the title of President of the Student Senate for the past year and is a member of Sphinx; Sky Lucey, President of OSU's Men's Glee Club, President of Scarlet Mask, and Bucket and Dipper member; and Dave Kyle and Jim Cromer who have been active in the Freshman Class Council and Fraternity Affairs offices.

Homecoming time and the Phi Psi's attempted house decorations" . . . brought nation-wide note . . .", according to Sky Lucey, " . . . because of the wind storm which tore down what we had put up. We put up a sign which the whole campus, city, and state heard about eventually. It was a campus remark and not for publication . . . " (editor's note: see page 18)

But the Phi Psi's did win campus-wide recognition of their ingenuity last spring when they copped first place trophy in the May Week float parade with a carnival float. This in accordance with an old chapter policy the Phi Psi's must have since the first place float parade trophy has gone to them every year for the past three years now.

124 E. Fourteenth Avenue

Socially the Phi Psi's always shine and this past year was no exception. The Pigalle Party was the most looked-forward-to event. The fabulous Heidelburg (South) was rented for atmospheric background, dates were required to dress according to fashion dictates of the Left Bank, and the resulting party was a huge success. Tri-Delt pledge Nancy Tooley was awarded the Miss Pigalle trophy due to the authenticity (?) of her costume. Christmastime and the Phi Psi's joined with the Thetas for a party for underprivileged children at the Theta house. Joe Schneider was the life of the party — he donned the red and white Santa Claus outfit to the delight of kiddies and Thetas alike. Phi Psi alums helped to make the annual Founder's Day, held at the Beechwold, a success when invited to celebrate Phi Psi founding.

It's the form and follow through that really counts. First guy that knocks out a tooth, misses a turn.

That's not the eight ball Don Wiper's behind, but brother Phi Psis don't think he's another Willie Hoppe

The Student Senate frowns upon this sort of thing, but Jack Cookston, prexy of SS, doesn't seem worried.

Phi Kappa Sigma

Mid swaying palms and the sea's gentle roar the Phi Kappa Sigma's entertained their dates on Valentine's Day. However, the occasion wasn't a trip to Florida but the fraternity's annual Beach Party. This year the party followed a gay nineties theme and everybody got quite a laugh out of the various different gay 90's bathing suits which were worn. To give authenticity to the party the walls of the rooms were covered with south sea island scenes and the floors were covered with six inches of sawdust 'sand'; a record of the waves breaking against a shore played softly in the back ground during the whole evening. The combo played in a little grass hut.

The fraternity again went back to the nineteenth century when they held their plantation party Spring Quarter. Men in Confederate uniforms or white dinner jackets and string ties escorted their hoop-skirted dates to the gala affair at their 166 E. Woodruff home. The couples danced in the living room or on the new flagstone terrace which was designed by one of the brothers who is in architecture. The guys did all of the work on the terraces themselves and are really proud of their accomplishment.

Not all of the Phi Kappa Sigma parties were held at their house. The Monte Carlo Formal was held at the Fiesta Club and the happy couples danced to the music of Buddy Jones. Their Fall Quarter Formal was held at the Riding Academy, December the fifth. Other social events included other house parties — the Bowery Party, the New Year's Party — and exchange dinners with various sororities.

A little cultural chess seems to have everybody interested. Quite a distracting background, though, I'd say.

1953 was a winning year for Phi Kappa Sigma. The Chapter won four wall skins on football bets with other chapters and didn't loose one skin. The skins are now adorning the walls of the house. The fraternity also took second place in the Greek week stunt night contest. Their skit was built around the present communist investigations with the title of "The Red Probe". Next year the guys would like to plan a party around the "Iron Curtain Theme".

Dick Deeds seems to have the cards in a trance as our photographer caught this one in mid-air.

Phi Kappa Tau

The late school year at Phi Kappa Tau appeared to be a gauche, spasmodic, preposterously concocted melodrama. It has been, it might be added, a great success.

Phi Taus partied their way through a social calendar which included the traditional Dreamgirl and Sweetheart formals, picnics and hayrides, dances and beer brawls, and a number of theme parties. One of these, the Roman Festival, was very realistic except that the couples pretending to be Romans were all fakes. And even with this round of parties, enough men let scholarship interfere with the fun to raise the chapter scholastic average considerably during the year.

Some individuals, not content to just study and party, went so far as to regularly engage in extracurricular activities. Dick Townsend, former Sundial editor and house comedian, was secretary of Sphinx, while Norm Brown presided over the Social Board and handled his duties as Senior Class President. Tom Banta, the fraternal thespian, managed to snag a part in each of the Strollers productions. Don Boone won his varsity "O" on the rifle team and Bill Damsel was a member of the varsity football team. Phi Tau "Young Turks" in action were Don Carr, Gene Davis, and Dick Stalter.

The biggest project this year was the construction of a Phi Tau Show Boat, certainly one of the finest Homecoming decorations. The ship was lost, however, in the heavy seas and high winds encountered during the weekend. The storm did not take down the old fraternity house, unfortunately, which would have saved the expense of tearing it down in order to build the new house.

Both Phi Tau intramural football teams won their way into the tournament play-offs, as did the "A" basketball team. The "B" team, on the other hand, did not win any games, as it was composed mainly of jokers. Once again the "bull slinger" and "snout and trough" trophies were awarded, carrying their dubious honors. And through it all, the Phi Tau "sixteen-ette," a double octet, sang fraternity songs, Wendell Jones played his delightful marimba, Ken Johnson tickled a wicked piano, and Russ Mamone, president, kept law and order. A notable exception being the night he chopped down the dormitory door to get to bed.

Well let's see now, since we're all together we may as well discuss something. Any suggestions?

"We sing the old songs, we sing the new, we sing the bright songs, and maybe we'll sing the blues on . . .

"There's no boat like a showboat"—the PKT's theme for an impressive panoramic Homecoming display.

These virile looking young men are none other than those Phi Mu Delta stacking votes for Bob Brickner.

Splash!!! Yes, you guessed it—Mirror Lake again, but this time it was for all graduating seniors of Phi Mu Delta Fraternity. However, as these seniors looked back on the past year, they admitted that it certainly had been the greatest.

The numerous pledges had a few tricks up their sleeves as they stole all the silverware and the actives had to use plastic utensils. However, the actives had some tricks of their own and promptly locked the pledges out of the house. Result—the "Storming of the Bastile"—including mud fights! Oh, those lovely pledges!

The big brotherly argument here is over the choice of articles for the front page of the chapter newspaper.

Tom Kirby, wearing his lucky hat, is about ready to put a hole in the table and win the pot of $1000.

Phi Mu Delta

To start things off in September of this glorious year, Mark Freese and Bill Stevenson were delegated by Mu Alpha chapter to attend the National Conclave at the University of Maine in Orono, Maine.

The social calendar was by no means bare and kept all Phi Mu Delts busy planning for the First Nighter's Party, a traditional party at which a take-off of a play production was presented. Following this were the Christmas Party for underprivileged children, the Pigalle Party which was characterized by "sexy" French costumes, the fabulous Monte Carlo Party with its roulette wheels and paper money, exchange dinners, hour dances, the quarterly formals, and the Founder's Day Picnic held in the spring in honor of the alumni.

Intramural sports claimed a share of the Phi Mu Delts' time as volleyball, football, bowling, baseball, and basketball were participated in throughout the year. Both active and pledge football teams won top honors in their respective leagues. Active in Varsity sports were Jim Prentice, baseball; and Don Lewis, a freshman football manager.

Norman Motko could well be sighted the outstanding Phi Mu Delt in activities such as Ohio Staters, OSPA, Treasurer of A. I. E. E. and Vice President of Phi Mu Delta. A certain pledge, Jerry Glick, is giving Norm a bit of competition as he may be seen working in the F.F.C. and F.A.O. offices at the Ohio Union.

"The best things come in small packages," and this small package is Bob Brickner, the Phi Mu Delt's candidate for Golddiggers' King. His friendly smile made many a coed's heart skip a beat throughout the entire campaign.

Phi Sigma Delta

The Big White House on the hill stood out whiter than ever this year after its new spring paint job. The men of Omicron got out the paint brushes and started to work; but all was not work for in the two week period that it took to paint the house, much of the paint ended up on the many helpful painters. To supplement the paint, water, milk, tea (?) and the like, found final resting places on the brothers and pledges.

During Spring Quarter, the chapter had a ship wreck party. The house was decorated like a small desert island, with tropical animals imported from the zoo. Later, the famous Phi Sig Spring Champagne Orchid Formal was held at Winding Hollow Country Club followed by a day of picnicing down at Circleville. Fall Quarter the Phi Sigs had a circus party called "The Greatest Show on Earth". The affair was held in a big tent in the back yard with everyone in circus costume. The tent burned down the next day leaving the social expenses high for this year in Phi Sigma Delta.

Homecoming was great for the Phi Sigs because so many of the alums came back and brought with them the color of the post war college days. This is the time when the Bear Gradsky trophy was presented to Lushwell. All of Winter Quarter affairs were great, but nothing could top Winter Weekend. The dinner dance at the Beechwold brought back famous alums, and a certain noted Miss Himie Stockfish. The following night, at the frat lodge, a wonderful stage show was put on by Bob Schacter and the boys. All of the winter quarter affairs were preceded by refined cocktails at the Bachelor's Club.

1968 Iuka Avenue

Like all fraternities on campus, the Phi Sigs have a few important activity men. Such persons are Mort Merchy, Secretary of Fraternity Affairs Office, President of the Sophomore Class, and Bucket and Dipper member; Mel Pearlman, Business Manager of the 1953 Makio, Romophos member and President of "Slick and Sly" (Phi Sig's junior honorary); Jack Krause, President of Beta Gamma Sigma; Jerry Gordon, President of the Ulcers Club, Jerry Golub, President of the Bachelors Club, and Stan Schneider varsity fencer. The most notable Phi Sigs of all are Micky Berman and Hy Stockfish, for they are founders of "Slick and Sly" and "Max and Myer" (fraternity senior honorary).

Substituting for Mirror Lake during Winter Quarter, Lurie, Kaplan, and Golub get Sussel in the end.

Stock is turning the ox while other chefs, Doc, Hogan and Pierce look on with drooling mouths.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Van Johnson has nothing on big bashful Lee Pitcher, the newly elected king of the Zeta Tau Alphas at their annual Valentine's Party. The whole Zeta Tau Alpha sorority lined up to kiss their new king but some girls weren't satisfied with one kiss and immediately lined up again. Hey, what's this Lee's technique, fellas?

A well rounded social program with parties galore had a special emphasis on Phi Sig life. Many colorful costumes were seen at the fall Bowery Brawl; Shirley Fitner and Thurl Blume won the prize for the best dressed couple. Also included in the fall events was a Homecoming party honoring John Hlay and Bernie Skvarka at the Fiesta Club. Winter quarter was highlighted by two special occasions, the formal at the Whitehouse and a Pirate Party at which John Chapman displayed the longest sideburns in the fraternity. Spring found F. A. Henninger, guest speaker at the annual Founder's Day Banquet at the old homestead. Chuck Rye and Dane Charles were given special recognition in outstanding contribution to the fraternity and in scholarship respectively.

Phi Sigs are well represented in Varsity competition with such stars as Bernie Skvarka and John Hlay on the gridiron. Other varsity participants are Herb Reed, captain of the Rifle team and Buck Leach on the varsity Fencing Team.

The Phi Sig actives added a new trophy for intramural softball to their collection. Bowling, football, basketball, and volleyball also found participants. In activities we find Dick Borders, vice president of Alpha Omega; Richard Gleason, the Commodore of the Sailing Club; Thurl Blume and Joe Cossetti in Ohio Staters; and Ron Halterman on the Ag Student Staff.

The Ides of March is nearing, could these three young men be figuring their income tax, or just gin scores.

Pi Kappa Alpha

"What! Pi Kappa Alpha is the only fraternity at Ohio State with its own campus!" These were the words uttered by the PiKA national secretary when one of the brothers made a comment to that effect concerning our two houses to him.

Yes, that's right, Pi Kappa Alpha has two houses, not just one; they sit happily side by side on two little hills overlooking 15th Avenue. The first floor of one house is used as the dining room, and that of the other is the living room. The sleeping rooms occupy the second and third floors of both houses.

There has been a considerable amount of discussion about connecting the two houses into one huge magnificent palace, but the PiKAs admit that a project such as that may be some distance from realization.

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded during the bleak years following the war between the states. In 1868 six students from the University of Virginia started an organization which has since grown to include 105 chapters and more than forty thousand members. There are chapters and members in every state in the Union, and the fraternity is expanding rapidly every year.

There are PiKAs in every important walk of life. It is very difficult indeed to go anywhere that great men are gathered and not find a wearer of the Shield and Diamond, as the fraternity's badge is called. Such men include General Courtney C. Hodges and Lynn "Pappy" Waldorf, head coach at the University of California.

Alpha Rho, Ohio State's chapter, is not neglected in this notable list of names. The chapter was founded in 1912, and has since produced such men as Wesley Fesler, football coach at Minnesota and All-American from Ohio State; Gomer Jones, another football All-American; Milo J. Warner, past president of the American Legion; James E. Pollard, head of the O.S.U. Department of Journalism; and many others.

During the past school year there have been many functions to relieve the routine of school work. Two formals were held; the annual Dream Girl presented at the one in the spring. There were penthouse parties, hay rides, house parties, and the annual celebrations of Founders' Day and Mothers' Day. These social events are occasions that will always be remembered as an important part of PiKA

"Tote that barge, lift that bail," wail these slaves as they labor under the watchful paddle of a frat brother.

Suspense . . . Fear . . . Hope . . . Concentration . . . These Pi Kappa Alpha men really seem to play for keeps.

"Now listen you guys, I was there and I saw it myself, so don't you try to tell me how it happened."

All that attention to a little ball when more should be given to the hidden art in the corner.

109 E. Twelfth Avenue

Psi chapter of Psi Omega. Unusual perhaps, but men at Ohio State have had this professional dental fraternity going at top speed for over half a century. That's right, there were dentists back in 1901 when this chapter was founded, but Psi Omega didn't have members to the tune of 140 men as they have now. Thirty-five of these dental majors live in the house; however, within the next two years they plan to move to a larger residence with better facilities and larger accommodations for the men.

Relying on Les Horvath, football star and Heisman Trophy winner in 1944, for a famous name in sports, this chapter is now proud to have Dick Widdoes, Larry Andrews, and Dick Arledge, football team members, associated with it. Widdoes is also a member of the golf team. Dave Ford, swimming star, and Ray Gebhardt, baseball team member, also belong to Psi Omega.

What's new in the Daily News? These fellas can tell you what's new because they all look pretty engrossed.

What have we here? Looks like the Psi Omegas have incorporated KP as a part of their pledge training.

Psi Omega

Recognition in intramural volleyball is obvious as the championship has been won by the dentists for the last three years, and they came out on top in both divisions this year. Furthermore, they reached the semi-finals in basketball and had two league winners in bowling. Spring Quarter had men participating in every intramural sport available.

Newly initiated this year is a seminar program held bi-monthly at which men in the field speak on everything from children's dentistry to dental equipment. This is to help the men become more familiar with the field of dentistry as a whole.

Prominent alumni include Dr. Wendell D. Postle, dean of the dental school and Ohio State faculty representative to the Big Ten. Dr. C. O. Boucher is editor of the Prosthetic Journal of Dentistry.

A new recognition, the Alton K. Brashear Award was presented to the senior who has shown himself to be outstanding in extra-curricular activities as well as in scholarship, along with the Dr. C. O. Boucher Award for the graduating senior with the highest scholastic average, was presented at the annual formal senior recognition banquet and dance held in the Spring Quarter. Dr. Boucher, national president of Psi Omega, presented the awards this year.

Other things take a notable place in Psi Omega's yearly program; for example, in a recent poll it was found that only six of the 32 seniors are not married. Also of note is the fact that the stadium's goalposts were found on the roof of the Psi Omega house the day after the Pittsburgh game. They are now in the back yard. Unusual, to say the least.

Traditions around the Psi Omega house, practically speaking, are Carl Cobb, house man and Annie Spratley, cook. They both have been serving the fraternity for over 25 years.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

In its fifty-fourth year on Ohio State's campus, Sigma Alpha Epsilon still continues to lead the way among farternities. This year the Sig Alphs have started the new rotating Homecoming Award Trophy. The trophy is four feet high and is presented each year to the outstanding player of the Homecoming game. This year the trophy was awarded to Fred Bruney who was chosen by five sports writers. The Homecoming Decorations won honorable mention and were really quite excellent. The theme was "Never Underestimate the Power of the Mighty Buck." The buck was a huge one dollar bill with a vault on one side. Inside were the Michigan players. A bank book was on the other side with the withdrawals listed as the teams O.S.U. lost to and Michigan was listed as the deposit.

Of course Ohio Theta continued in its brilliant social traditions, highlighted during the Autumn quarter by the Fall Formal which was held at the Whitehouse. The girls were given necklaces with the fraternity crest for favors. A Christmas Orphans party was held with the Pi Phis to entertain the children. Winter and Spring quarters were also brightened by the Adagio Cassino party which was held at the house where there were roulette wheels, blackjack, and other gambling games. The house was decorated accordingly. The Roman Wine and Purple Passion parties were also exceptionally good ones Besides the different theme parties there were picnics, record dances, and square dances. This year's program was climaxed by the annual S.A.E. Spring formal.

Stepping from the social calendar into the activities world one finds many of the brothers in the campus life. These include Ed Keeling who plays Varsity basketball and Tom Jacoby who is a Buckeye trackster. Other outstanding Sig Alphs are Joe O'Neal, Ohio Union Dance Committee Chairman; Harry Erb, Sphinx and Ohio Staters; Bob Craig, Sophomore Secretary of the Student Senate and a member of Romophos; and Dick Bailey, campus Senator and treasurer of Romophos.

Dick Bailey, Bill Harris, Bud Hauser, Dick Gambs, and Chuck Gaty engage in a friendly game of Red Dog.

Our game of red dog has moved to the piano now, and we will soon hear a rendition of Carmen Ohio.

SAE's were out rooting for their team and really showed it by their stupendous homecoming decoration.

"It will be on tomorrow's quiz — mark my words."
"Here it is in the book. Now don't forget it."

1962 Iuka Avenue

This year, Sigma Alpha Mu was honored to have been presented the Founders' Day cup by their national council for having the best chapter in the United States. With this great honor behind them, the Sigma Beta chapter continues to grow, having recently purchased a new annex and pledged thirty-six new members. Fall quarter the Sammies were off to a busy school year on and around the campus, socially and otherwise.

The fraternity entered into many activities during fall quarter, such as house parties and informal dances. The most outstanding of these events were the "Arabian Nights" theme party and the Homecoming weekend.

It must be a game of Parchesi that has Sam Bernstein, Ron Gross, Larry Glass, and Bill Treuhaft intrigued.

Sigma Alpha Mu

Winter quarter brought the Sammies the successful Winter Week-end parties consisting of the formal dance at the Gold Roo mof the Fort Hayes Hotel and a "Showboat" theme party planned solely by the pledges and held at the house. This resulted in a very entertaining evening with all thanks due to the pledge class.

The chapter was quite pleased by the huge success of the Pledge Bowling Team which won the University Bowling championship. Other things to be remembered were the result of the work of Art Kaplansky, who served as head of Greek Week; and another campus leader, Burt Eichler, who served as publicity chairman for May Week. Jerry Schwartz was tapped for Sphinx, while Alan Klein became a member of Bucket and Dipper. Romophos claimed Don Gross, Dave Katz, and Art Shone. Ronald Cohen and Don Grossfield completed the picture by serving on the debate team.

Pledges and actives alike have worked industriously in various extra-curricular activities. Among the philanthropic work done was a Christmas party given for the children at the Bureau of Juvenile Research.

Officers elected for the past year were Frank Glassgall, president; Frederick Weber, Vice-President and treasurer; Bob Frank, Social Chairman; and Seymour Glick, Pledge Trainer.

There's never a dull moment in the Sammy house. A vitalized group of pledges had no trouble finding ways to irritate the actives. Pledge agitation was carried through very well in Winter Quarters with the hiding of mattresses of the active chapter—a final touch of tenderness to the life of the "Sammies."

"Hey, didja hear the news about ol' 'Cleve'? He's gonna captain next years swimming team. Crazy eh?"

"Yeh, but when you stop to think about it, this entire year was a crazy one for the Sigs. If they weren't swapping toothbrushes with the Kappas, they were swapping butterscotch pie dessert."

Always firm believers in a quick start, the Alpha Gamma brothers started out a jump ahead of everybody by corraling an extra great pledge class before the school year even started. Sigs had more representatives in honoraries this year than any other fraternity on campus. Campus activities being an important part of their fraternity program, brothers held many key positions. Bill Judy served as Homecoming Chairman and Dave Bell was secretary-treasurer of Fraternity Affairs. Dick Botsch was Union public relations director and Ken Langhout, Editor of the Makio. Freshmen John Keats and Chuck Arnsbarger held two top freshman positions.

Besides grabbing league crowns in intramural football and basketball and going into the swimming meet as defending champs, the men from 260 E. 15th boasted an impressive number of varsity men too. Howard "Hop" Cassady, Earl Bechtel and Paul Ludwig were on Brother Hayes' football squad; pledges John Auer and Rusty Holden stuck it out on the frosh team. Baseball claimed Sigs Dick Mylander and Bill Wisler and the LaCrosse team was crowded with Sigma Chis, namely Darrell Apt, Jim Jarvis and Burke Bero.

260 E. Fifteenth Avenue

Worlds record holder Dick Cleveland, NCAA Diver Champ, Gerry Harrison, and "Mo" Shapiro sparked the O.S.U. swimming team to a Big Ten crown.

Among all this was sandwiched an exceptionally successful program. Numerous houseparties and sport dances plus hayrides and a "Gin Jug" Party were complimented by three formals and a tremendous Homecoming Banquet. Beside the spring formal and the Miami Triad, of course, was the Annual Sweetheart weekend which was the greatest ever. The weekend was climaxed at the dance when blonde, blue-eyed Lee Eyestone of Alpha Phi was announced the 1953 Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

Mickey Williams and Rog Glander look on as gifts were given to orphans at annual Christmas party.

22 E. Sixteenth Avenue

All was quiet in the Sigma Nu dormitory at 3 a.m. on a brisk March morning when suddenly there was a blinding flash of light followed by a thunderous roar. While the startled brothers wondered whether the A-bomb had come, it was discovered that two of the more playful brothers had set off a harmless fire-bomb, and all was well. This incident, along with others, helps keep life exciting between social whirls at the Sigma Nu house.

Sigma Nu

The men who wear the five-pointed star continue to lead the way in campus life with their well-rounded social calendar. Besides the weekly football parties, and of course, Homecoming, the fall quarter was completed with the Christmas Formal and its magnificent buffet. A special dinner party was given this year honoring Brother Johnny Long when he appeared on campus with his band.

Winter quarter at the "Snakes Pit" brought on the annual Tahitian Party and the Mardi Gras. The house is completely decorated for these parties. For the former the basement party room takes on a South Sea island appearance with sand, palm trees, and other decorations following that theme. During the spring, Sigma Nu Weekend saw the chapter house take on a feminine touch as the brother's dates moved into the house for a three-day weekend which was culminated by the annual White Rose Formal. Founder's Day brought the collegiate chapter together with the alumni for the annual banquet.

The men of Sigma Nu break away from social life to take an active part in campus activities. Among the more prominent are Art Kowars, president of OSPA; Frank Stevens, Sphinx; Bill Kozel and Jim Dyer, Tau Beta Pi; Tony Tuccillo, vice-president of FFC; Gil Roeder and Bill Long, the versatile M.C.'s of Candlelight Inn; and Al Rea, chairman of last year's Gainer Cup committee.

In the field of athletics Bill Arner is a member of the lacrosse team; Lou Lopez, track; Ted Rader, football and wrestling; Bud Winzenried, wrestling; and Bill Stump, fencing.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

To celebrate the forty-fifth anniversary of the Ohio Gamma chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon, the pledges planned a little ride for members of the active chapter. However, someone else got into the act and quietly removed a most prized possession, the traditional red door of the Sig Ep house. Next morning Sig Eps found this "most prized possession" floating in Mirror Lake!

"Parties, banquets, and balls" . . . yes, the Sig Eps registered plenty on the Social Calendar. Party time started immediately with hayrides, house parties, the Fall Formal, Homecoming, and was climaxed with the annual Christmas Smorgasbord. Spring Quarter the mothers took over the house for Mothers' Weekend.

To let your conscience be your guide is not merely a saying as far as John Crawford is concerned because it was his "conscience", part of his lively Golddiggers skit, which was remembered by campus coeds for whom he performed when they elected him a member of the Golddiggers Court. The Sig Eps, always known for their original Golddiggers skits, composed for the occasion an original tune—"The Johnny Crawford Swing."

Throughout the quarter Sigma Phi Epsilons also kept busy in campus activities. We refer to Tom Wheeler, president of the Junior Class, president of Sigma Phi Epsilon, and curtain puller in Strollers; Keith Clymer, a varsity swimming team member; Dick Johnson, the managing editor of the Ohio State Engineer; Jim Lane, president of Alpha Phi Omega, editor of the Union Activities Booklet, and member of Bucket and Dipper; John Crawford, Director of Block O; and Bob Coldren, one of the OSU track team's most promising milers.

154 E. Woodruff Avenue

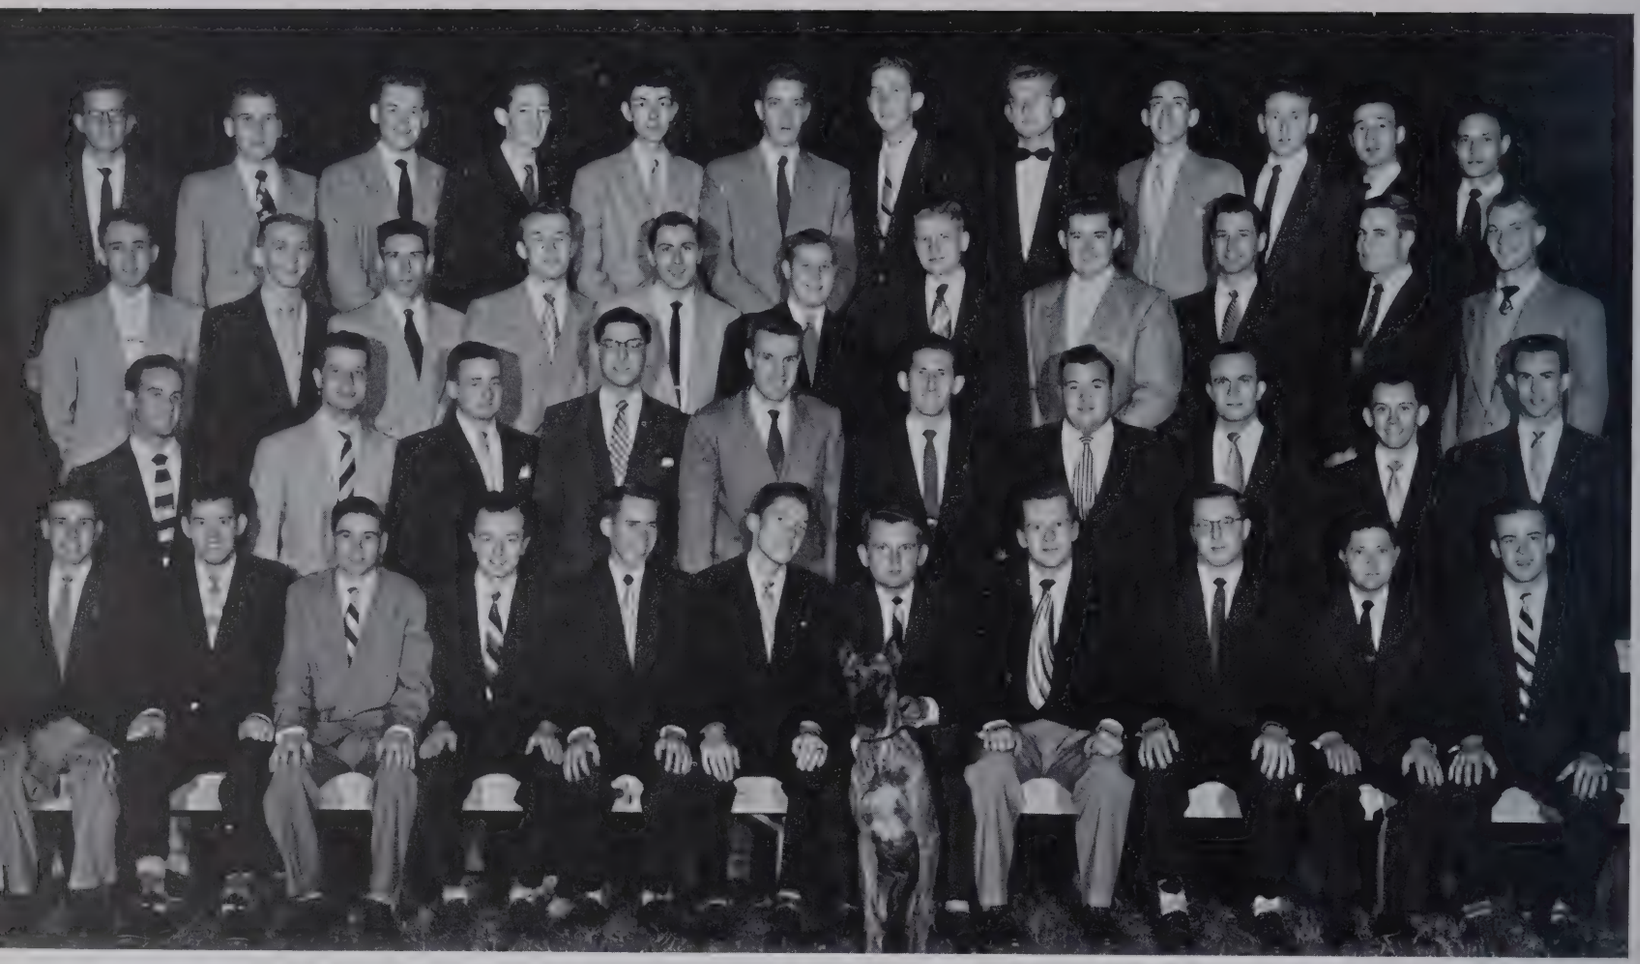
The Sig Eps were honored by many outstanding speakers at their meetings and banquets this year. Outstanding speakers such as the Reverend Fred Christain during Religion in Life Week and Mylon Ross at the Beans and Steak Dinner are examples.

The men of Sig Ep are proud of their many famous alumni found in various fields. For example there are Woody Herman, Hal Boyle, nationally known newspaper columnist, Lynn Huston, great lineman of the Cleveland Browns football team, and Dave Templeton, Buckeye football captain in 1946.

An excuse for the expressions; "the man said to smile but we just didn't quite make it in time — so . . . "

"Our John Crawford" sends chills through the girls, (what kind we don't know) as he campaigns for golddiggers.

Bob McDonald, Renie Reely, Chuck Mowery, and Maureen O'Hara languor in the realm of Sig Ep South Seas.



Sigma Pi

A hard times Homecoming party at Oak Park, preceded by an alumni dinner at the house opened another fun filled social season for Sigma Pi. Winter Quarter was highlighted by the Founders' Day Banquet at the Fiesta Club, complete with dinner music. This was followed by the annual Orchid Formal, at which time a queen, chosen from the girls at the dance, was presented with an orchid crown.

The social calendar was further filled with pledge-active costume parties and a Christmas party for underprivileged children. At that time, Dick Carr and Jim Sabin entertained with a serenade of songs accompanied by a ukelele, while Ron Turner served as a naturally padded Santa Claus. The pledges gave a Parisian Sidewalk Cafe party in the Fall. The Winding Hollow Country Club was the scene of the annual Spring formal, which brought a climax to the social agenda for the year.

Sigma Pi observes Help Week rather than Hell Week. Their house has taken on a new look since the pledges painted the rooms and improved the card room, a favorite haunt after study hours. The pledges are usually sent to other chapters at Purdue and Pitt some time during their pledgeship.

The fraternity points with pride to their activity men. John Foulkes served on the Council of Fraternity Presidents and as vice president of TAES. Claude Goldsmith, politician of the house, was a prominant OSPA member while Gale Root was producer-announcer for WOIO. Bop enthusiast, Roy Imhoff, is a Jass Forum member who imitates the singing style of the Four Freshmen, all at once. He is also known for a fabulous collection of jazz records and an unlimited repertoire of bop jokes.

"Robertson's Buckeye" is Sigma Pi's mascot, better known as Buck. After surviving a nerve-wracking house breaking period, the Great Dane is now considered quite a nice house dog. The members despaired until he learned to bark, but when he finally accomplished this feat—he didn't stop!

On May 27, 1927, a group of ten men founded Tau Delta Chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi. Its basic purpose was to function as a social fraternity. Since that time it has well established itself along these, as well as scholastic lines. Among the outstanding affairs were the all-important Homecoming weekend dance and the formal dances of Winter and Spring Quarters.

Autumn Quarter of the past year came to an end with many events to be remembered. Scholastically, the TEP's stood quite high in comparison with other fraternities. Socially, the annual cabaret dance was held in conjunction with Dads' Day; a Kiddie Party, Marty says, "This guy says that he will give me $5000 if I tell him who is buried in Grant's tomb. Who is?

Al Feldman is casting a disgusted look at the music. He must think that they're singing about him.

Tau Epsilon Phi

hayrides, and other affairs were held on an average of once every two weeks. The end of the quarter rolled around with the entertainment of children from the Franklin County Orphanage at Christmas time. This annual Christmas party is held in conjunction with Delta Phi Epsilon, for underprivileged children in and around Columbus.

The Winter Quarter social calendar included a formal at Ilonka's Provincial House, a "Meet Me At The Fair" costume party, a roller skating party, and others. In spite of their heavy social schedule, the fraternity men continued to study diligently in order to maintain a high scholastic standard.

The Tau Epsilon Phi members are proud of famous alumni such as Irving Kaufman, federal judge; Benny Goodman, famed band leader musician; and Harold Rome, composer-lyricist who wrote words and music to Broadway hit "Wish You Were Here," and other famous Broadway hits. Here on our own campus the chapter is proud of such men as Lou Goorey, secretary of Tau Epsilon Phi, newly elected secretary of Phi Eta Sigma, and member of Alpha Epsilon Delta, a pre-med honorary. Al Feldan, another outstanding member, is junior-class senator, and a member of Ohio Staters.

During the past several summers, the TEP house has taken on a new look. The living room has been redecorated and the kitchen and dining room completely remodeled. This is in keeping with the policy of the last few years; when in 1951, the upstairs floors were redecorated, and in 1950, the basement was remodeled.

Chapter life is well rounded by the fact that athletic attributes have been bringing new intramural trophies into the house throughout the year. With this final stamp, the TEP's fulfill another successful year.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

The Tekes are noted for their "Ginch Brother" affairs. Hidden up on Seventeenth avenue, the "Ginch Brothers", a self-perpetuating body of five men (a different five each year), run wild by throwing the biggest extravaganzas in the lives of the men of Tau Kappa Epsilon. This year, as well as every year, the Ginch Brothers party was a milestone, indeed.

The Teke's do not lag in functions throughout the year. One of their annual affairs, the Christmas party at Nightingale Children's Hospital, was most successful. This party is a traditional event for the Tekes, as they have sponsored this party ever since 1931. It is a great day for the children at Nightingale. Before the party itself, the Tekes find out what gifts, within reason, each child wants. Thus, they can be sure each gift is a special treasure. To supplement the gift-giving, is entertainment, well provived by Teke men, and ice cream and cake.

Another important event in the year for Tau Kappa Epsilon, is the Founder's Day banquet, held in January. This annual affair is formally in honor of Julius Rudinsky, who, in coming to America some years ago to get a degree in animology, was boarded by the Tekes. The banquet is held at the Teke house. One of the speakers of the evening was, this year, Dr. Dice, who is number one on Omicron's scroll. Another speaker, and well-known man about campus, was Mylin Ross, Dean of Men.

On the social side of the calendar, are the familiar and important formals. This year, the Winter Formal was held at the Whitehouse. Dressed in their best, the Tekes and their dates enjoyed a great event.

234 E. Seventeenth Avenue

Spring Week-end was a magnificent affair, long to be remembered. Friday night, the events began, with a square dance at Cubbage Corners. This was a frolicking evening, which ended with booming thunder showers. Saturday evening, most formally attired, the Teke's took their dates to Granville, for dinner and dancing at the Greenville Inn. The dance, the annual "Red Carnation Ball" was spectacular in every way.

The Teke's have their hand in athletics, too. Within the house, they prize the trophy for golf intramurals. Last, but not least, men of TKE well represented Ohio State in the Polio Campaign. With a combo on the corner of Broad and High, they collected a great deal of money for a great cause.

Here we have Bob Pope preping a new boy to take Editor Ed Green's place—think he'll make the grade, Ed?

"But sir, the letters will wear out." (Of course, the whip is fake). Ha, Ha, who's kidding who about this?

Music soothes the savage beast, or is it that it drives him insane? Which would you say from this picture?

Theta Chi

118 14th Avenue has undergone a complete face-lifting since the Theta Chi's redecorated their house. The place was buzzing with activity as they completed the job by re-carpeting the downstairs, painting the rooms upstairs, and installing book shelves and new desks and chairs.

Many of the members have taken an active part in intramural sports and in campus activities this year. The fraternity recognizes the individual achievements of such brothers as: Jim Hawkins, assistant circulation manager of Sundial; John Manning, chairman of publicity for the Pledge Princess Prom; Paul Brause, who was active in OSPA; and Jerry Blackburn, Jack Wertz, and Jim Hawkins, who served on committees for Greek Week.

Fall Quarter found the Theta Chi's entertaining with a Homecoming dance at the Granville Inn. This event was attended by 20 alumni. Music was provided by a six piece band and the pinned couples were serenaded. The outstanding social function of the Winter season was the annual Bowery Ball held at the Kimco Club. Prizes were awarded for the best 1890 costume and Jack Wertz, Ed Fisher, Fred McFadden, and Dick Koon entertained with songs.

Spring Quarter was filled with several big social events such as the formal at the Columbus Riding Club, and for the first time, a Tri-Chi dance, given with Lambda Chi and Delta Chi. This informal dance, held at Mac Park, aided in promoting interfraternity relationships by having each chapter present a skit. A national speaker was present at the Founders' Day Banquet in April, which was held at the Beechwold.

A group of the more intellectual boys wrestling with the chess set. Theta Chi culture in the raw.

Various theme parties, such as a Kiddie and Fun House Party, rounded out the social calendar for the year. At the suppressed desire party, each one portrayed a character he wished to be while a new record for the house was required upon entrance to the record party.

Upon winning a bet made on the Homecoming football game, Alpha Lambda chapter at Ohio State received a wall skin from the rival chapter of Theta Chi at Michigan. In retaliation, the 20 fraternity brothers from Ann Arbor left with this chapter's trophies and other skins.

The new game of Chinguay seems to be sweeping the nation and the bug has hit the Theta Chi house.

That's the craziest ash tray we ever saw but then we imagine the Theta Chi's find other uses for it.

Everyone's smiling as the winning point is about to cross the net. Even the spectators are glad.

Members of Theta Kappa Phi returned to 227 15th last fall to find some changes made. The downstairs living and dining rooms, lounges, and furniture were completely re-decorated during the summer.

This seemed to be a year for house parties since the Theta Kaps entertained with many successful ones. The Homecoming house dance had actives traveling to Marion, Ohio, for a piano. When they finally secured one, it wouldn't play, so they were forced to haul up the dilapidated one from downstairs. This job proved to be a harrowing experience for "Big Jack" Verhoff, a member of the freshman football team. The house now possesses a new piano, at which Jim Fodey is usually found practicing his ragtime style.

The pledges planned the Halloween party in the Fall. Members and their dates came in original costumes and prizes were awarded for the games. During Winter Quarter, the pledges joined the actives in presenting a Casino Party, where a pledge princess was chosen by the actives from among the pledges' dates. Besides the pledge princess contest and the casino games, the pledges entertained with a radio skit and all brought records for the house.

Winter Quarter was topped off with the annual formal held at the Fort Hayes Gold Room. More than 25 alumni were present Spring Quarter brought another formal and a picnic sponsored by the alumni climaxed the social season.

The Theta Kaps recently initiated a new system of pledge training by which merits and demerits are given to pledges according to the work they do, the grades they achieve, and the activities to which they participate. Study hours are strictly enforced and Fall Quarter, Theta Kappa Phi ranked second among social fraternities having the highest point hour and seventh of all fraternities on campus.

The fraternity recognizes the achievements of such brothers as Tom Tracy, who was elected to Alpha Kappa Psi, and Mike Ryan, a Major in advanced AFROTC, who is a member of Scabbard and Blade and the Arnold Air Society.

In April, the men of Gamma chapter here and the Theta Kaps of Kent State met in Ada, Ohio, for the annual Tri-Chapter meet. Social functions and a business meeting were enjoyed by all who attended.

Theta Tau

Coming home from the national convention this year, the men of the Ohio Sigma Chapter of Theta Tau were heavily laden with honors received during the convention session. The Chapter received the Eric J. Schrader Award given to the outstanding Chapter of Theta Tau this year, and Peter Minderman, fraternity President, was voted the outstanding delegate at the convention this year.

Theta Tau is the oldest and largest professional engineering fraternity in the United States. The Sigma Chapter was established at Ohio State in 1924 by the former Engineer's Club. Since that time, the fraternity has maintained a high standard of professional development between its members and the Engineering College. Theta Tau was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1904 and now has twenty-seven national chapters with a total membership of 14,000.

Notes about the year's social functions at 1946 Indianola Ave. yield information about special Fall and Spring Formals, several house parties, and banquets. Since membership in Theta Tau is limited to upper classmen, the fraternal bond is strengthened by a common field of interest.

In addition to providing a social life for its members, the Sigma Chapter offers a leadership and professional development program for the engineer. Theta Tau men are found in all engineering activities and in many other campus organizations. Prominent members proving this fact are Art Malek, President of The Association Of Industrial Electrical Engineers; George Koch, President of The Association Of Industrial Chemical Engineers; Bob Grogan, President of The Society Of Automotive Engineers; and Don Lorimer, President of The Engineers' Council. Five members of Theta Tau possess Tau Beta Pi pins, and three men are members of Texnikoi.

Jack Warden, seated and facing us, doesn't dig these crazy cards.

Prominent actives . . . yes, but that's not all. Theta Tau has prominent alumni, too. Russell B. Glass, President, National Professional Inter-Fraternity Council; Theodore J. Kauer, former Director Ohio Department of Highways, now Director of The Ohio Turnpike Commission; and General Curtis B. LeMay, Chief of Staff, Strategic Air Command are famous alums.

The present Theta Tau Chapter house was purchased two years ago. Improving the property has required a lot of hard work, but the Hammer and Tongs spirit has given good results.

These engineers cannot make up their minds whether to play a symphony or some rare Stan Kenton music.

With a hayride and Halloween party, the Theta Xi's embarked upon another successful social year. Dressed in original costumes for the occasion, the members and their dates were forced to enter the house first through the basement window and then through an obstacle course, complete with frightening noises

Winter Quarter was highlighted by another costume party, this time with a French theme. The house was decorated cabaret style and music was furnished by Theta Xi's own combo, made up of Mel Ponzi, Jack Upchurch, Ray Beans, and Bill Collins. The annual Winter formal was held at the White House, where they danced to the music of the Ebony Rhythm Boys. A queen, chosen from the girls at the dance, was presented with a dozen roses.

The Spring season brought the Sweetheart formal and the Founders' Day Banquet. The banquet, held at the Columbus Maennerchor Club, was attended by the original founders of the chapter. A traveling trio played music during the dinner.

Theta Xi won the league championship in bowling, just one of the intramural sports in which the members took an active part this year. During football season, the whole fraternity had a block in "C" deck. The members had all their fathers here for Dad's Day, when they entertained them with the game and dinner.

Outstanding among the Theta Xi's is Joe Yerina, who served as president of Alpha Pi Mu and is a member of Texnikoi, Tau Beta Pi, and the Engineers' Council. Jim Yerina is also a member of Tau Beta Pi, while Ken Abel was initiated to Kappa Phi Kappa. Ken, Dick Ricketts, and Mel Ponzi are members of the Ohio State Marching Band.

For having the most original booth at the May Week Carnival last year, the fraternity was awarded a trophy. "TX Frog Hop" was the name of their booth which used the live amphibians.

Theta Xi boasts of many prominent alums such as Fred Pumphrey, one of the original founders, who has recently written a textbook on electrical engineering which is used in over 50 universities. Walter Miles, chapter adviser, owns and operates a chain of drive-in theaters and is a member of the Movie Censorship Board of Ohio State. Another Theta Xi, Charles Bradley, is presently serving on the Ohio State Turnpike Commission.

Triangle

When it comes to men who participate in campus activities, Triangle really balances on the black side of the ledger. Al Filsinger, Editor of the Ohio State Engineer, President of The Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, and member of Texnikoi; Glen Midkiff, Varsity Basketball Manager; George Cramer, Vice President of Triangle and Secretary of The Ohio Society of Professional Engineers; Dick Girk, Treasurer OSPE; Jim Cockfield, Texnikoi and representative to The Engineers' Council; Dick Chipman, representative to The Engineers' Council; Bill Seitz, Phi Tau Sigma, Mechanical Engineering Honorary; and Maynard Walker, Chi Upsilon, Civil Engineering Honorary are some of the men that really prove this fact.

A group of Civil Engineers at the University of Illinois founded Triangle in 1907. There are now seventeen national chapters. The Ohio State Chapter was established in 1911.

Thomas Kuhn led the men through the year's program. Mr. Harry Hawley, Triangle alumnus, was guest speaker at the Winter Smoker. Professor Powell was the speaker at the Triangle house during Religion In Life Week.

Fireworks during the past twelve months were provided by the brothers of Triangle. James Cockfield was stamped "the colorful clown" in honor of his ability to "tell" stories, shoot pool, fall into the bathtub, and wrestle among the best . . . and he really put on quite a show when defending the superiority of Petroleum Engineering to other branches. James Reid was stamped "the quiet clown" for he gave out with anecdotes and quips that were "real gone." Jim was quite an emcee and he really has a knack for skit compositions. Just ask him . . . he'll tell you!

Aw, com'on now, you're carrying this slide rule gag a little too far.

Fun . . . Fellowship . . . Fireworks all were a part of the year's business at 65 13th Ave., the home of the Ohio State Chapter of Triangle, national fraternity of engineers and architects.

Coloring the social column this year were the Winter Formal which was a Valentine Dance entitled, "Cupid's Capers"; a Christmas Party at which time the brothers presented gifts to a children's hospital; a Homecoming Dance after the Michigan game; smokers; a Spring Formal; a Founder's Day Banquet; and many house parties. The Triangle Mother's Club gave a square dance during Fall Quarter and another one during Spring Quarter.

Jim Reid, George Cramer, and Alan Bischoff are trying to make fun of Miller Clarke's drawing.

"New York" in all its splendor and glory was witnessed by many an Ohio Stater at the ZBT's biggest social affair of this year—the Damon Runyon Party. Over three hundred man-hours were spent by many an energetic pledge and active decorating for the fabulous affair in which the house was completely redone to represent Times Square, Mindy's Restaurant, a bookie joint, etc. Everyone came dressed as Damon Runyon characters and devoured chocolate phosphates and hot dogs. Contests, such as eating and rope pulling were featured. Members of ZBT donated over $400 to the Damon Runyon fund and were given six neckties, which are usually awarded to large donors. The ZBT's are in hopes that other fraternities throughout the country will follow their example in having these parties for such a deserving charity.

In celebration of the election, an "I like Ike" party was given, along with a Movie Star party, a New Year's Eve party, a Yacht party of the "Monte Carlo" type given by the pledges, a Phi Psi and ZBT combined party at the Macedonia Club, and the Winter Weekend Formal Dinner Dance at the Fort Hayes Hotel in addition to Initiation and Senior Banquets.

Athletics claimed its spot in ZBT life as the brothers came out league champs in volleyball and basketball. The four-man intramural team in golf must not be forgotten as they battled their way to the runner-up position in the University Golf Tournament. In varsity sports we find Mike Damsky in basketball, and Gene Shipley in lacross.

174 E. Woodruff Avenue

When it comes to activities the ZBT's are in there solid with Ron Kohn, advertising manager of the Sundial; Howie Weiner, Business Co-ordinator of the Makio; Dick Kohn, President of the Arts Council, a member of Romophos, Sphinx, Sigma Delta Chi, and the Senior Class Cabinet; Jim Yasinow, Vice-President of Sigma Delta Chi, a member of the executive committee of the Buckeye Political Party, and news commentator for WOSU and WOIO; and Stu Scheingold, a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, the commerce scholastic honorary.

Not being satisfied with the honor of finalists in the Greek Week Stunt Night, the ZBT's went on to win the Hillel Stunt Night.

He shot the ball into the air and where it lands he did not care, but his opponents seem too.

Get your money on your lucky number and win the big prizes on this ZBT Fac's Fair wheel of fortune.

Jimmy Yasinow gets a big laugh out of the boys as he makes a crack about Golddigger candidate Neil Newman.

Canfield Hall

Canfield Hall is the palace of "Cinderellie" better known as Ellie Boley, Ohio State's 1952 Homecoming Queen. The entire dorm buzzed for weeks with activity during Fall Quarter in preparation for Ellie's campaign, and the girls all co-operated in making it such a success. In February, Ellie also represented Ohio State in the Big Ten Queen Contest, where she took second place.

This year was one of awards for Canfield Hall. Besides being the home of the Homecoming Queen, Canfield won first prize in the dormitory May Day float contest (1952), and third prize for Homecoming decorations.

Each quarter was highlighted by a formal or party: "Hawaiian Paradise" in the spring; "Gobblins' Gallop" on Halloween; the Christmas "Snowball"; and the interdorm dance called the "Sweetheart Cotillion" on Valentine's Day.

Participation in services, art, music, and drama, public relations, scholarship, and intramurals committees plays an important part in the dormitory life. Such teams as basketball, bowling, billiards, and volleyball are active during the entire school year. Other activities highlight the dorm events. The 'Mac-Can-Haul" is the new dorm paper which keeps the girls informed about dorm and campus activities. Canfield also took part in "Religion in Life Week" by inviting guest speakers to discuss the topic of "Religion in Daily Life." With such a varied program as this, the dorm girls are never idle.

Singing is a favorite pastime in Canfield Hall and here we have the chorus tuning up a little bit.

One of the things that there is a minimum of in the dorm is privacy—need we say any more about it.

Mack Hall

Sandwiched between Oxley and Canfield Halls is Mack Hall, the home of about 240 girls. Variety and interest are added to this dormitory by the many foreign students living there.

The girls are self-governed by a House Council, composed of representatives elected from each of the four floors. News travels rapidly through the dormitory with each issue of the Mack-Canfield paper, which is published by the girls themselves. The paper is composed of news and announcements concerning campus and dormitory activities. Also included are amusing events which have occurred and are of interest to all the girls.

Social events for Fall Quarter included a joint Halloween party with Canfield Hall, in the Commons, and an informal Christmas dance with Canfield, held in Canfield Lounge.

Mack is an enthusiastic supporter of football, and ended the season with the Homecoming decoration there "Its in the Book". The dorm has its own intramural basketball, volleyball and softball team activities. The Hawaiian girls manage to keep everyone interested in the swimming team. These sports are constantly in the interest of the majority of the girls, as they continue to compete among themselves and with the other dorms.

Every Sunday after dinner, fifteen minute programs are presented by those girls who wish to display some of their talents. These programs, held in the lounge, are a great asset in strengthening unity in the dormitory.

The girls who live at Mack Hall don't study too much, they sit around havin' fun Ukulele style.

In the line of recreation again, we find a few of the dormitoryites listening to a corridor mate.

Neil Hall

One of the older dorms on the campus is Neil Hall. This dorm houses both girls in nurses training, and other under graduate students. The majority of the students are those in training since this dorm is so conveniently placed near the medical centers. Neil Hall is one of two dorms placed off the campus of the University.

As is similar with the other dorms, Neil provides itself with a great deal of social activity. During Winter Quarter, the biggest function was the Winter Formal, Dec. 5, called "The Starlight Ball." Many plans were made to make this dance one of great success for the girls and their dates. As was hoped for, success did come as the dance was well attended by a full crowd. Success was supplemented by a great turnout at a later "Sock-A-Lar" sock dance in the recreation room. What could be more fun than dancing in your stocking feet? Other activities during the year were centered on such events as open houses after the Dad's Day and Homecoming games.

There are big changes in store for Neil Hall and its residents. Such changes will come in the form of elections for new officers, redecoration of the rec room, and the coming of a new TV set. All of these things have been brought about by the hard work and enthusiasm of the girls concerned. With such enthusiasm as this, the dorm is brought closer together as a living unit. To complete the life of the dorm, is the Neil Hall newspaper called the "Neil Spiel". This publication brings to the girls all of the news in and outside of the dorm.

Oxley Hall

Oxley Hall is just now getting settled after having moved from the River Road Dormitories early in Fall Quarter. The girls all were anxious to move into Oxley and their eagerness was well rewarded. The entire dorm was completely refinished and redecorated before the girls moved in. This included the installation of a sprinkler system for safeguard against fire, fresh paint throughout the dorm, and refinished floors. Some of the large rooms were partitioned so that more rooms were available for the River Road group. This new home has made the girls feel more like a part of the campus. They are also closer in communication with the other womens dormitories. Because it seemed so much like a new dorm, Oxley gals began new dorm life by playing host at a successful Open House for all of those interested in this "new home."

It didn't take these Oxley girls long to get into the swing of things. With much ingenuity and hard work, they entered the Inner-Dorm variety show and walked off with the first prize. Sixteen girls were a part of the prize-winning skit which predicted 150 years into the future. After this eventful evening, the dorm celebrated by having an enthusiastic party! Exchange dinners with the Stadium dorm clubs have helped the Oxley ladies get acquainted with dorm men. Inter-dorm dances have also helped in bringing the women's dorms closer together. Plans for next year include an informal inter-dorm dance held in the Commons—between Oxley, Mack and Canfield.

Several of the girls who live in River Road can now enjoy all the comforts of home here in Oxley Hall.

What to bid is the problem we have here as the girls take time out from studying for a short game of bridge.

Westminster Hall

Westminster Hall is set up as individualistic in comparison with the other dorms on campus. This dormitory as supported by the Presbyterian Church, is the only dorm that houses girls from out of the state. Therefore, the majority of the girls living there are from a select group of out-of-towners. Being supported by the Presbyterian Church it holds no restrictions, for girls of all faiths may live there. The dorm council consists of Jere Peffer, president; Lena Futhey, vice-president; Emily Bazley, secretary; and Marg Harbaugh, treasurer.

The dorm has shone with activities this year. Socially the "Club 52" dance went over with much success. Attired in "dressy dresses", the girls and their dates danced to the music of Sammy Bowen and his music-makers. Within the dorm, the girls find various dinners very appetizing! These dinners come under such names as The Strawberry Dinner, Birthday Party, and Graduation Dinner in honor of graduating seniors.

Remodeling has come about for Westminster. The girls now have a rec room with an assortment of recreational devices. These included a new TV set that the dorm itself bought, ping-pong tables, and even a gas stove, that gives "homey" touch to the room. To complete the picture of excitement was the appearance of "Inky", a temporary pet dog who was soon given away because of his very much assorted home life.

What could be better than making pop-corn on the hearth? Why it is just like home!

It is dinner time and are we ever hungry! The food looks good enough to eat!

Ann Tweedle House

The Ann Tweedale House presents the only example of a different type of living for girls on campus. Here, the girls find themselves involved in a cooperative plan of living while they are in school. All of the duties involved in keeping any house are before the occupants of the Ann Tweedale House. The main purpose of the house is to help financially, those girls who are willing to live together and share the household duties. This small group of not more than thirteen girls or so, finds it not only a duty but a pleasure to cook their own meals, clean house, and complete other such "chores" that make this home like their own home.

Along with having an enjoyable life in their "home away from home", the girls of the Ann Tweedale house find time for many social events. Such events take shape in the form of exchange dinners with other groups, house parties, and picnics, and other such outdoor events, later in the school year. Also, at such momentus occasions as Golddiggers', the girls plan a lovely dinner for their dates.

Alumni Scholarship House

The 28 girls of the Alumnae Scholarship House have been busy all year trying to get those "Four Points", but not too busy to forego digging up dates for weekend doings. Fall quarter was the big Homecoming reception for alumnae of the house. To end the quarter with all the festive spirit of the season the girls held their annual Christmas Formal in the gaily decorated Club House of the University Golf Course. They gave their dates copper beer mugs as favors. The girls showed their dates a big time Winter quarter in their celebration of Golddiggers. They had a steak dinner at the House, put on skits, and campaigned for their own king whom they crowned before they all went to the dance. Spring quarter was highlighted by the Strawberry Festival with all the strawberries you could eat; and the Hotel Party (a legal one that is).

ASH welcomed a new house mother, Mrs. Edna Desmond who was a great help in making the year a success. January 18 a tea was held in her honor.

Baker Hall

Baker Hall stands as the largest dorm on the campus. Here, several years ago, the girls of Ohio State University took over what was originally a men's dorm. Since that time, Baker Hall has been so organized that it functions as a closely knit living unit.

A varied and interesting social agenda is a constant part of the dorm life. Fall quarter, a dance is held in the dining room. Regularly, chocolate hours, teas and special dinners are held. For instance, Christmas means an elaborate dinner for all of the girls. In February, a birthday dinner is held, with each girl giving a penny for each year of her age. This money is then contributed to some worthy organization in the city. During Fall Quarter, open houses are held on such occasions as Homecoming, and Christmas at which time visitors have the opportunity to view the lounges which each corridor decorates in a highly competitive manner.

Freshman Council sponsored two parties for underprivileged children. Girls from the dorm went to the Detention Home, to entertain the girls there. Other interesting notes come from the fact that a television was rented during the inauguration. This event brought about the purchase of a set for the dorm with the aid of the university.

Baker further proves its active life through its participation in inter-dorm parties and dances. These events are greatly publicized through posters made by Baker girls.

This is the craziest card game we ever did see — first time we ever saw two people on one hand.

Here's where the rec room gets good use—Nedra Schermer gives us a little "Goodnight Sweetheart."

Stadium Dorms

This year the dorm area of the Stadium has increased by two clubs. To last year's four clubs—Tower, Buckeye, Stadium, and Ohio—have been added two clubs under the names of Scioto and Olentangy. Within each of these groups are about 100 fellows, making up a sum total of approximately 600 men now living in the Stadium Dormitories. Although each club has its own officers, the dormitory as a whole is governed by a council made up of the following members: Nick Merrill, president; Dick Dudley, vice president; Ralph Dye, treasurer.

Stadium Dorms have come along quite well this year in the social world. During Fall Quarter, a semi-formal dance was held in the Union. The crowd was even better than the dorm boys expected! A gala event was in store as the fellows and their girls danced to the music of "The Four Jacks and a Jill". Throughout the year mixer dances have held with various dorms in the Stadium rec room. The fellows have also had monthly exchange dinners with various groups of girls from the dormitories.

Within the dorm, there have been inter-club activities such as basketball, pinochle, and ping-pong tournaments. On the campus itself, the fellows have been proud to claim an undefeated push-ball team for about two years. The good humor of the men has been heightened by the redecoration of some of the clubs. New tile floors and repainting is the beginning of new, comfortable living.

These guys of the Stadium Club are intrigued by these characteratures which will hang in their recreation room.

COUNCIL OF DORM PRESIDENTS
FIRST ROW: Merrill, Honacker, Schulte, Dudley.

Council of Dormitory Presidents

As a group, the Council of Dorm Presidents is comprised of the presidents of seven campus dorms. Acting as advisors are Katherine Hopwood and Al Hidepole from the Deans' offices. The purpose of this organization is to discuss any problems that lie within the different dorms. A supplement purpose is to bring the dorms closer together. Accordingly, different inner-dorm committees are formed, through the work of this council. These committees work together in promoting the various activities and functions that involve all of the dorms. The social committee plans banquets throughout the year. Included in these banquets are the Activity and Scholarship dinners held in honor of dorm students outstanding in these lines.

University House Assembly

The University House Assembly is a meeting committee at which the presidents of the various University Houses can come together in order to discuss their common problems. This organization was formed as a committee of the Women's Self Government Association. It serves as a link between the University House residents, WSGA, and the Office of the Dean of Women. The group also finds it advantageous to discuss vital campus affairs that they can announce to the University House girls.

Along with the serious side of the Assembly life, is one of fun and frolic. This can be emphasized further by the Christmas party preceding the holidays, that the WSGA Standards Commission sponsored for the group.

From all over the United States, from every part of Ohio, from the capital city itself we have come to receive the benefit of a University training and to learn the lessons of self-dependence and independence. We trod the Oval paths in all weather, nodded to sleep in classrooms, worked together on the various and sundry projects presented by instructors, cheered ourselves hoarse in the stadium, and argued among ourselves about philosophies of life we are forming. Once we were freshmen and the number of us was awe-inspiring — now we are graduating and so many of the number are friends to be remembered . . .

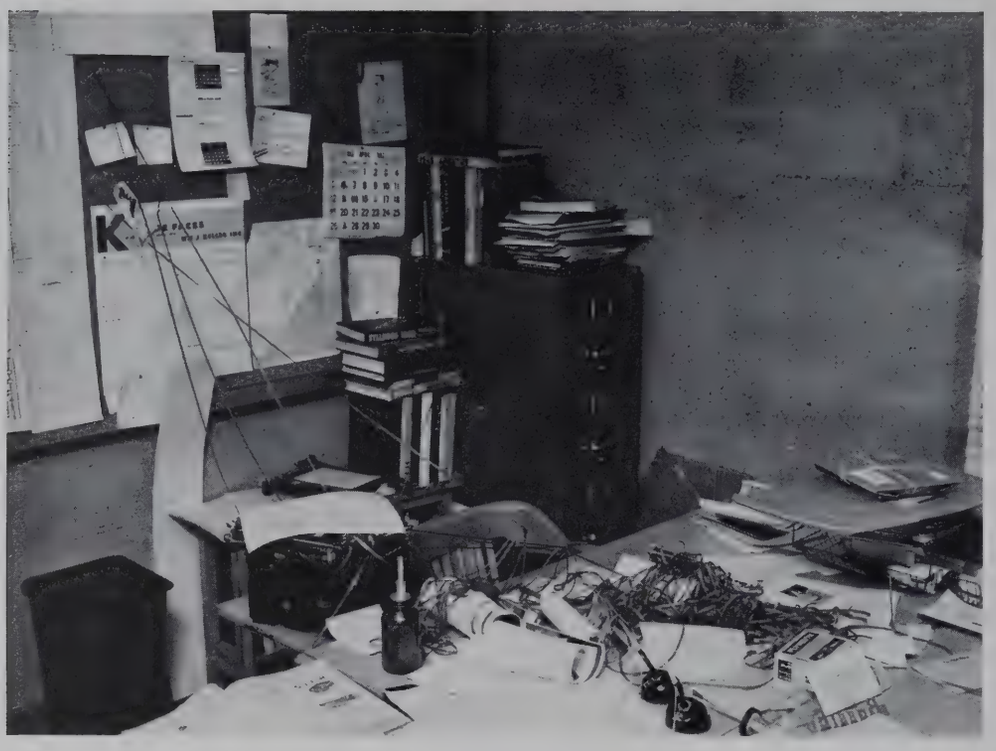
Compliments from the Bachelors' Club

Harpo Gordon, Jerry Golub, Mel Pearlman and Stan Schneider spent evening studying for finals.

Compliments

Friends



The big job is ended and the Editor leaves his desk in a maze of unused recording tape, photographs, and copy.

The Last Word

The Editor and his book — whether or not it is his book or creation, he feels that it is his book. The book sends its roots to the ends of his body and to the depths of his mind. It becomes an inescapable, constant companion.

At first the new Editor is filled with pride along with a sense of responsibility, but soon that pride turns into frustration. Oh, to be free of the monster. Nevertheless, here it is, the book for you to casually glance through, seeing in words and pictures what you have done in the past year. This is as it should be.

As you look at the book more carefully, you see that it isn't the Editor's book. It's your book. Perhaps you even worked on it by identifying a group picture, signing a contract, filling out a data sheet, or by even waiting a half hour for a photographer. This book could not be put together by one person or even five. There were two hundred freshman, thirty sophomores and five juniors on the staff that put out this Makio — photographers, typists, filers, pasters, and stamp lickers.

But the Editor's mind is not left with clear thoughts about production schedules, major difficulties, or the book itself, but it is left with a maze of abstract impressions — the cold Spring night when five people found themselves to be the new staff, the Lake Shore Drive on a trip to the Chicago engraver, the Summer's search for a good meal in Columbus, the football field in a misty rain, the sleepless nights and the sleep in classes, the face of a watch and the pica rule, the express office at the train depot, the dateless Saturday nights, and the format of the student directory. And then there is also the memory of the people — Mel, with his promotion ideas and recording tape; Dinny, who fell to a Victor; Bobbie, who laughed at trouble and learned to hate photographers; and Barb, with her complex of not remembering if she locked the safe.

That last deadline is here — those last details are finished. That last picture has been taken — that last write-up has been written. No more weeks without studying for us and no more late nights in the Union. But this Makio belongs to you, not the Ohio State University, but you, the students of the Ohio State University.
